Proxmire Suggests Possibilities

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon's budget, already described as pared to the bone, is faced with demands of up to $10 billion in further cuts as the defense spending debate shifts to the Senate.

The first attempted cutback is likely to come early next week when the Senate considers the military procurement bill for hardware such as the antiballistic missile, big bombers, giant jet transports, offensive missiles and bigger tanks.

The Senate Armed Services Committee, releasing the procurement bill Wednesday, cut the Nixon administration's $20 3 billion hardware request, approved by the House, to $19 2 billion.

Dollar Level

The bill is one of a series of measure that comprise the Defense Department's budget for this fiscal year. The total amount requested by the administration is 71 2 billion.

Sen John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, called the House-approved hardware bill austere and "the lowest possible dollar level consistent with the necessity for providing for our national survival."

However, Sen William Proxmire, D-Wis., leader of the Pentagon spending critics, declared, "More needs to be done."

He presented a 100-page detailed report of his group outlining some $10 billion in cuts and a redefinition of national security aims.

The Proxmire group's proposals would cut $5 billion for hardware and an equal amount for manpower

ABM Research

The proposed cuts would reduce the ABM to research levels, halt work on the B1 bomber, antisubmarine aircraft, F14 and F15 fighter programs, and restrict Navy shipbuilding, including destroyers

The additional $5 billion could be saved, the critics said, by reducing the U.S. military manpower level by 1 million men to 2.5 million. They called for a reduction in U.S. troop strength in Europe from 300,000 to 100,000 men and in Korea from 50,000 to 30,000

Essentially, the Stennis committee endorsed the basic components of the Pentagon's hardware requests, trimming only the edges of the programs and scuttling none.

In rounding out their proposed cutbacks, meanwhile, Senate critics planned to look into such grander questions as the "blue water" concept—the future reliance on improved polaris-type submarines to achieve a nuclear stalemate. The critics consider the subs invulnerable.

This year, they plan to offer an amendment to cut the entire $686 million for installing multiple independently targeted reentry vehicles (MIRVs) on ground-based Minutemen.

The first debate next week probably will be over the Safeguard antiballistic missile system.

Draft Everyone At Age of 18, Educator Says

Hayakawa Speaks At Hearings on Campus Unrest

WASHINGTON — San Francisco State College President S. I. Hayakawa, characterizing the younger generation as bored and immature, has suggested both men and women be compelled to serve two or three years federal duty beginning at age 18 to curb campus unrest.

Hayakawa advanced the proposal Wednesday at the opening hearing of the President's Commission on Campus Unrest.

The no-nonsense administrator's comments contrasted with those of five other witnesses who declared the roots of dissent—and not the dissenters—required remedial action.

They warned the campus uproar will continue as long as the war does.

Total Commitment

University of Michigan President Robben Fleming declared the commission should recommend first and foremost "an unwavering, completely credible, and rapidly implemented commitment to end the presence of our troops in Vietnam."

Fleming and others also touched upon other external problems which they said contribute to campus disorders such as the unnecessary use of police and National Guardsmen.

But Hayakawa, who noted he hasn't hestitated to call police onto his campus, disagreed with the others' views of student activists as sincere, well-informed and worthy of a greater role in society.

The get-tough administrator suggested two or three years in the "real world," would make young persons more likely to return to the campus with "a clear-cut purpose in mind.

Older Students

"Students over 22, over 32, over 52 are almost always our best students," he said. "The young are bored. The bored student is social dynamite Bright students.. have been the principal troublemakers."

Commissioner Erwin D Canham, editor-in-chief of Christian Science Monitor, drew a burst of applause from the gallery when he asked Hayakawa: "Whose fault is that—the students or their administrators?"

Hayakawa said it was the fault of the middle class for viewing college attendance as necessary.

Hayakawa also called for an immediate end to student draft deferments.

Three Slain By Gunman at Auto Plant

Disgruntled Worker Held for Questioning In Detroit Deaths

DETROIT (AP) — An auto worker said by a union official to have resented his replacement on a job assignment by a colleague with less seniority was held for questioning today in the fatal shooting of three men in the Chrysler Corp. axle plant.

James Johnson, 35, who had been suspended earlier in the day for insubordination, was arrested after two foremen and a production worker were shot down Wednesday with an M-1 carbine.

The victims were Hugh Jones, 43, and Gary Heinz, 32, foremen involved in the suspension, and Joseph Kowalski, 53, who was hit by a bullet while trying to subdue the gunman.

Johnny Moffett, chief steward of United Auto Workers union Local 931, said he saw the man shoot one person and ran to him saying "I was a union representative—I wanted to help him, not to hurt him."

Moffett said the man "pointed the gun at me and pulled the trigger" but that there was only a click because the weapon apparently was empty. Moffett said the man told him he was angry because a man with less time on the payroll had taken over his work assignment.

The union official said he escorted the gunman to a gate and turned him over to a company guard.

Auto worker Edward Lacey said he witnessed the shooting of Jones, the first to die as the gunman ran through the plant firing the rifle.

"He was standing right over him, pumping bullets into him," Lacey said. "He was going to make sure he was dead."

Middling Funding Policy on Cambodia Advised by Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Armed Services Committee has endorsed U.S. financing of South Vietnamese raids into Cambodia, while forbidding the use of Pentagon funds to bolster the Phnom Penh government.

The in-between policy was recommended Wednesday by the Senate as part of a $19.2 billion military authorization bill, but it may be a month before the Indochina aspects of the legislation reach a vote.

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., the committee chairman, said the situation may change drastically by then. He left open the possibility his panel might reconsider the issue to take into account any changed conditions later in the summer.

Reasonable Chance

At the State Department, meanwhile, Secretary of State William P. Rogers said immediate prospects for a peace settlement in South Vietnam "are not too bright. . ."

But he also said, "I have always felt, and I still feel, that there is a reasonable prospect that you can end this war by a negotiated settlement."

That reversed the emphasis of a statement he made in London Sunday.

Rogers said for the next two months or so, the aftermath of U.S. and South Vietnamese operations in Cambodia had lessened the prospects for successful negotiations. But he said over the long run, action against the Communist sanctuaries in Cambodia had increased settlement changes.

Allied Forces

The Armed Services Committee proposal provides a basis in law for U.S. financial support of future Cambodian sanctuary operations by South Vietnam and its allies.

The bill authorizes up to $2.5 billion for support of South Vietnamese and allied forces, and for aid to local forces in Laos and Thailand.

"There is no intent to broaden the authorization beyond the support of participation in border sanctuary and related operations in order to protect U.S. forces in Vietnam or to accomplish protective reaction strikes," the committee said in its report on the bill.

"The purpose of the clarification is to make clear that the use of defense funds is authorized for support in those areas of Cambodia where for the purposes of Vietnamization or the protection of U S troops military action becomes necessary," the committee said.

"There is no intent to permit Department of Defense appropriations under this authority to support Vietnamese and other free world forces in actions designed to provide military support and assistance to the Cambodian government."

The Senate earlier adopted an amendment including a ban against U S financial support of foreign forces which might move into Cambodia to support the government there.

Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., one of the sponsors of that amendment, said the committee's terms seemed to be in line with it. "They move toward our amendment," he said.

A House-Senate conference committee began Wednesday its efforts to work out a compromise on the foreign military sales legislation which includes the Cambodian amendment.

It got nowhere, and agreed to try again next Tuesday.

Six Companies

Antipollution Suits Given Go-Ahead

By MARK BROWN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department has given the go-ahead, under guidelines criticized as too restrictive by members of Congress, to antipollution suits against six firms and a municipality.

U.S. attorneys will be authorized to invoke the Refuse Act of 1899 against five polluters in Bridgeport, Conn., the city of Bridgeport and a chemical firm in Cleveland, Ohio, a Justice Department source said Wednesday.

He would not name the firms.

Injunctions, rather than criminal penalties of up to $2,500 in fines and one year in prison, will be sought because the department believes "the injunctions are the things that will help the environment, not the fines," the source said.

Legal Action

The approval for the suits came as Rep. Richard Ottinger, D-N.Y., threatened to take legal action against the Justice Department unless it began enforcing the 71-year-old Refuse Act.

The law prohibits dumping "any refuse matter of any kind or description" into navigable waters or their tributaries. The only exemption is sewage.

The source of Ottinger's ire, and that of a number of conservation groups backing him in the threatened action, is a set of guidelines for use of the statute sent out June 15 by the Justice Department to all U.S. attorneys.

The guidelines prohibit the attorneys from taking action against polluters without department approval if the polluter is involved in proceedings with the Federal Water Quality Administration or state or local water pollution control agencies, and if the polluter is a

Killed in Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — Army Sgt. Leroy E. Thelen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Reynold P. Thelen, route 1, Glenbeulah, Wis., has been killed in action in Southeast Asia, the Pentagon said Wednesday.

Teen-Agers Make 'Clean Sweep' Of Trashy Mess

LOS ALTOS, Calif. (AP) — Concerned about the "trashy mess the country is in," Lyn Carvell, 13, has started a teenage "clean sweep" litter cleanup campaign

Her club, which has a membership of 15 teen-agers, has swarmed twice across this San Francisco Peninsula city's parking lots and curb areas not reached by street sweepers, filling some 20 to 30 gunny sacks each time.

Now she is organizing four other similar sized clubs for a permanent patrol of "Vigilant Youths Combating Crumby Conditions."

"I'm very encouraged by all the help, cooperation and interest," she said Wednesday. "But it just goes to show you how many kids are concerned about the mess we're in."

The city is cooperating by unloading the gunny sacks and disposing of the debris.

Lyn, an eighth grader, said her father, Fred Carvell, an educational consultant and writer, has "given me a lot of encouragement. But this is something I have to do myself."

Madison Strip Joint Challenge

Bared Bodies Agitate for Court Test

BY TIM WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON — They're drinking jungle juice to the accompanyment of bouncing breasts and bare bottoms in the shadow of the capitol dome.

Customers are paying premium prices for the soft stuff as Madison's most - famed strip joint reopened its doors Wednesday without a liquor license in a push to force a federal court case over a girl's right to bare her body.

They are lining up around the block waiting for a chance to get into the go-go joint just as the kids used to line up to see "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs."

But the dancers aren't Snow White and there wasn't a dwarf in sight

Push for Arrest

Almost everything else was on public display, however, as the owners of The Dangle pushed Madison's city government toward arrest over the right of a nightclub operator to present the kind of entertainment at least a portion of the public obviously wants.

"Do you like it?" shouted one of the topless hostesses between acts.

"Yes!" roared back the crowd.

"Do you want more?" she asked

"Yes!" echoed the customers.

And The Dangles owners, who brought the nudity issued to a head last spring by offering bottomless dancing, obviously intend to give them more

Cover Up Ordinance

After Dangle owners Al and Tom Reichenberger started presenting dancers who bared all to paying customers, the city fathers responded by passing a coverup go-go ordinance which requires dancers to wear the equivalent of a bikini

Bottoms still dropped at The Dangle, and it lost its liquor license as a consequence, mainly as a result of demands from Madison Mayor William Dyke.

Wednesday the Dangle reopened, offering soft drinks and coffee served in beer schooners because city officialdom had written its go-go law to apply only to places with liquor licenses

Because the city's obscenity ordinance covers youths 17 and under, many in the crowd bore the fresh-faced bloom of youth as the Dangle opened its doors to anyone 18 and over willing to pay for the tiny Tootsie Roll they were handed at the door.

Theater License

That move may have sidestepped the requirement of a theater license, applied to places demanding a cover charge

Advertising that people who dislike nudity should stay away, Dangle owners have set themselves up for a classic federal court case if they are arrested

There wasn't a pasty to be seen in the first show, and G-strings slipped more than once as three dancers gyrated across the stage

The less-than-impromptu performance of an amateur dancer, who dropped her jeans, blouse and bra to finish her dance clad in panties, love beads and crucifix, added the legal question of nonprofessional's right to take off her clothes as well.

Watching were scores of those who could not have been admitted if the 21-year-old liquor law still prevailed

Taking it all in were a couple of candidates for district attorney, a police inspector, a member of the Madison Police and Fire Commission, at least one alderman and the line that lasted long into the night

Fall Fashions Mirror Crisis Torn Italy

BY MARY WITT
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

If fashion mirrors the times, then the Italians must be taking their sagging economy and unstable government seriously, so seriously that they've designed this year's fall and winter collections in a fit of depression.

Ever since the couturier showings opened Friday in Rome, leg men have had to content themselves with a glimpse of the lower calf and the well turned ankle as designers seek refuge in the hemlines of bygone eras and faraway lands.

Antonelli boasts the shortest collection with skirts ending just below the knee. From there it's all downhill for his compatriots who've gone so far as to show hemlines grazing the ankles for daytime wear.

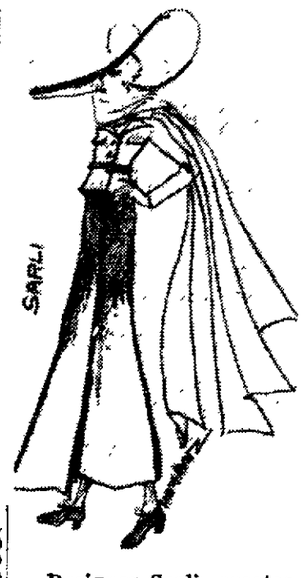
Colors also reflect the somber mood of the country. Brown, black, white, mauve are the rule, with exceptions such as the bright, spirit lifting magentas, blues and reds of Mila Schon's collection receiving grateful applause.

As if afraid of what the future might hold, Italian designers are stepping backward into the Seventies. They've revived the Forties, the Fifties, the nineteenth century and drawn upon the American West, the Orient and the Gypsy cultures of Middle Europe to create what can only be described as the kind of escapist fare that would look strange on twentieth century streets.

Perhaps sensing an impending disaster, American buyers have stayed away in droves, depressing Italian designers even more. The tendency is to attribute the feeble showing first to tight money in the States and then to consumer reluctance to follow the dictates of European couture.

Just what the wealthy American could buy, if she had the inclination, is revealed below in excerpts from on-the-scene reports by Associated Press writer, Jean Contini.

"Girl of the Golden West" — that's the name Ognibene - Zendman bestowed on this purple wool midi showing the fluted hem of a matching skirt.



Designer Sarli creates an extra-long midi - suit worn with a big-brimmed felt picture hat trailing jersey scarves. At right, Forquet presented this outfit all in brown consisting of a wool cape worn over a matching midi dress. Accessories are in suede.

Mila Schon

Though based on a wedding of Japanese and Chinese costumes, Mila Schon's fall and winter collection is more in the spirit of the Orient than a literal translation.

Many coats were wrapped like kimonos and had unmounted wide sleeves. And both dresses and tunics often had diagonal side-closed detail or the semicircular yokes of Chinese robes. But if you took away the platter-sized coolie hats that dramatized the Oriental theme, you had polished Western chic.

The silhouette was slim, gliding easily over the figure. The length was approximately mid-calf. Almost half the collection was devoted to pants ensembles.

Nearly every group drew applause, and there were shouts of "bravo" at the end of the showing as Miss Schon appeared in tears on the runway.

Part of her success may have been due to the impact of her colors after all the muted plums, browns and grays of other collections. She combined black and white with a vivid Bristol blue, Ming turquoise with black or brown, a lacquer red cape over a black suit. And there were pants costumes in bright magenta.

The show-stopper was a sparkling white kimono printed in vague big pink butterflies over a fluid slim pink sleeveless gown with a giant pink satin butterfly appliqued on one hip.

Capucci

Roberto Capucci's collection shown against the Renaissance arches of Rome's 16th century Valle Giulia came as close to poetry as fashion can come.

It was all float and flow, evoking images of such classic young heroines as Juliet and Ophelia, Eloise or Melissande. With few exceptions, these dresses were fitted through the rib cage falling in a soft wide sweep to the ankles.

He showed suede boots or silk shoes with crushed fabric gaiters in colors that matched the dresses with very effective results.

The colors were delicate and delicious. A whole gamut of rose, rust, peach, apricot, plum, coral, pink were combined with great imagination.

Carosa

Carosa made her own interpretations of nostalgic Chanel themes in a collection of considerable charm.

One can't help associating with Chanel prim white collared school girl black dresses, little felt hats with wide brims turned up in front, delicate tiered cocktail dresses of crisp lace or filmy organza.

As to lengths, Carosa's midi is a hand-span above the ankle. In heavier wool coat and skirt costumes, the diminutive mannequins looked swallowed up. Which proves that women must look carefully at their own proportions when buying new longer skirts this fall.

Lancetti

Boyars, Magyars, Romanians, fin de siecle Chekhovian ladies, gauchos and mandarins paraded through a dramatic collection by Lancetti.

It was a folklore feast in splendid embroideries and fascinating prints.

There were no bare arms or legs or throats here.

Fabiani

Fabiani has brought the pyramid coat that made him famous up to date. It was a key item in his fall and winter collection.

The new version, exquisitely tailored as might have been expected, was midi length with controlled bias fullness in back.

There also were straight slim pants ensembles with fingertip capes in menswear worsted with panne velvet shirts.

Galitzine

Madame Butterfly, glimpsed here and there in previous Italian showings, was the dominating influence Monday night at the collection of Irene Galitzine.

Galitzine's solution to the problem of proportion was tunic improvisation and the tunic is always important in periods of transition.

Midis hit midcalf, but there were more pants with tunics or jackets than dresses for street wear.

Valentino

Not conceding a thing to inflation, Valentino paraded furs, feathers, jewels and swirls of sumptuous silks Wednesday night in what many buyers called his most luxurious collection to date.

"He forgot the Dow-Jones average," commented Sidney Gitler of Ohrbach's. He estimated it must have cost Valentino $400,000 to assemble his fall and winter line.

Valentino's daytime length reached midcalf, considerably shorter than the ankle-sweeping maxis he showed last spring. Coats were fitted and flared with hood and hem bordered in snow leopard on white, matching fox on beige, pearl gray, greige or brown double-faced wools.

With these went soft suede boots, which in pale neutrals looked made for stepping out of a Rolls-Royce.

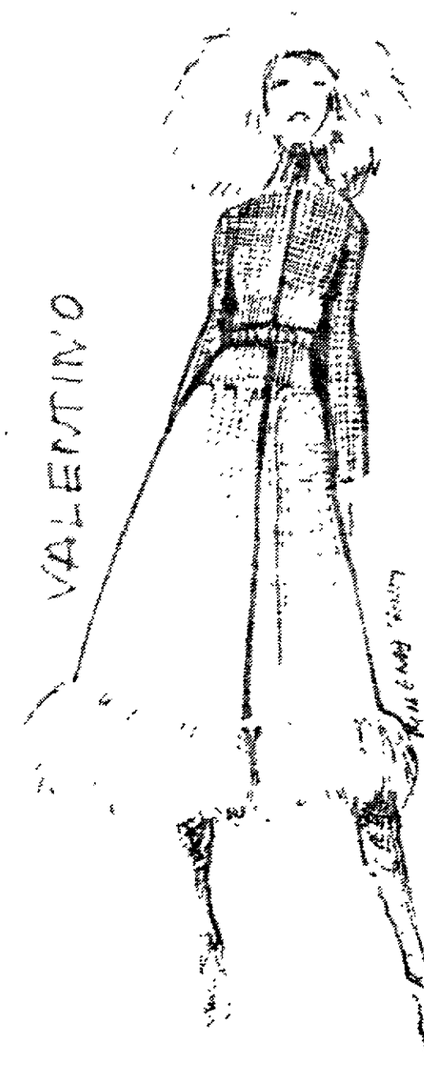
Fine detailing, a Valentino signature, consisted of pointed vertical slot seams or tiny rows of shirring to define midriffs. These gave a lifted appearance to the waistlines as did midriff insets framed in welt seams.

Valentino showed no knickers nor long pants as did most other designers.

The hooded theme was carried into evening in magnificent printed wool or supple velvet coats over floating full-skirted dresses of twin print georgette. The pattern, a melange of brown, red mauve, pink and gold, looked Chinese. But the effect was somehow Middle Eastern.

There was much black for late day—velvet, broadcloth, pin-dotted chiffon, crepe - back satin. One of the black stars was a slim Victorian dinner suit, ruched at neck, hip and hem with taffeta rosettes.

Nearly three fourths of the collection was shown with boots, either plain suede or suede with snakeskin trim and heels for day. The evening boot was satin with beaded heels and a beaded medallion on the vamp, in colors to match the clothes.



Russian Princesses in hooded coats bordered in fox or snow leopard, with pale suede boots—that's how Valentino sees women in his collection for fall and winter 1970. (AP Wirephotos)

Tile Windowsills For Flower Display

Windowsills covered with ceramic tiles make practical and decorative shelves for household plants, according to the Tile Council of America. Because ceramic tile is waterproof and stain-resistant, it's ideal for flowerpots and planters. And with the abundance of tile colors, patterns and shapes from which to choose, a ceramic-tiled windowsill gives plants and flowers the decorative showplace they deserve.

The couple gretted guests at Pleasant View, Bear Creek.

They will reside in Fayetteville, North Carolina.

Washable Fabrics Ease Housekeeping

The houseboat is the "in" boat for those who love the water and the carefree life.

It's carefree because housekeeping is cut to a minimum. Houseboaters use sturdy, washable fabrics like denim and duck as bunk bed covers and porthole curtains. Another favorite is the colorful Inidan print cotton spread, used for bed throws and cabin divider curtains.

As for any other furnishings, the simpler the better is the rule on a boat. Take along roll-up quilted cotton sleeping bags when sleeping space is limited. Bags can be spread out on deck in fine weather.

Stews Do Great Job in Spite of Rudeness

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS Now that you've befriended the mailmen, the meter readers, the night janitors and the data processors, how about a kind word for the stewardesses?

I am a stewardess who speaks for hundreds of girls who work as hard as any group of females in the world Our major gripes are as follows

(1) The passenger who comes aboard with a wig box, a makeup case, six dresses in a hang-up bag, a satchel of books and gifts, a steam iron and collapsible ironing board plus as much duty-free liquor as the law allows

(2) The passenger who throws his coat at you the minute he enters the plane

(3) The passenger who flies the same route every week and shrieks when he sees the same meal.

(4) The passenger who is unhappy because the stew can't look out the window and pinpoint "where are we now?" This usually occurs at night in the middle of the Atlantic Ocean

(5) The passenger who becomes annoyed when he is refused a third drunk, even though the stew has told him three times it's against government regulations

Landers

Print this please. We'd be ever so grateful — A Fly Girl

Dear Girl: As one who flies often I can attest to the fact that most stews do a great job in spite of the rudeness and lack of consideration they encounter daily. Almost every stew I have talked with enjoys her job immensely and says the nice people are in the majority and that they make up for the jerks

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband sells insurance He must make evening calls. Some of his clients are widows, divorcees and women whose husbands travel. I never gave this much thought until my neighbor asked me some questions — such as, "Do you know where your husband is at all times? If you had to reach him, could you? Has he ever called you from a client's home to let you know where he is? Has he ever come at night too tired to make love?"

I always trusted my husband completely. Now I'm beginning to doubt him I've checked his shirts for makeup and perfume but I can find no evidence He does go out at least two evenings every week, however. What does this sound like to you? — On the Alert

Dear On: It sounds like your neighbor has a mouth that would make the Grand Canyon look like a buttonhole. Her questions are designed to raise doubts in your mind and make trouble.

Try turning things around and you may be reassured. For example, has your husband ever come home and found you too tired to make love? Well —.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I read the letter from the mother who was unhappy because her well-to-do son, who lives several hundred miles away, lets weeks pass without calling her. She was dying to hear his voice.

Well, my well-to-do son lives right in this town and I'm dying to hear his voice What's the matter with children today that they don't give a thought to their parents? We did without a good many things so our boy could go to a good school, and amount to something Now that he is a big success, he is too busy to pick up a phone and say, "Hello Mom, hello Dad, how are you?" Do parents have to die before their kids really appreciate them? — Idaho City Square

Dear I.C.S.: Not always. But usually.

What awaits you on the other side of the marriage veil? How can you be sure your marriage will work? Read Ann Landers' booklet "Marriage — What to Expect" Send your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self addressed envelope.

The Ailing House

Fireplace Requires Scrubbing

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q My fireplace hearth has become quite soiled from normal use. There are no food stains How can I clean it? — Norfolk A You'll need hands, knees, elbow grease hot water a stiff scrubbing brush and a good strong cleanser Keep a mopping cloth handy to wipe up stray splashes

Q: We have vinyl siding on our house which would look nicer if it weren't for some brown stains left by bugs. My wife washed them with a vinegar, ammonia and water solution but the stains still remain. What else could be tried? — Columbus.

A. Use stronger cleaner, but chiefly one with a slightly abrasive quality, not enough to risk scratching, of course. Rather, try a powder type, used thick enough so there's some "body" when it's rubbed on the stains And use a fairly coarse, rough type of cloth instead of a soft one.

Q As soon as the new roof was finished, the squirrels moved right back We can hear them between the first and second floor. As I did before. I will look for their entry. But when I do find it, how can we be sure we have them all out before we close it? — Buffalo

A: Best solution is to listen carefully. If silence reigns, close the entry, but not permanently; just enough to keep the others from getting back. Then listen some more If there's still no scrambling or other squirrel talk, chances are they've all left.

Keep Gloves White

To keep white gloves dazzling, wash frequently this quick and simple way Put the gloves on and rub in liquid detergent or a paste made of detergent mixed with a little water. Take the gloves off and roll up for 10 minutes — while you wash out hosiery Put gloves on again and finish cleaning by using hand washing motions. Rinse under running water, blot in towel and dry.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE

by IRA G. CORN JR.
TEAM CAPTAIN

The average player becomes rather uneasy when his trump suit has some holes He hates to be missing the queen, because no matter how he plays the suit, he always seems to lose a trick to that elusive card

Give him a trump suit that is missing both in the ace and the jack, and he is likely to become even more uncertain Actually, he will have more fun if he accepts the opportunity to solve the problem

Jim Jacoby of The Aces had a chance to display his dummy play skill in just such a hand recently

Opening lead. Queen of diamonds

Nowadays Jim Jacoby would open the South hand with an artificial one-club opening to show 17 or more high-card points He and his Ace partner, Bobby Wolff, play their own modified version of the "Blue Team Club" the Neapolitan bidding system that proved so successful for the Italians in the last dozen or so world championships Jacoby-Wolff call their system the "Orange Club."

However, when this hand was played, Jacoby and Wolff had not yet adopted the system.

As Jacoby studied the lead and the dummy, it was obvious that two diamond tricks would be lost and the key to the hand would be to find the jack of hearts and hold his trump losers to just one trick Jacoby set about to count the hand

He won the first diamond trick. East playing low. East decided not to unblock with his doubleton king as he could see no way in which Jacoby would be able to get rid of his losing diamonds.

Jacoby cashed his ace and queen of clubs and then his two top spades, followed by the king of clubs upon which he discarded a diamond Jacoby then ruffed a spade in the closed hand and exited with a diamond to East's king Notice Jacoby's phenomenal patience in not touching the trump suit It would soon produce a handsome reward

East on lead with the king of diamonds, played a fourth spade, but Jacoby countered this by discarding his last diamond East was now forced to play a club, which Jacoby ruffed West discarded his last diamond (He had previously discarded a diamond on East's fourth round of spades)

At this point, Jacoby had three trumps in his own hand and three in dummy. He decided it was time to play the suit! But first he pieced together information he had gathered about the other suits

He knew East had started with four spades, five clubs, and two diamonds. Therefore, East originally had two hearts and West three Every expert knows that whenever you are looking for a key card, you should always assume it is in the hand that originally had the greater length in the suit.

Since West had started with three hearts and East two it was to Jacoby's advantage to play West for the jack of hearts Accordingly, he played the king of hearts to West's ace, and, when West returned the suit, Jacoby finessed dummy's 10 to land a most delicately timed game contract.

More Men Succeed In Suicide Attempts

Eleven suicides per 100 000 population — a rate the same as 70 years ago — occur annually in the U S The rate is two and one-half to three times greater among men than women, and rises with age For each suicide, there are some eight cases of attempted suicide In addition, many of the annual 50,000 motor car deaths are suspected "autocides"

The higher rate for men, says Dr John Altrocchi of Duke University, is explainable by their preference for firearms, which are often effective Women, who seem to prefer swallowing pills, are often unaware of what constitutes a fatal dose, and may have time to reconsider. Attempts, however are almost three times more frequent among women

Persons contemplating suicide Dr Altrocchi adds, almost always give verbal warning

Arrest Made In Hijacking Of Tractors

FBI Apprehends Caledonia Man in September Incident

A Caledonia man was arrested by Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) agents Wednesday in connection with the hijacking 10 months ago of a trailerload of garden tractors from the Appleton terminal of Diamond Transportation Co.

Richard Lee Loppnow was arrested by special agents of the FBI in Caledonia after being indicated Tuesday by a federal grand jury in Milwaukee. He was charged with receiving and selling goods in excess of $5,000 that were stolen from interstate transportation.

The arrest followed an intensive 10-month search by FBI agents from Appleton, Racine and Milwaukee and by officials of the Outagamie County Sheriff's office. The trailer filled with J. I. Case Co. tractors and mowers was hijacked from the terminal Sept. 6, 1969, and was valued in excess of $40,000. Several pieces of the stolen equipment have been recovered.

Loppnow is a former employe of both J. I. Case and Diamond Transportation in Racine.

Edward J. Hayes, special agent in charge of the investigation from the FBI in Milwaukee, advised that William Carr, Whitewater, previously had been arrested for possessing goods stolen from the hijacked load. Hayes also stated that further arrests are contemplated.

Loppnow is free on bond awaiting arraignment in U. S. District Court in Milwaukee. Carr pleaded guilty to the offenses June 2, and a presentence investigation was ordered. He is free on bond awaiting sentencing.

Appleton in TV Proposal

State Board Offers Plan for 4-Station Wisconsin Network

The State Education Communications Board (ECB) proposed a new instructional television network Wednesday which would make Appleton one of the four stations in the project.

The board approval of a budget of more than $6.7 million had been expected after a month and a half of reviewing a budget originally prepared by ECB staff head Lee Franks. An estimated $3.1 million from the budget would finance the television project.

Beside Appleton, the proposal calls for stations in La Crosse, Eau Claire and Wausau and applications for federal funds.

The budget recommendations are subject to the approval of the governor-elect in 1971, the Coordinating Council for Higher Education, the 1971 Legislature's joint finance committee and the full Legislature.

The 1969 Legislature rejected funding for a similar TV network authorized by the 1967 Legislature.

The board appointed a three-man committee to check the possibility of including station WHA-TV in Madison in the proposed network.

Roy, Dale at Ease

Western Charm Inescapable

BY LILLIAN MACKESY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

It's easy to understand why people everywhere respond with favor (and sometimes fervor) to western stars Roy Rogers and his wife Dale Evans. This pair can turn a stuffy press conference into an informal party with all the flavor of a family reunion.

This they did early Wednesday evening in a reception room at Kahler Inn Towne with the help of host Michael (Mike) Burns, mentor of the Outagamie County Fair now going on at Seymour. The Rogers-Evans troupe opens the first of eight performances tonight at the fair.

Almost all of the troupe were there as a sort of family unit and before long, every member of the news media was an integral part of the get-together, chatting with the headliners as if they were all long-lost friends.

Ben and Margaret Smathers of the famous Stoney Mountain Cloggers had just arrived after a long drive from Nashville (their two youngsters already were heading for the motel pool). Tall and pleasant Lloyd Perryman, leader of the Sons of the Pioneers, was on hand. (He's the only remaining Pioneer who was with the group which formed in the summer of 1934 when Rogers, with the name Leonard Slye, was a member.

Genial W. Arthur Rush, known as Art, also was there. He is Rogers' manager of 32 years and, like the cowboy, an Ohio native, the fact which brought them together. (Rogers was born in Cincinnati and grew up on a farm near that southern Ohio city. Rush comes from Columbus.)

Except for handsome cowboy hats, it was hard to tell guest from performer. Talking in one corner was world champion fiddler Billy Armstrong, now with the Sons of the Pioneers. Across the room were the other Pioneers, busy with friendly talk. They were Dale Warren, Roy Lanham and Luther Nallie — all fine singers and excellent guitarists. (One member of the press learned how to get along faster with her mastery of a new mandola and mandolin.)

The meeting got down to a busy session of questions and answers with cowboy Roy and his charming Dale seated at a table next to a radio-tape recorder. What they really did was carry on a conversation prompted by the questions. They interrupted each other, laughed over memories together and helped each other out when the moment demanded it. (It was a fun session and seemed impossible for this youthful looking pair — Roy admitted to 59 years come November — to be grandparents 15 times over!)

Roy made it clear he did not like the way today's movies are going. He has great faith in America's young people, "the 99.44 per cent who are the good kids and who will be the ones to lead this country". He believes in giving a child love and attention, plus a definite discipline and example during the first seven or eight years of that child's life.

Strong Family Life

He and Dale believe firmly in a strong family life with religion an important part of it. They both think that western movies and country western songs have a place in Americana and should be preserved as history. As for the mini-style in clothes, Dale plumps for the woman to "do her thing" and wear her dresses where they are most comfortable and best looking. Roy says, "If you have pretty legs, show 'em. If you need a cover-up, then that's the thing to do."

Roy talked about his museum

Nuclear Plant At Point Beach To Get License

ARGONNE, Ill. (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission announced today plans to issue an operating license for the Point Beach Nuclear Plant near Manitowoc, Wis.

The license would allow Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. and Wisconsin Electric Power Co. to operate Unit I at the plant which is on Lake Michigan about 30 miles southeast of Green Bay.

The facility—which will have two units when completed—will use a steam system to generate almost one million kilowatts of electricity.

Petitions seeking to intervene in the licensing process may be filed during the next 30 days. The AEC's regulatory staff will make a final inspection before the license is granted.

City Receives Aid for Police Communications

KAUKAUNA — A check for $1,091 for purchase of a communication system for the police department has been received by the city from the State of Wisconsin Department of Justice, according to Mayor Gilbert Anderson.

The grant covers full cost of the equipment and was made possible through the federal Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act. To qualify for such aid, the city must be part of a regional plan and this was developed by the Fox Valley Council of Governments, thus making it possible for the city to continue to upgrade its police department, noted Mayor Anderson.

"The Council of Governments has proved to be one of our most effective and important means of qualifying for state and federal aids not only in the police area, but in many other areas of city improvement," said Anderson. The city qualified for full aid on the communication system as amount of purchase was under $2,000, according to a letter accompanying the grant.

Tougher County Ordinances

Senate Investigators Urge Local Rock Fest Control

BY FERN SMITH
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

IOLA — A special State Senate committee to investigate the Iola Rock Festival made an on-site visit to the scene Wednesday, took five hours of testimony, and then voted to urge local adoption of the attorney general's model ordinance to prevent this kind of situation.

Sen. Gerald Lorge, R-Bear Creek, served as chairman of the committee which consisted of members of the Senate Committee on Labor, Taxation, Insurance and Banking.

In a terse explanation of the purpose of the investigation, Lorge said (at the end of the session):

"We are here to learn about this and determine if any legislation is needed to shut out future rock festivals.

"It now appears that we have adequate laws and people on the County Boards who don't use or enforce these laws."

Local Enforcement

He suggested that County Board members go back to their counties, read the existing laws, adopt an ordinance and spend money for law enforcement.

"Don't pass the buck to us," he said. "We are here to learn. We all need to cooperate in this problem and it appears obvious that local authorities can stop rock festivals by not issuing permits, or by turning it over to the state," Lorge concluded.

The fact that the solution to the problem must come from the counties and cities themselves by adopting the proper ordinances was substantiated by Atty. Gen. Robert Warren.

He proposed, as most constructive, a new licensing ordinance, which has been sent to the corporation counsels, district attorneys and county boards this week.

The other alternative, he explained, is the adoption of a tough zoning ordinance by counties, villages and towns which would give them the muscle to move in fast with injunctions and deal with the promoters.

He pointed out again that the responsibility to control rock fests in advance has to be within the local units of government.

Two Questions

There were two questions that the 150 persons attending the investigation at the Iola High School, including legislators, county board members, law enforcement people and citizens, wanted answered.

Why weren't arrests made on the site June 26, 27, and 28 when the "People's Fair" was in progress?

What can be done to prevent another rock festival here and in the State of Wisconsin?

The committee members all admitted to "being appalled" at the remains of the fest still at the site.

They wanted to know if the State Health Department had seen the condition of the 200 acres, if the state narcotics agents were around, why the National Guard was not called out, and who was going to clean up the mess.

There were two explanations

COG Adopts Sewerage Plan

Definite Commitments Avoided

BY ARLEN BOARDMAN
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MENASHA — Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG) officials avoided any definite financial or procedural commitments Wednesday in adopting a regional sewerage program calling for four treatment plants to serve the Fox Cities area.

The COG public works technical advisory committee had recommended adopting the four-plant plan and forming a regional authority organization to own and operate the four-plant system.

Menasha Mayor James Adams suggested dividing the recommendation because he felt the communities' representatives on the COG governing body weren't ready to make the financial commitment.

However, federal and state agencies' representatives warned the communities that a regional plan should be adopted and that it would have to be followed, if federal and state aid is to be forthcoming.

The sewerage resolution, which has been stalled for months by a COG body which apparently isn't ready to make a commitment, brought lengthy grinding debate Wednesday. Town of Menasha Chairman Roland Kampo led the charge, criticizing the committee's choice and recommending that the alternate for expanding all existing plants be adopted.

His motion to adopt this alternate lost 12-2.

Raymond Ohmby, of the Federal Water Quality Administration's Chicago regional office, said that Kampo's choice "is simply a continuation of the status quo . . . hardly a regional plan at all."

The alternate approved was a

In Safety Building

Buckley Asks City Leasing Privilege

Mayor George Buckley, in a resolution presented to the City Council Wednesday night, urged Outagamie County to build a city-county courts and safety building and lease space to the city.

The mayor, who has voiced strong interest in the job of elected county executive to be filled next spring, seemed to be fashioning an olive branch to the county in the amicably-worded proposal.

The resolution was referred to the council's public safety committee for a recommendation to the council.

The resolution proposes urging the county "to proceed forthwith with the construction of a joint city-county safety building," and would pledge the council to agree "to lease appropriate space in said building for its law enforcement body."

'Current Rental' Prices

The city agreement to rent space would be based on the condition, however, "that the rental for said space shall be favorably comparable to current rentals in similar space in the City of Appleton." An earlier lease proposal was rejected by city officials, who found terms proposed by the county unacceptable.

The proposal shed additional hope on the project, only recently emerged from a gloomy shadow cast by inability of city and county officials to get together on terms for the joint venture.

The turning point came during the past several days when, following city endorsement of the Courthouse site for the facility, county officials agreed to shift their favor from property lying north of the Courthouse to an arrangement extending property for the project to the east instead.

Ald. Robert Roemer (8th), who represents the ward surrounding the Courthouse and serves on the joint city-county committee negotiating over the proposal, had adamantly opposed the northerly location on the grounds that it would require purchasing more private homes at higher cost and with the result of more residents being displaced.

Lease Proposal

Roemer and Buckley Monday revived the lease proposal, after county officials unveiled the new site arrangement.

The County Board Tuesday endorsed the easterly location and agreed to seek options on five private homes to provide parking space adjoining the facility, which is now being planned for location on the existing Courthouse parking lot adjoining the Annex.

In contrast to the frequently sharp discord event during meetings of the joint committee, of which Buckley also has been a member, his resolution is written in friendliest terms.

It notes that the county "is in dire need of jail facilities as rapidly as they can be constructed," and declares that "there has always been a spirit of cooperation between the County of Outagamie and the government of the City of Appleton." The resolution also states that a need for the joint facility has been demonstrated.

Buckley's Criticism

Buckley has in the past offered occasional sharp criticism of county government. He has, for instance, complained of county inaction when he had proposed that the county absorb the City Welfare Department into a county-wide operation.

A self-proclaimed potential candidate for county executive next spring, the mayor has seemed to some observers in recent weeks to be maneuvering for a position of greater favor among county officials.

He recently won praise from some county supervisors when he suggested that the county take over all park facilities in the city and run them in a system patterned after that of Milwaukee County.

Hephner Will Be Opposed In Election

CHILTON — Incumbent Rep. Gervase Hephner, D-Chilton will be opposed in the November election by a newcomer to politics, Republican James Streubing of Brillion.

The deadline for filing nomination papers was 5 p.m. Tuesday. Only one county official will have opposition — Republican County Treasurer Mrs. Lorna Schoen, who is filling the unexpired term of Merlin Zahn. Zahn retired earlier this year, and Mrs. Schoen is seeking her first full term in office.

Opposing Mrs. Schoen will be Mrs. Floyd Ammermann, a housewife running on the Democratic ticket.

County candidates filing their papers Tuesday and having no opposition are Clerk Donald A. Schwobe, clerk of Circuit Courts Terrence Owens, County Coroner Leroy Huges and Dis. Atty. Franklin J. Schmeider, all Republicans.

Theodore Pagel, a former New Holstein policeman, will run on the Republican ticket for sheriff, and will be unopposed. C. J. Kosmosky, the present sheriff, will not run for reelection.

The Democratic incumbent filing for office is Germaine Hume, register of deeds.

Outagamie County Fair Bustles Into Action With 1st Day Shows

BY ANN GREENWALD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

SEYMOUR — With the brisk breeze blowing, the bright sun shining, and anxious 4-Hers discussing the impending judgment of their respective entries, the Outagamie County Fair bustled into action today.

The livestock barns almost sparkled as specially-scrubbed Holsteins, Guernseys, Ayshires and Brown Swiss waited for their ribbons. Horns were polished, tails trimmed and ears cleaned. Young showmen were decked out in white uniforms to show their animals before judges, friends and competitors.

A "family" tent attracted smaller fairgoers where mama pigs, horses, rabbits, ducks and dogs guarded their young.

The nearby poultry tent was filled with the sound of clucking chickens, quacking ducks, and the authoritive decisions of the rabbit judges checking their furry entries for markings and body form, and offering opinions and observations on the various breeds.

The home show building was muted, but active just the same. Judges sampled pie crusts for flakiness and flavor, dresses for neat zippers and trim seams, and napkin holders for sturdiness and finish. Bees buzzed above the freshly-canned fruits and vegetables.

Photography layouts of small fry in their gardens and with their pets had red, blue, white and pink ribbons dancing from them. And the display at the door advised the fairgoer of the 10 best ways to bankruptcy.

The midway opened at noon. By mid-morning the only activity at that end of the fairgrounds came from a group of summer school students having special rides, and from new thrills and concessions being installed.

Business at the VFW beer tent picked up as the day progressed and fair visitors of all ages took their hot dogs and hamburgers into the grandstand to watch a man putting up the stage for the evening performances.

Tonight is Appleton night, beginning with an Appleton city band concert at 7 p.m. Roy Rogers and Dale Evans will join the Sons of the Pioneers for performances at 7:30 p.m. and 9:30 p.m.

Friday is family day, and admission to the grounds is free until 5 p.m. The Cavalcade of Thrills, an all-girl auto daredevil show, will be presented at the grandstand at 1:30 p.m. Roy Rogers and Dale Evans will again be on the stage Friday night at the same times.

Erickson Will Campaign Friday At Appleton, Fair

Former basketball figure John Erickson will bring his campaign for the U.S. Senate to the Appleton area Friday, with appearances in the city and at the Outagamie County Fair at Seymour.

Erickson, endorsed candidate of the State Republican Party, is running against the incumbent Democrat, Sen. William Proxmire.

Outagamie County Republicans announced that Erickson will hold a press conference at the party's campaign headquarters at 529 W. College Ave. before attending an 11 a.m. coffee hour at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Stevens, 3117 N. Morrison St.

The local party executive committee plans a luncheon with Erickson as guest of honor at the Hot Fish Shop, 230 N. Superior St. at noon, after which the candidate will visit the fair.

Contracts Signed for Neenah Senior High School

NEENAH — Within a week, construction crews are expected to move in and start work on the 18-month project of getting Armstrong High School completed and ready for students.

After a month of bickering about the legality of accepting bids which were about $500,000 over the $4.5 million authorized in the April 1969 referendum, the fiscal control body Wednesday night voted unanimously to accept the bids and award contracts.

Hauser on Vacation

Ald. Harold Young, council president, sitting in for vacationing Mayor Roman V. Hauser, recessed the meeting and signed the contract immediately after fiscal control body approval.

The move to accept and award the contracts came after acting City Atty. Richard Steffens outlined how the fiscal control body and school board could accept the contracts legally.

The hangup for the past month was how the contracts could be awarded without violating Wisconsin bidding law and yet stay within the amount prescribed in the referendum.

$5.6 Million

Actual cost of the facility will be $5,610,000 but $1,110,000 has being deleted, leaving the gen- to finance the construction of a civic auditorium.

According to Steffens, all alternates which would have added cost to the facility are being delted, laving the general construction cost at $3,255,000. Another $160,000 was shaved from the equipment contracts and $135,000 from the anticipated cost of floor coverings.

Floor Coverings

"The only bid which will be rejected completely is the floor coverings and new specifications will be drawn for that," Steffens explained.

About $35,000 was taken out of the landscaping account. "There actually were no specifications for landscaping, anyway, so there is nothing illegal about that," the attorney said.

The real savings comes in the furniture and equipment account where the $500,000 anticipated spending is being pared to $340,000. Steffens explained that the board is planning to put enough moveable equipment in the school for 1,000 students. "Bids had been asked on a unit basis and enough for 1,500 students," he added.

Moveable Furniture

"The board can ask for quotes and dicker at it on the price for the moveable furniture," he said.

A major obstacle, a week ago, had been Hauser's flat refusal to sign the contracts because of the over cost.

Steffens said, "I talked to Mayor Hauser on Tuesday and he is only concerned with three things:

—"That there would be no change orders before awarding the contracts.

—"That there would be no changes in the specifications.

—"That the school board would live within the $4.5 million figure.

"He said he would approve the contracts, under this procedure, and he authorized Ald. Harold Young to sign them," Steffens continued.

EEA Fly-In World's Largest

OSHKOSH — The first trickles of 70,000 Experimental Aircraft Association (EAA) conventioneers are expected to come into Oshkosh next week, according to the airport manager's office.

The fly-in convention will be held Aug. 1-7 at Wittman Field. That is the center of the show; but enthusiasts will be scattered in every rentable bed from Fond du Lac to Little Chute.

2,000 Planes

The annual event has been held in Rockford, Ill. until this year. At Rockford last year, it drew about 500,000 members of the general public who wanted to eyeball the 2,000 planes — 1.5 per cent of the private planes in the U.S. About 800 of them will be home made machines.

Jack Cox, EAA staffer, said that in terms of the number of planes on the field "this is the biggest airshow of any kind in the world."

He said that the extravaganza was really a convention at base, and though the general public would not be turned away, a convention air would prevail.

600-Acre Commercial Zone Okayed in Town of Menasha

MENASHA — Commercial rezoning of almost 600 acres of land in the Town of Menasha was approved Wednesday night by the Winnebago County zoning committee.

The committee made its recommendation after a short public hearing in the town offices. Somewhat surprisingly, no objections were raised, although the committee accepted a written request from one property owner to be exempted from the changes.

Needs Board OK

The action, which will be formally approved by the county board later, leaves the commercial zoning on these areas:

—Almost all the land in Section 4, which is bounded by County Trunk BB on the north, County Trunk U on the south, U.S. 41 on the east and Cold Spring Road on the west. About a third of the square mile section was zoned commercial previously, with the rest classified as agricultural.

—Much of the land around Mud Creek in a triangle bounded by U.S. 41, BB, and the railroad tracks, which is west of Stroebe Island. The Mrs. Frank Hammes property was exempted at her written request.

—Most of the Blair Springs plat, which is the southwest corner of the intersection of County Trunk II and Lake Street.

—Almost all the parcels directly west of U.S. 41. Most was already zoned commercial before Wednesday's action.

—Property being made into a parking lot by Herb Trader near State 114 and Old Manitowoc Road.

Most of the land previously was zoned agricultural or residential.

Plans Unit

The zoning changes had been recommended by the town planning committee, and the main reason they sailed through so easily was that the town had worked out most questions at a meeting a month ago.

County and town officials gave a number of reasons for the changes.

In the northeast third of section 4 and the Stroebe Island area, they do not want residential development because it lies in the noise area of the approach path to the Outagamie County Airport.

The noise and glide approach areas are mapped out by the Federal Aviation Administration. Carl Mailahn says the FAA will probably request county zoning which will regulate height of buildings and density of population in the noise and glide approach areas, but that commercial zoning is permissable in those areas.

Land Use Planning

Town officials also say the zoning aids land use planning for the future before much development has taken place which would hinder changes.

The square mile section of commercial land and the commercial land available along U.S. 41 means that some of the ground work is already laid for businesses which might want to come into the town, Edwin Harold said.

Harold, who is town assessor and also secretary of the county zoning committee, said the change would also benefit property owners because they could now sell for commercial use at increased prices.

Until land uses change from the present, however, assessments stay the same, he said.

Smith Park Protesters Will March

MENASHA — A motor cavalcade or protest march will be held by Smith Park area residents Monday night to dramatize their opposition to rezoning of land near the park for an apartment building.

The group — at least 15 or 20 and probably more — will mass at the Memorial Building prior to the 6:15 public hearing on the proposed rezoning change and travel en masse — either by car or on foot — to the library where the hearing will be held.

'Strong Feeling'

There's "some real strong feeling about this in the area," said Russell Flom, 398 Park St., a spokesman for the group.

Petitions are also being circulated — in the Third Ward and throughout the city — asking for signatures of persons opposed to the rezoning of land at 636 Nicolet Blvd. from single family to multiple family 2.

24-Unit Apartment

The rezoning is needed so that Bockl Development Corp., Milwaukee, can put up a 24-unit apartment building on the site. The plan commission, in a 3-2 vote July 8, approved the rezoning.

Besides the petitions, which Flom said are circulating quickly, the group is also placing advertisements in all three local newspapers and a local advertising circular asking others to oppose the rezoning at the hearing and to their aldermen.

Petitions

"People have come back for more copies, so they must be getting some signatures," Flom said of the petitions. He said they were "concentrating on the Third Ward," but were also circulating a separate petition in other parts of the city.

The Third Ward petition says that while residents have a "strong interest" in broadening the city's tax base through construction of $300,000 apartments like the Bockl proposal, it also wants to see the "beauty and character of Menasha" maintained.

Protect Interests

It states that it is the responsibility of the common council to "protect the interests and rights of citizens" and to be consistent in zoning throughout the city rather than turning to "spot zoning" for projects like the Bockl proposal, which serve only the "short term interests" of the city.

They ask that the property be acquired for expansion of Smith Park instead.

Flom said the group expects to mount a "large turnout" for the 6:15 p.m. hearing Monday at the library.

Aldermen Question Swim Meet

MENASHA — Several aldermen have questioned the park and recreation board's handling of an AAU Junior Olympics boys' swim meet at the Municipal Pool last weekend.

They've asked the mayor to have Park and Recreation Board Chairman Robert LaCount at the council's Aug. 3 committee of the whole meeting to answer their questions.

Sixth Ward Ald. Robert Winarski, who heads the group of four that also includes Alds. Andrew (Bud) DeLeeuw, Herbert Batley and Felix Ropella Jr., said he and the other three aldermen had received "several phone calls from constituents" complaining of the way the meet was handled.

The four aldermen said they responded to the calls by visiting the meet in person and they saw several things they didn't like.

They met with Mayor James Adams Wednesday. Winarski said, and the mayor said LaCount would be at the Aug. 3 meeting to answer their questions.

Neenah Will Rework CATV Ordinance

NEENAH — With the blessings of the two interested firms, an ordinance for granting a community antenna television (CATV) franchise was sent back to the public protection committee for final drafting Wednesday night.

The committee has been working on an ordinance for the past four months after Fox Cities Communication, Inc. and Marcus CATV Inc. had renewed their requests for getting Neenah's franchise.

Representatives from both companies appeared before the council Wednesday to request minor changes in the ordinance.

$5 Per Home

Frank Nehs, an Appleton attorney representing Fox Cities Communications, which is the local arm of American Television and Communications Denver, suggested several small changes in the ordinance, the outlet costs of $5 per home plus $1 for each additional outlet.

According to terms of the ordinance, the firm which gets the Neenah franchise would pay Neenah 4 per cent of the gross revenues as the license fee. Although Nehs did not take issue with the 4 per cent, he pointed out that the Federal Communication Commission (FCC) was planning hearings to set a 2 per cent limit which could be charged by municipalities for the franchise.

He also asked that the license be granted for a minimum of 10 years. "Anything less than that would not give any company time to amortize its investment," he said.

Nehs suggested that the city require a CATV firm to maintain offices in Neenah.

Jerome Bomier, a Neenah attorney representing the Marcus interests, said he had no quarrel with the proposed ordinance or Nehs' suggested changes. "The ordinance proposed here tonight appears to be very similar to the same one we submitted to the city in 1965," he said.

He added that the Marcus interests could "live very comfortably" within the provisions of the ordinance.

Threats Dismissed

Indians Say Keshena Rally Successful in Uniting Tribe

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

KESHENA — Death threat notes against two Menominee Indians who had demonstrated against the Legend Lake development were dismissed by the recipients as having come from a crank or prankster.

John Gauthier, Keshena, and Mrs. Bernard Brooks, Appleton, had found the notes tucked under the windshield wipers of their cars atfer a tribal council rally Saturday protesting the sale of Indian lands.

Despite continued rumors of threats to life, jobs and property, members of the council say Saturday's rally was successful in uniting the Menominee Indians toward a common purpose.

The Menominees held the protest march and special meeting to rally support for renewed control over their land, part of which is now being sold off as part of the Lakes of the Menominees Legend Lake project.

Apathy Overcome

Theodore S. Boyd, vice president of Menominee Enterprises, against which much of the dissent has been directed, admitted there has been a "communications problem" which, he said, may be dispelled because the tribe is finally overcoming its apathy and is taking a stand on issues.

Boyd admitted Menominee Enterprises was at fault for creating the "communication gap" that has led to the general dissatisfaction of the tribe with their corporation. "We're at fault for not getting the understanding," he said.

Tempers and feelings have been strong since Saturday, when two of the seven Menominees arrested last week for an earlier demonstration received notes threatening assassination.

Paul Bang, a cameraman for National Educational Television (NET), and Ann Delaney, producer of a documentary film on termination of the Menominee Reservation, were attacked by three men after the meeting, one reportedly a special sheriff's deputy. Bang was putting the camera in the car when the three approached, claiming that they didn't want the two filming there. Bang said that one man held him while another swung, although the punch only grazed his head and didn't do any damage.

NET decided to use the Menominees as the best example of the problems and solutions created for Indian tribes upon termination. The final film, which should be broadcast sometime in January, will be at least an hour long, and will appear on about 180 television stations across the country. It also will go to the audio-visual department of the University of Indiana where it will be available at a minimal cost to any school for classroom purposes.

The rumor mill evidently decided NET was only filming the bad things. Miss Delaney said, but they are including everything from the woods nearby to the history and feelings of the people involved "We're getting fantastic cooperation," Miss Delaney said and contrary to some charges, they don't have even one foot of film showing the deputies and their billy clubs last Saturday.

The whole problem stems from the fact that many Menominees resent having the land sold off to non-Menominees. As a county only ten years old, and in financial trouble, the Lakes of the Menominees was a necessary thing, Boyd said. "We have tax base problems, and we have development problems," he said. "The tax base problem was literally killing us. We had to do something"

Menominee Enterprises was formed in 1961, and every Menominee formally registered on the tribal roll in 1954, at the official date of termination, was given 100 shares in the corporation. Because it was the only major industry in the county, however, the corporation found itself paying approximately 84 per cent of the property tax burden, according to Leo Seefeldt, secretary of Menominee Enterprises.

Double Tax Base

In the Legend Lake partnership with N. E Isaakson & Associates, the corporation agreed to sell approximately 2 per cent of the county's land "to save the rest." The project should about double the county's tax base, Boyd said, bringing it close to $50 million.

Gauthier and those opposing the management have different ideas. "We are against selling our land because if it keeps up we'll have nothing," Gauthier said. One of the Enterprise directors claimed that they were down to the last resort, Gauthier said. "If we're down that far we've got to think of something else," he noted.

Gauthier's remedies include going back to reservation status, but with self-determination — the Indians themselves administering federal money. Gauthier said he would like to see a tribal council set up, or keep the present enterprise system. "Through the years the Enterprise has learned a lot businesswise," Gauthier said.

Want Taxes Lifted

The second suggestion would be to ask Congress to lift taxes from the county for a period of 15 to 20 years, giving the area time to become economically stable and time to bring industry into the county.

A third proposal suggests turning the former reservation into a national park Gauthier is against this because it would have the same end result — the people would be losing their land.

Progress is being made by both sides — the Enterprise is becoming more united. A second general council meeting is tentatively planned for late August.

Ousted Official to Sue Union in Pension Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — The ousted secretary-treasurer of the International Barbers Union, who criticized the union's troubled pension plan, says he'll file suit in federal court to get his job back.

The union's executive board expelled Edgar M. Sanders from the position Wednesday but refused to state publicly why he was ousted.

Sanders said he was removed "because I've been telling them how bad the pension fund was and been going to meetings to tell the members."

Many Officials

The pension fund is currently under investigation by a federal grand jury in Chicago. Its $21 million in assets include $7 million in delinquent loans, most of them arranged by a once-bankrupt investment consultant who served the fund for about two years

The grand jury probe involves, according to court records, "many high-ranking union officials, successful businessmen and lawyers."

Sanders, 54, was re-elected in 1968 to his second five year term in the $20,000-a-year-job. He said he planned to seek a court order within a week to set aside the ouster.

In the past year Sanders has increasingly criticized the pension fund's condition at union meetings. Union President Joseph DePaola has repeatedly assured barbers the fund has lost no money and is sound.

Private Business

DePaola previously refused to discuss the fund because of the grand jury investigation. Wednesday he referred questions about Sanders' expulsion to Sherman Carmell, the union attorney.

Carmell said the charges against Sanders were private union business and he would not discuss the proceedings. He said the charges did not include Sanders' speeches to union groups

Sanders said his opponents on the executive board "have been digging and doing everything to find enough to throw me out on." An earlier board resolution had curbed Sanders' travel.

In mid-May, Sanders told a group of Missouri union officers that principal payments of $2,675,424 and interest payments of $566,206 were delinquent to the fund.

The fund has written down its assets by $2 million to allow for losses. DePaola wrote one local in June that "not one penny has disappeared or has been lost from your pension fund."

An actuaries' report last October said the fund would be able to pay its projected benefits if it earned 11 per cent a year on its investments and membership rose steadily.

Membership Falling

Membership has been declining and DePaola gave figures last month showing earnings this year would be 7 3 per cent

Although the fund has quit making new mortgage loan commitments, just last month, honoring a former commitment, it loaned $200,000 for a North Carolina motel expansion to a corporation directed by convicted tax evader Bobby Baker, former Senate Democratic secretary.

Loans during the 1967-68 period the fund delved into mortgages were almost all arranged by Thomas A. Shaheen, who court records say is one target of the grand jury investigation.

Sanders, interviewed about the pension fund prior to his ouster, said Shaheen became the fund's investment counselor in 1967 after he said he would handle investments at no cost to the fund. He depended on borrowers' fees for his services

Some loans went to corporations in which Shaheen or Shaheen associates were involved.

Shaheen told a barbers convention in 1968 the loans were bonded against loss. But the bonding company has since gone into receivership state, county, city or other political subdivision.

Several months before Shaheen took over Barbers' investing, he had filed a personal bankruptcy in Chicago, listing debts of $5.38 million and assets of $769 61.

In a statement of policy accompanying the guidelines, the department said the Refuse Act should not be used "in competition with the Federal Water Pollution Control Act or with state pollution abatement procedures."

The statement said the attorneys could initiate court action against "discharges, which are accidental or infrequent, but which are not of a continuing nature resulting from the ordinary operations of a manufacturing plant.

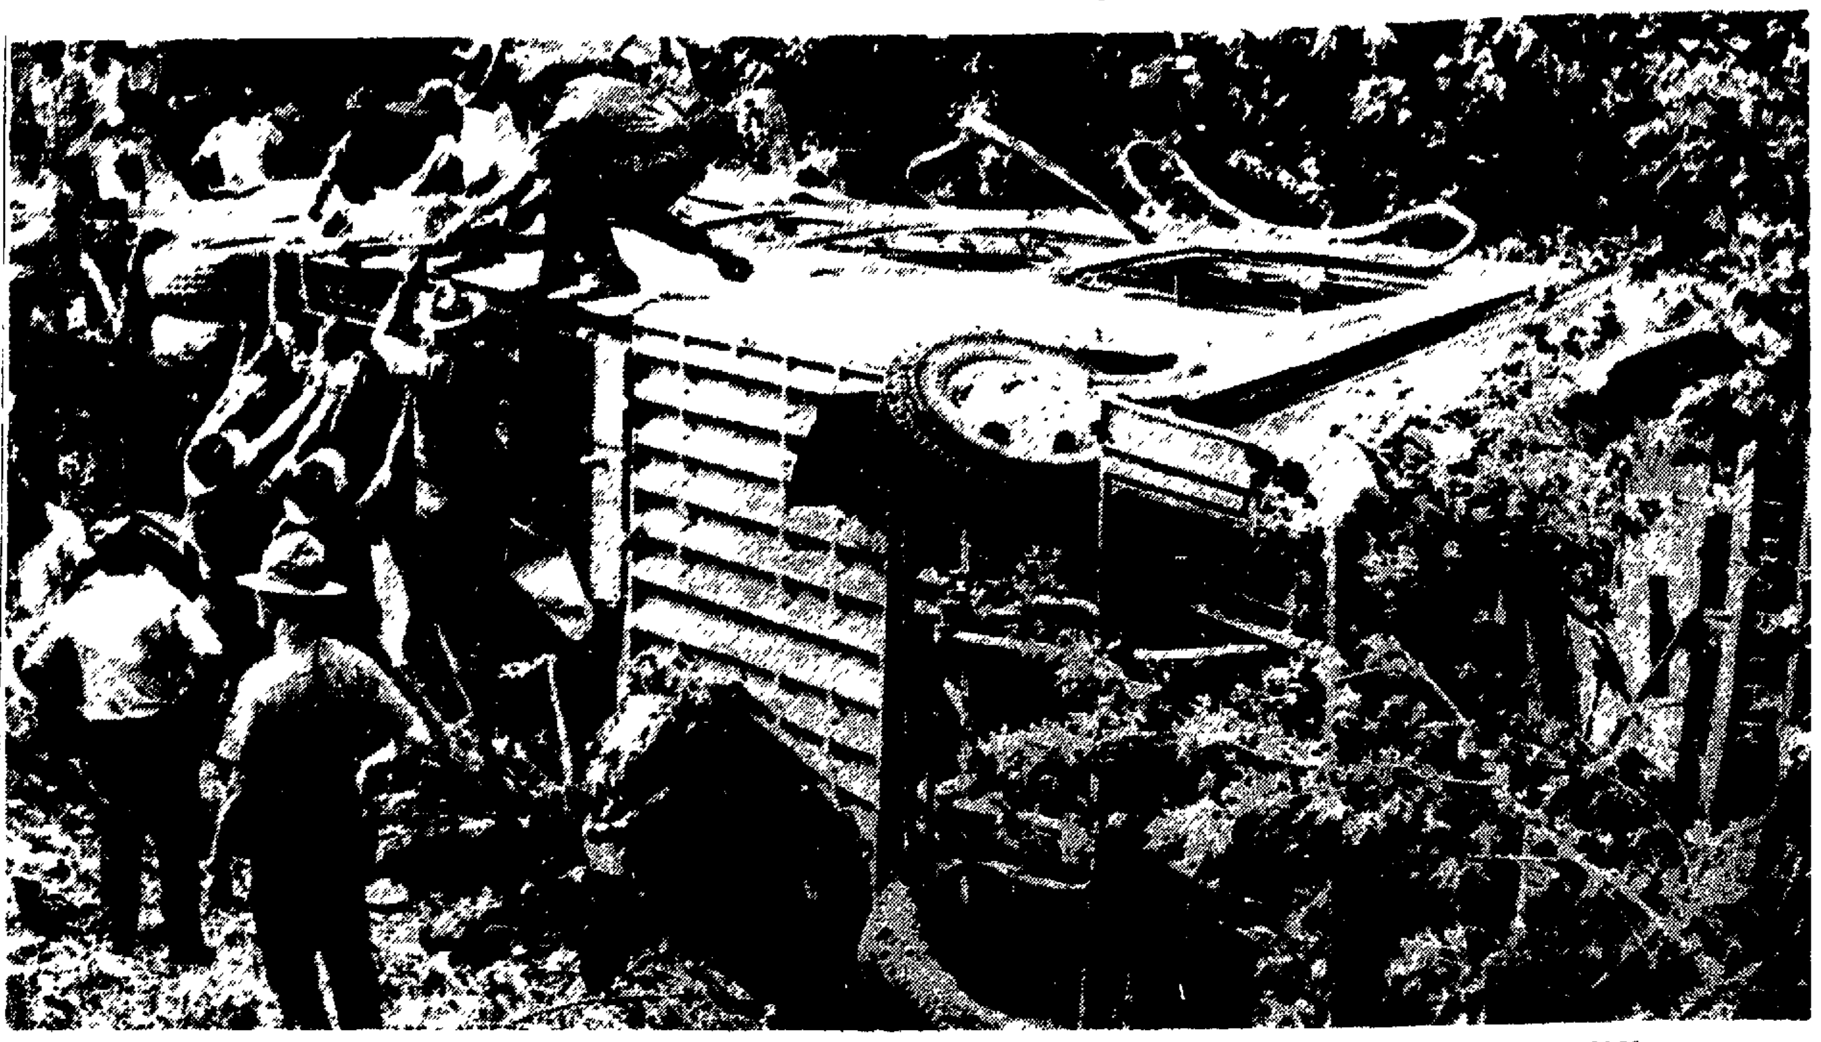
"Discharges of this last type, of course, pose the greatest threat to the environment—but it is precisely this type of discharge that the Congress created the Federal Water Quality Administration to decrease or eliminate, and it is the programs, policies and procedures of that agency that we shall defer with respect to the bringing of actions under the Refuse Act," the statement concluded.

The department contended, however, the guidelines are not intended to discourage use of the Refuse Act but merely to coordinate the attorneys' work with that of other agencies.

"We have approved every request to bring action against polluters that we have received," the source said.

He also contended the guidelines increase the instances in which U.S. attorneys can bring actions on their own, despite some grumbling that the guidelines tie their hands.

"Those attorneys who have read the guidelines are finding it very easy to go ahead," the source said.



Rescue Workers Remove an injured girl from the window of a bus that went off route 22 west of Allentown, Pa., Wednesday. Seven children and one adult from the Lawrence, N.Y., area were killed in the crash. (AP Wirephoto)

7 Youngsters Killed in Pennsylvania Bus Crash

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Comic books, a baseball cap and other personal belongings scattered across a roadside gully were stark reminders of a bus crash that killed seven children and injured 52 persons Wednesday.

The victims were riding in a bus chartered by the Hillel Country Day School of Lawrence, N.Y., when it skidded off a wet highway.

Screaming youngsters were thrown from the bus as it pitched end over end down an embankment. Some were pinned beneath it when it came to rest off U.S. 22, a four-lane highway.

Overnight Outing

Forty-nine children and 0 adults from the wealthy Long Island community of Lawrence and nearby towns were aboard. They were headed for an overnight outing at the chocolate capital of Hershey and the Pennsylvania Dutch country.

After word of the tragedy reached Long Island, many parents drove, flew or came by chartered bus to this eastern Pennsylvania city.

Other parents remained at the school, a private Hebrew institution, to await further word. Many women wept hysterically.

Three of the injured were listed in critical condition. Those killed ranged in age from 10 to 16.

One of the bus passengers, Allen Burkin of Woodmere, said he was sitting in the back of the vehicle at the time of the accident. "All I know is the bus started turning and somebody screamed to grab ahold of something," he said, "and that's exactly what I did. Then a boy started falling out of the bus, so I caught him." Burkin was not injured seriously.

People on the Banks

"When I looked up, I saw the bus just spinning off the road," said Philip Gaar, a Hillel representative. He said he climbed from the wreckage through a window and started helping others out. "There were people on the top of the banks and you had to yell and scream at them before they would come down to help."

"I was knocked right out of the window," said Randi Liever of Valley Stream, who wasn't seriously injured.

"We went over the wire ropes (guardrails) sideways and kept twirling around and around," said Gary Wolowky, 11, Cedarhurst. "There was this kid . . . I saw him . . . lying in the mud with his face down."

A trooper, who asked that his name not be used, said, "When this road gets a little wet, it is like a grease stick."

Truck Accidents

There have been two truck accidents in the same spot in the past two weeks. The road forms an "S" curve between two bridges.

Anthony L. Schmieg, chief highway safety officer with the National Transportation Safety Board, was en route to the site. The board is an independent federal agency with responsibility for safety in all modes of transportation.

Victor W. Anckaitis, Pennsylvania secretary of transportation, announced today that two special state investigating teams have been sent to the crash scene. They have been directed to reassembly the battred bus and examine it.

State police said an owner's card showed the bus was from Tedesco Bus Co., Jersey City, N.J. The name Academy Charter Service was written on the bus.

Disruptions In Milwaukee Park Continue

MILWAUKEE (AP)— Youths and police battled at Water Towter Tower Park on Milwaukee's East Side Wednesday for the third consecutive night.

The trouble started shortly before 10 p.m. when the youths hurled bottles at the helmeted police. The law officers replied by hurling smoke canisters at the demonstrators, then running after the youths with swinging clubs.

A recently-enacted ordinance imposes a 10 p.m. to 7 a.m. curfew on the mini-sized park, located at the eastern end of North Avenue end of the park 500 youths, half the size of the crowd that protested Tuesday night, milled around the park's fountain until shortly before the curfew deadline.

When the demonstrators saw the cordon of police advancing on the park, they rushed to the North Avenue end of te park and tossed bottles.

Small groups of youths, ranging in size from three to 10, were seen walking throughout the lower East Side. Police stopped several cars and some groups who were walking, demanding to see identification.

Congress Passes Newspapers' Trust Exemption

WASHINGTON (AP) —Congress has sent to the White House a bill overturning a Supreme Court decision and granting newspapers in 22 cities exemption from antitrust laws.

Legislative action on the bill was completed Wednesday when the Senate approved House amendments, including more stringent standards for determining whether a newspaper is in financial trouble.

The bill authorizes newspapers to combine their mechanical or business operations while keeping their editorial departments separate. The Supreme Court had held that such joint arrangements violate antitrust laws.

The ruling came in a case involving two newspapers in Tucson, Ariz., but threatened similar agreements involving 42 other newspapers.

The bill allows future agreements if one affected newspaper is deemed failing financially and the Justice Department approves the arrangement.

Justice Enjoys Trial Judge Stint

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "I enjoyed every minute of it," said retired Supreme Court Justice Tom C. Clark after completing his first case as a trial judge.

Clark, who retired in 1967 after 18 years on the high court, presided over a tax refund case which began Monday and ended with a jury verdict Wednesday.

The former associate justice is sitting on the U.S. District Court bench at the request of chief Dist. Court Judge George B. Harris, a personal friend, who needed help to clear a crowded docket.

Range of Americans

Gala Time Waits Anne and Charles

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prince Charles and Princess Anne, arriving today for their first visit to the United States, will be treated to a contrasting slice of Americana ranging from hot dogs and bourbon balls to baseball and rock music.

There will be no romantic interludes between the festivities, the White House insisted as questions persisted about the possibility of a budding romance between the 21-year-old heir to the British throne and President Nixon's 24-year-old daughter Tricia.

"About a romance—how can you rule it out in advance?" a very British reporter asked Constance Stuart, Mrs. Nixon's press aide, who had described the visit as a casual encounter between friends.

She stuttered and sputtered, then good-naturedly said she guessed she couldn't on that one.

Presidential Jet

The prince and princess will be flown by presidential jet from Canada, where they spent a triumphal two weeks helping Canada celebrate the centennial of its Northwest territories. They will return to London Saturday night.

Although their visit is not considered a state affair, trumpets are heralding their arrival at the White House lawn and President Nixon is personally greeting them.

After refreshments in the portrait-filled Blue Room — including that of President James Madison who fled shortly before the British Army burned the White House in 1814 — the royal couple will helicopter with Tricia, Julie and David Eisenhower and 20 of their friends to Camp David in the Catoctin Mountains for a picnic.

Landmarks by Night

The young Eisenhowers and Tricia will show the Britishers some of Washington's landmark monuments by night.

The couple will tour the Capitol Friday and meet with House Speaker John McCormack and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew

At the Smithsonian Institution, Astronauts Frank Borman and Neil Armstrong will describe the space exhibits and present Princess Anne with a rock of Smithsonite and the prince with a piece of antique American china.

Other festivities include a two-hour luncheon ride down the Potomac River to Mount Vernon home of George Washington, and tea with the British ambassador

Evening Party

Friday night, with the President likely looking from the balcony, the royal couple will mingle with 700 guests at a late-night buffet supper and dance to two rock music bands on the White House lawn.

Music will be by one of Canada's top rock groups, "The Guess Who," and by a vigorous-voiced American, Gary Puckett At midnight there will be fireworks on the lawn

Saturday's schedule calls for a visit to the Patuxent Wildlife Research Center, in Laurel Md to see scientists work with endangered species such as the whooping crane and a baseball game at the Robert F Kennedy Stadium

Salazar Critically Ill in Portugal

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Antonio de Oliveira Salazar, former ruler of Portugal, suffered a relapse and is critically ill, his doctor said today.

A two-sentence medical bulletin issued by the 81-year-old former prime minister's physician, Eduaro Coelho, said Salazar "suffered Wednesday morning an infectious disease.

"His condition has improved but the prognosis is still uncertain."

The former dictator, who ruled this country for nearly four decades, was removed from power in September 1968, after suffering a disabling stroke which left him partially paralyzed.

Boys Willing to Work For Broken Window, But Want Ball Back

SANTA CLARA, Calif. (AP) — Louie Flores had just returned home when the door bell rang. He found five little boys lined up side by side, looking sheepish.

"We're awfully sorry mister," said one. "We broke your window playing baseball. We've talked it over with our parents and we'd like to pull weeds, mow your lawn and do odd jobs to pay for it."

Flores, an electronics technician, smiled. "Okay boys, come back next weekend and help me in the yard"

Negotiations ended, a smaller boy elbowed an older lad and said, "Ask him to give us back our ball."

Flores did.

Jimmy Durante Is Recovering at Hospital

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Jimmy Durante, recovering from an ear ailment at St. John's Hospital, is said by his physician to be in good general health but in need of a rest.

The doctor said Wednesday the 77-year-old comedian's main problem was an infection of the inner ear which caused dizziness and resulted in his collapsing after a recent stage show in Las Vegas, Nev. The doctor indicated the ailment has been corrected.

Stronger Local Control Urged For Rock Fests

as to why the state did not step in to prevent the rock festival and handle the drug abuse problem.

"There seems to be the popular misconception that the State of iWsconsin has hundreds of men it can send into a situation of this kind," atty. Gen Robert Warren answered ' This is not true, since Wisconsin is traditionally a state which believes in local autonomy and looks to local law enforcement

"The only force the state has is the beverage tax investigators with the Department of Justice (numbering 37) and two undercover agents empowered to make arrests," Warren disclosed. "While 21 agents have been authorized for narcotics investigations, they will not be hired until October "

The attorney general pointed out that narcotics control requires the toughest laws in the world.

"I have been asked repeatedly why I didn't call out the National Guard." Warren continued "Only the Governor can call out the guard and only the governor controls the sheriffs and district attorneys in this state. According to present law, the governor calls the Guard when the emergency exists.

"There could be some changes made and we will have to find the answers within the framework of the constitution," Warren added

Sheriffs Tell Situation

Sheriff Nick Check, Portage County, explained to the committee that he and Sheriff Loran Frazier of Waupaca County used their men to contain the rock festival participants and protect the lives and property of the citizens in both counties

He also explained why more arrests were not made

"We had agreed to control an orderly crowd of 15,000 but instead by Friday night found that we had 50,000 on this site," Sheriff Check said "How do you police something from the standpoint of numbers with 75 to 100 officers on the scene?

"We knew that there was wide open bartering in drugs, like peanuts and popcorn at the county fair," he continued "We knew because we were right there and at the tents we picked up some drugs for nothing

"We also knew the mood of the crowd from our inside people," Check related "We knew we weren't going to get any place that if we tried to pick someone out from the crowd, we would never get out ourselves

"Didn't Make Sense"

"Now coverage is fine but foolishness enters the picture at one point and I wasn't going to be responsible for sending 50 officers in here to try to break up the drug ring and have half of these men lying on their backs in hospitals and possibly have some young widows around," he added It just doesn't make sense

"So, we felt a containment action at the time was the only way we could operate. Sure, you try to enforce the law equally wherever you are, but if you can't enforce the law to the letter, then you contain," Check said. "I don't believe that this is the first time in history that this kind of law enforcement has been dictated

"We have to find some answers," he proposed "If we can't infiltrate in sufficient numbers so that we can control drugs, then the only other avenue open to stop drug traffic is by court injunction, prior to the crowd forming "

Community Feeling

Check also said that the feeling of the community and that term embraced residents in both Waupaca and Portage counties) was that a rock festival wasn't really such a bad thing "

If we had gone ahead and spent $25,000 to $50,000 to prevent the things which happened here, we would have been subject to criticism because we had stopped something that was not so bad in the first place

"The violence which occurred at the Rock Festival may have had some benefit It brought to light what drugs can do," he said

Sheriff Frazier expressed his gratitude for the assistance given by the Portage County sheriff's department other sheriff's departments from Shawano, Menominee, Waushara Outagamie, Ward and Marathon, as well as the municipalities within the counties

"I feel that none of our people got hurt, no property was damaged and, in spite of the confusion, we did the job to the best of our ability," Frazier said.

Assured No Drugs

Before the festival, the two sheriffs said, they were assured by the promoters that there would be no drugs, the group would have its own security people and that the site would be cleaned up by Monday noon.

"So we concentrated on traffic control for the crowd of 50,000 by using the short roadblock systems," Check advised. "The State Patrol was magnificent and took over the patrol in both counties. The Division of Natural Resources assisted us with air surveillance for gauging the movement of the crowd."

Both sheriffs will present movies and films and evidence gathered at the rock festival to their county boards within the next month. Check appears before his board on Tuesday and Frazier will present his story to the Waupaca County Board on Aug. 19

Lorge complimented the sheriffs of Portage, Waupaca and Columbia counties for the work they had done in controlling previous rock festivals, and urged all departments of government to cooperate in bringing legislation this next term which will prevent "repetition of future disgraceful displays."

Adopt Ordinance

Sen Walter J Chilsen, R-Wausau, entered the motion that the committee encourage "the adoption of the attorney general's model ordinance in all counties of Wisconsin, as well as in the cities, villages and towns to provide an additional guarantee of enforcement."

The only dissenting vote came from Sen Martin J Schreiber, D-Milwaukee, who said, "I do not see how we can visit a site for an hour, and in a few hours discuss a model ordinance and believe that it is the total answer to the problem "

Committee members present were, Sen Myron P. Lotto, R-Green Bay, Sen Raymond Heinzen, R-Marshfield, Sen. Raymond E. Johnson, R-Eau Claire, Sen James Swan, R-Elkhorn, Sen. Wayne Whitto, D-Milwaukee, and Sen Henry Dorman, D-Racine

Feel 'Like Family' With Roy and Dale

in Apple Valley, California, where the couple makes their home "off the road." (The museum houses several collections and Roy's first horse, Trigger, is mounted and on exhibit.) "I'm a lucky cowboy," he said, "I made my first and last motion picture with Trigger and there never was a horse like him, although I have two of his offspring and the handsome yearling colt shows promise." (Roy has made 87 feature movies and 101 half - hour television shows.)

These are some of the many things he said at the meeting, together with comments from his wife, Dale.

"It takes a lot of guts to put out some of the motion pictures made today. They should be stopped by law. Some of them are an insult to the business, actually to the human race."

"We have 10 times more good than bad kids in colleges and high schools trying to do something worthwhile, but the news media pinpoints those who do the wrong things, those who create the trouble."

'Kids are Kids'

"Kids are kids all over. They are made, in my opinion, into what they become during their years from 1½ to 7 or 8 years of age. It all depends on what you put into them. That's what indicates how they will turn out as adults."

"The Old West is the only history we have of the early United States and it should be preserved. The old western songs reflect the lives of the people moving into new country. They are mostly about the trials and tribulations of the pioneer."

"There are forces in this America of ours trying to break the back of the Ameican family. And I mean communism. Without the family, there will be no America."

The pair are firm about their belief in the family and what it can do for both parents and children. Dale told how hard it was to juggle a career that was demanding and a life at home. nine children. Six are still living, all happily married.)

Dale's Thoughts

These were Dale's thoughts as she talked:

Our social life was non-existent, except to make a home for our youngsters. (The Rogers raised

"We tend to make everything gray today, we've lost our landmarks. We must have some absolutes to live by," she said, speaking about the western move and its usefulness. "We have to know again the difference between the good guy (the hero of the old western) and the bad guy (the villain). That's missing from the scene today."

When asked about his favorite song, Roy Rogers said he guessed it would have to be the one that will always live, the theme song of the Pioneers, "Tumbling Tumbleweeds."

Well, it just better be," yelled Lloyd Perryman, leader of the Sons of the Pioneers.

slight variation from one recommended by Donohue and Associates, Sheboygan engineering firm, and called for expanding plants at Kaukauna, Appleton, Neenah-Menasha, and a new plant around the north side of Little Lake Butte Des Morts.

Kampo argues this was not exactly what had been recommended by Donohue, and therefore, was the same as throwing away the money spent for the engineering study

Easily Adopted

Larry Michaels, COG public works director, said the variation could be adapted to easily because adequate data is available. Under the original, the Neenah-Menasha plant would not be expanded but the Butte Des Morts plant would be expanded greatly.

Patrick Flanagan, Kimberly public works director, said that COG must "certainly reserve the right to alter and improve a plan "

COG officials, in the new resolution, also agreed to adopt a plan at a later date for the governing and operating of the system The vote was 12-1, with Kampo dissenting He said the recommendation first should be discussed with town and village boards and city councils.

Carl Blabaum, director of the State Department of Natural Resource's water supply and pollution control bureau, said he was pleased at the adoption and reminded COG officials that "time is of the essence "

Feasibility Study

COG officials received a feasibility study last fall from Donohue, outlining five methods which could be followed for meeting the region's sewerage needs to the year 2000. The alternatives basically were varying numbers of plants.

A separate sewerage study at Oshkosh was consolidated with the Donohue analysis, making Oshkosh part of the regional plan This is essential in federal aid programs

COG adopted a resolution indicating that Oshkosh's plan for improving its sewerage system to allow it to serve the Town of Oshkosh area was in compliance with the regional plan

Kampo attempted to amend the resolution to protect the municipalities' undesired annexation of sewer services but Robert Moser, Oshkosh City Council president, said the city was negotiating with the town in good faith and there is no need for the amendment It was defeated

In other action, COG officials refused to grant mid-year raises to seven planners. Adams and Kampo claimed salaries should be hiked only once a year — at budget time — while Kaukauna Mayor Gilbert Anderson, COG chairman, said the planners were deserving and should be granted at least a 6.5 per cent cost of living increase.

An open space plan, outlining park and recreation needs for the COG study area, was approved by COG officials. The plan, prepared by Arno Haering, director of COG regional planning, provides for the orderly locating and development of neighborhood parks and other facilities.

Officials also endorsed a High Cliff Sanitary District proposal for sewerage improvements.

Jerome Starling, COG director of transportation, said the mass transit study, spurred by apparent financial troubles of a Fox Cities bus company, should be completed by next May. The $30,000 study is being financed by two-thirds federal money.

Rescue Boat Donated For Kimberly Lake

KIMBERLY A rescue boat for use on the new four-acre swimming lake developed at Sunset Park Pool was presented to the village by the Kiwanis Club recently. Village President Albert Fuller was presented the boat by Myron Huth, Kiwanis President.

The lake has proved a popular attraction to both young and old particularly during recent hot spells.

Possible Twister

Cleanup Follows Winds at Marion

MARION — Cleanup work at Welch Fire Equipment Corp. here has been completed after a "regular whirlwind" Tuesday ripped off doors and damaged the roof and signs at the firm.

Bill Welch, president, estimated damage to the exterior of the building at several thousand dollars but said insurance adjusters had not yet arrived to provide him with an accurate damage estimate.

He believed his business to be the only building in this community to be damaged by the high winds. No persons were injured, Welch said, in the windy blast that he and a few of the firm's employes watched as it approached at 1:30 p.m. from the southwest.

He reported that the "twister" ripped branches off trees, then hit the signs in front of the building and headed toward the structure. "You could see debris whirling around in a circle," he said.

The damage was confined to the exterior of the building and was cleaned up in a day, he added.

There has been no verification by authorities that the high winds constituted a tornado. Other residents, however, have reported hearing "what sounded like a jet" go over their homes at about the same hour, but no funnel cloud was cited.

Police & Fire Beat

Delores McMahon, 19, 206 W. Third St., Kaukauna, was fined $50 Tuesday in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 after she pleaded no contest to an amended charge of disorderly conduct. She had been charged with furnishing beer to minors.

A charge of indecent exposure against David Lee Brunette, 23, 1416 N. Rankin St., was continued to Dec. 7 in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 Tuesday for the purpose of review. Appleton police brought the charge after an incident at a laundromat May 24. Brunette's attorney told the court his client would consult with a psychiatrist for the next six months.

Brunette pleaded guilty to two counts of issuing worthless checks at the Double O Super Valu store, 2731 N. Meade St., on March 15 and 27. Acting County Judge Gustave J. Keller fined him $25 and costs on the charges. The bogus $20 checks were drawn on the Bank of Kaukauna. The court was told that restitution has been made.

Acting Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller ordered a presentence investigation Tuesday for John F. Wesner, 26, 2209 S. Fountain Ave., who pleaded guilty to 14 counts of issuing worthless checks and two charges of check forgery. Keller found him guilty to each of the charges.

Sentencing for Wesner, who appeared in County Court Branch 2, will be Friday.

Nine of the charges stem from incidents which occurred in Outagamie County in April and May, when Wesner issued bogus checks at foodstores, gasoline stations and other establishments. The seven others were brought after consolidation of cases pending in Winnebago, Fond Du Lac and Green Lake counties regarding offenses committed in the same months. The forgeries date to a year ago. The 16 checks totaled $338.78.

LITTLE CHUTE — Jerry Grissman, 1224 N. Buchanan St., reported to police the theft of $75 in one-half dollars from a bank kept in a locked trunk in his home.

The trunk lock was forced. Grissman told police he thinks the theft took place sometime between June 29 and July 6 while the family was away on vacation.

KAUKAUNA — Kathy Goelz, 11, Milwaukee, escaped with minor cuts and bruises when the bicycle she was riding was struck by a car at Tenth Street and Main Avenue about 1:40 p.m. Monday.

According to police, the girl, visiting in the city, failed to stop for a stop sign on Main Avenue and rode the bike into the path of a car being driven east on Tenth Street by Harvey Siebers, 19, 205 E. Seventh St. The latter suffered a bruised head and arm in the mishap.

Both were treated at Kaukauna Community Hospital and released.

KIMBERLY — The theft of six dry chemical fire extinguishers was reported in a break-in at Kimberly Senior High School Monday night.

Entry was gained by breaking a window in a rear door at the south end of the building. School officials are making a check to determine whether any other equipment may have been taken, according to police.

KIMBERLY — Volunteer firemen were summoned about 8:10 a.m. Tuesday to extinguish a small fire in the collection box of the garbage truck, cause of the fire unknown.

Trial for Vince Dalton, 28, 342 Water St., was set for Aug. 13 this morning in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 after he pleaded innocent to a battery charge. Acting County Judge Gustave J. Keller returned him to the county jail under $500 bond.

Dalton allegedly beat an employe of the Wisconsin-Michigan Power Co. June 25 after being surprised by the man as he siphoned gasoline from his auto. He was sentenced to the county jail for 30 days July 6 after pleading guilty to the gas theft charge.

Shirlee A. Gauthier, 39, route 6, Appleton, was taken to Theda Clark Hospital in Neenah Tuesday after the auto she was driving went out of control on Outagamie County Trunk BB, 1½ miles west of Appleton. An ambulance attendent said she suffered a cut to the left leg, facial bruises and complained of pain to the right leg, hip and side. County traffic officers said she was westbound on BB when the auto went onto the right shoulder, broke off a marker and guard rail, and flipped over, coming to rest on its top.

Paper, which ignited after catching a guard and piling up against hot infrared lights on a coating machine, brought four Appleton Fire Department units at 1:15 a.m. today to the Appleton Coated Paper Co. Authorities reported the fire was extinguished by employes.

ONEIDA — A single-car accident about two miles west of here Friday morning resulted in scrapes and abrasions to the face and a complaint of chest pains for Whitney A. Metoxen, 49, route 1. Outagamie County traffic officers said Metoxen was southbound on the Van Boxtel Road when he lost control of the car near the Old Seymour Road, and entered the southeast ditch.

YMCA Trip Tuesday To Resident Camp

The final Appleton YMCA adventure trip for children between 6 and 12 years of age will be Tuesday to Camp Nan-A-Bo-Sho, the YMCA resident camp.

The bus will leave at 9 a.m. and return around 5 p.m. Children should bring swim suits, towel and lunch. Milk will be provided. Swimming, camping, hiking, boating and canoeing on Lake Waubee will be part of the activities.

The cost is $4.75 for members and $5.75 for nonmembers. Further information is available at the youth department of the YMCA.

School Board Officers Renamed

KAUKAUNA — All officers of the board of education were reelected at an organizational meeting Tuesday evening with Marshall Bayorgeon again serving as president.

Other officers are vice president, Joseph Schouten, and secretary, Olin Dryer. Leo Driessen was named Wisconsin Association of School Boards correspondent and Gordon Lamers was named school board delegate to Cooperative Education Service Agency No. 8.

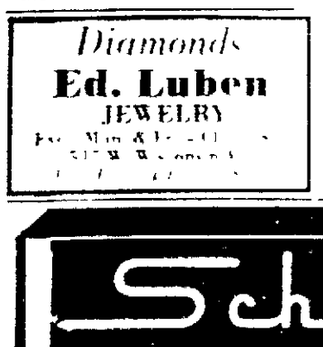
Paper 'Traveling Bag,' Will Preserve Postcards

BY CAPPY DICK

If you are a postcard collector, as many boys and girls are, here's a way to preserve the cards. Make a



Homemade Lapels

"traveling bag" for them. The "bag" is simply a cardboard box of a shape resembling a suitcase. You place the postcards inside the box and, on the outside, paste neat, handmade labels bearing the names of the places from which the cards came.

The box should have a hinged lid. If it's not provided, you can make it with pieces of some transparent plastic and some ribbons as in figure. box as in figure.

Heavy [illegible] paper can be [illegible] outside of the box leather. A sample made cardboard can be [illegible] with glue or a glue gun machine.

Whenever you receive a postcard from a friend this summer place in the box, then make a label to represent the city and paste it on the outside of the box (figure 2). These labels should be printed with bright-colored crayons to resemble the travel labels often pasted on the luggage of people visiting foreign countries. Figure 3 shows a label representing a summer camp.

By the time summer has ended, your traveling bag of postcards should be full of labels as well as cards.

45 SPECIAL STUNTS AND GAMES IN CAPPY'S BOOKLET!

Mothers and fathers! If you want new ideas to entertain your children and their guests at birthday parties, you'll find 45 of them in Cappy Dick's "Birthday Party Stunts" booklet. Computer School Named in Suit

A $1 million damage suit was filed Wednesday against Electronic Compu tuerProgramming Institute, Inc. (ECPI), Milwaukee-based firm with an Appleton special education school, by Herzing Institutes, Milwaukee, in the federal district court at New York.

Herzing, a firm of technical schools, began as an EVPI franchise in Milwaukee, charged that franchising agreements with ECPI violate federal antitrust laws, and asked treble damages of just over $1 million.

ECPI allegedly refused to permit Herzing to use its own textbooks for ECPI courses and insisted on purchasing commonly available supplies, the suit alleges. The firm also insisted upon maintaining a fix schedule of tuition prices, Herzing officials contend.

School District At Little Chute To Hire Aides

Board of Education Treasurer Refuses $200 Pay Raise

LITTLE CHUTE — The board of education Tuesday night authorized Supt. Leo Bronkalla to hire elementary school teacher aides for the 1970-71 school year.

The aides are necessary because of the large expected enrollments. Two will be hired for second grade; one for first grade, and two full-time and one half-time aides for kindergarten. A clerical assistant for kindergarten was also approved.

Bronkalla said the kindergarten program has been partially funded by the federal government for the past three years under a pilot program. This has resulted in a savings of about $150,000 to the district, but now the district must assume full cost of the program, he added.

Board members voted to grant aides single salary health insurance rates rather than family rates as provided regular teachers.

A salary increase of $200 per year was approved for board treasurer Mrs. Laverne Vanden Heuvel, but she refused to accept the pay raise.

Approval was given to have Edward Chase Roofers, Appleton, repair the roof of the elementary school at a cost of about $1,000. Masonite window panels will be put in the elementary school at a cost of about $600, in an effort to reduce heat in classrooms from solar glare and to cut down on glass breakage expenses at the school.

Work is to be carried out prior to the start of the new school year. If the panels prove ineffective or require added expense for lighting classrooms, they may be removed and used elsewhere in the system.

The board received a $1,355 check from the Town of Vandenbroek as a mobile home rental fee share of the school district for the first half of 1970. An additional $1,355 will be received later for the remainder of the year. State law requires the school district to receive a share of 1969 mobile home rental fees. The board instructed the school district lawyer to attempt to secure payment for that year.

Board members noted that the Village of Little Chute intended to pay Kaukauna for the 1969 rental fees, as required by law, and felt Vandenbroek should do the same for the village school district.

Supt. Bronkalla was authorized to study the purchase of a bus or van to be used for transporting physically handicapped students, requiring therapy, to schools outside the district.

State's Largest Investment Firm

Loewi & Co., Inc., Milwaukee-based investment company with an Appleton office, has been ranked as the largest Wisconsin-based investment firm for 1969 in net worth and number of branch offices.

Finance Magazine's 1970 Investment Banker-Broker Almanac lists Loewi with 28 branch offices and net worth of $7,576,899. Another branch recently added brings the total to 29.

Loewi improved its net worth ranking of the over 400 firms listed, jumping from 134th place in 1968 to 114th in 1969.

Robert W. Baird & Co. and the Milwaukee Co., both with Appleton offices, were shown to have 15 branch offices and net worth of $5,700,000, and 10 branches and $2,800,000, respectively.

Migrant's Life In Florida Moving Story

BY TV SCOUT

6:30-7:30 Channel 5 — Migrant — An NBC White Paper is Martin Carr's incisive look at the life and times of migrant farm workers in Florida. The program carefully gives the growers' side of the story, but it is the workers' problems — and you may have to read between the quotes a little to get it all — which will move you.

6:30-7 Channels 11-9 — The musk ox is this year's favorite animal. There have been several shows concerning this intriguing creature, and tonight Animal World joins the parade.

6:30-7 Channels 2-7 — Family Affair concludes its two-parter with the family in Tahiti, where Cissy becomes very disillusioned with the young man she thinks she loves, where the children continue to think education is great in Paradise, where Uncle Bill proposes marriage. (R)

7-8 Channels 2-7 — Another night of nostalgic nonsense on Happy Days, highlighted by Bob and Ray's Mr. Agony, confronted by the sad plight of a man who keeps small reptiles in his ice-box. There's also Louis Nye, as the song-tester testing "The Best Things In Life Are Free," and Chuck McCann as Mandrake the Magician and an escape artist whose shoe laces are tied together.

7-7:30 Channels 11-9 — It's winter in summer — watch the snow on That Girl's repeat if you're nostalgic for the cold. Marlo Thomas is snowed in at Kennedy Airport and her adventure is the basis for a script Ted Bessell is writing for TV producer William Schallert. (R)

8-10 Channels 2-7 — "Dear Heart," on The Thursday Night Movies, is what is known in the trade as a woman's picture. It's a sentimental, warm comedy-drama about a spinsterish lady who meets and falls in love with Glenn Ford while on a convention in the city.

TV MOVIES

3:30 p.m.

5 - "Were Wolf in a Girls' Dormitory" (1957) — Terror strikes a girls' dormitory after two girls are slain and mangled as if attacked by a wild beast. Barbara Lass, Carl Schell, Kurt Lowens.

34 - 'Lorna Doone" (1951) — Historic adventure tale of the Doones of Scotland — the Daltons of their day. Richard Green, Barbara Hale, William Bishop.

8:00 p.m.

2-7 - "Dear Heart" (1965) — A small town postmistress attends a convention in New York and attracts the attention of a greeting card salesman who is engaged to a widow with a teenage son. Glenn Ford, Geraldine Page, Angela Lansbury, Barbara Nichols, Patricia Barry.

10:30 p.m.

2 - "Three for the Show" (1955) — Musical about a star who discovers she has one husband too many and a dancer with one too few. Jack Lemmon, Betty Grable, Myron McCormick.

3:30 Friday Early Show Channel 5

5 - "None But the Lonely Heart" (1964) — A cockney wanderer and his sad, wonderful mother and their search for some sort of spiritual fulfillment. Cary Grant, Ethel Barrymore, Barry Fitzgerald.

'Out-of-Towners' Gay Comedy That Relates

Midwest Pair (Jack Lemmon, Sandy Dennis) Have Their Troubles in Move to New York

BY HAYWORD ALLEN

Usually films which come out of or are about New York City border on the exotic. That is, they deal with a strikingly different mode of living. Therefore, we must taste only vicariously of the manners and mores of America's Big City.

"The Out-of-Towners," currently showing at the Viking Theater in Appleton, is different. It departs from the NYC style and allows us center stage: "us" being we outsiders who find huge cities akin to Dante's inferno and not unlike a maelstrom.

Now we get our licks in this hilarious movie and let the world know what it's like to be a total alien.

Gwen and George Kellerman (Sandy Dennis and Jack Lemmon) leave their quiet, little Ohio town for New York City. George has been offered a vice-presidency with his plastics firm and is ultra-excited about the prospects of life in The City. He has reservations for dinner at an exclusive restaurant, a suite of rooms in a posh hotel, and plans for exhausting the joys and glories of New York.

Then The Nightmare

The plane ride is a thing of beauty. Gwen glows. George won't spoil his appetite with airline fare. Dreams of adventure and the exotic abound.

Then the nightmare begins:

1) the plane enters an hours-long holding pattern.
2) George and Gwen land in Boston.
3) luggage is lost.
4) no seats on the train.
5) rain in New York.
6) reservations at hotel cancelled.
7) George is robbed.
8) Central Park becomes their resting place.
9) George breaks a tooth and must whistle his s's.
10) beaten up.
11) can't pray because church is set for TV show.
12) Gren and George are caught in an anti-Cuban demonstration.
13) get hotel room and luggage 15 minutes before interview.

Those are just the large traumas, each has its own sattelite dilemmas.

'Laugh Upon Laugh'

"The Out-of-towners" certainly was made for Jack Lemmon by Neil Simon, author of "Barefoot in the Park" (about NYC), "The Odd Couple" (about NYC), "Plaza Suite" (about NYC). The actor and the writer obviously are on the same comedic time-length. Lines whiz by, laugh upon laugh, like the staccato reports of an M-16. Lemmon is that kind of comic. Simon is that kind of writer.

Sandy Dennis emerges victorious. Despite the seeming coalition of Lemmon and Simon to dominate the film, Miss Dennis upstages them all by underplaying her role. It's something new for her, actually.

The key to her portrayal of Gwen is the oft-repeated exclamation, "Oh my God.", sotto voce. In so doing, she establishes a character who, one expects, would be made absolutely distraught only by an atomic explosion in Twin Oaks, Ohio, and then she'd worry about her children first.

"The Out of Towners" (playing at the Viking Theater) gives us a chance to say "Amen" because we have all encountered some of the same experiences in times spent in an amorphous megapolitian monster. And which made us all glad to get home to our warm, quiet, and familiar little towns which really give America its heart.

25 Packer Rookies Report

Phil Breathes Sigh of Relief

BY LEE REMMEL

GREEN BAY—Phil Bengston was somewhat relieved, he admitted.

Surveying the busy dressing room, in which a number of scantily clad athletes were undergoing various stages of physical examinations Wednesday night, the Packer headmaster observed with quiet satisfaction, "It was nice . . . we've got 100 per cent attendance.

Twenty-five rookies, all who had been scheduled to appear for the official opening of the Packers' 52nd season in the wake of a lockout of veterans, were very much in evidence and passing through the check points in quiet, orderly fashion.

This, it was not necessary for Bengtson to add, was much more substantial turnout than he had been led to anticipate earlier in the day. It had been announced Wednesday morning that the National Football League Players Association was asking all rookie players to join the veterans in sitting out until the players' contractual dispute with the owners has been settled.

"You never know," the Packer coach and general manager soberly noted. "This thing has been a rumor factory for a week, so you really weren't sure what to expect."

3 Missing

Top draftees Mike McCoy, Rich McGeorge and Alvin Matthews were the only absentees among the 28 official freshmen — and all had good excuses. McCoy and Matthews both are with the College All-Stars, and McGeorge is on a six-month tour of Army duty in California.

The Packers not only were blessed with a full rookie complement it developed, had to turn one hopefuly away.

"Larry Cox, a defensive lineman from Abilene Christian, had no idea where he stood," Bengtson reported. "The definition given by the NFL when the lockout was announced said only rookies or players who never had been activated for a league game would be welcome.

"He had been activated at one time for Denver, not last year but the year before, and he wasn't sure whether he should come or not, so he reported. But we couldn't include him with the rookies because of the defination.

☆ ☆ ☆ ☆ ☆ ☆

He was a little short of money, too," Bengtson added with a sympathetic smile, and he asked, "Where am I going to sleep?"

Must Follow Rule

"We'd like to help the guy—we don't want to throw him to the wolves — but they've made the ground rules for us and we have to follow them."

So far as could be determined, none of the bona fide rookies had been asked not to report by the players' association. But two members of the Pack's 1969 taxi squad, Leon Harden and Larry Agajanian, said they officially had been requested by the NFLPA to stay at home, although they are, by the NFL owners' definition, technically rookies.

Agajanian, who checked in at 256 pounds, informed, "I'm a member of the players' association because of having been injured last year. I got credit for the year, even though I didn't play in a league game.

"But, on the other hand, anyone who was on the taxi squad last year was considered a rookie. I asked Ken Bowman, our player representative, what I should do and he checked on it. He decided it was up to me . . . I was kind of caught in the middle."

Goes Against Request

Harden, who could figure prominently in the Packer secondary if Herb Adderley should elect to "retire," said, "I received a bulletin letter from the association asking me not to report but I decided I'd better come anyway."

The 23-year-old Texan explained, "I got a telegram from Coach (Pat) Peppler which said

Change in Signals

Packer Vets Won't Hold Organized Drills

GREEN BAY — There has been a change in signals. . .for Packers veterans.

Unlike the 1968 player strike, there will be no organized, informal workouts as a "team," linebacker Jim Flanigan reported today.

Flanigan, who earlier had said that such practices were planned, informed, "The way things stand now, everybody's on his own."

All veteran players have been excluded from practice by National Football League club owners until the owners reach agreement with the NFL players' association in their current dispute.

"The way the fellows feel," said Flanigan, "is that, because we're in a small town, we'd be able to work out together as a group whereas players in the big cities wouldn't be able to do that.

"So everybody is going to do more or less his own thing. If you want to work out at 9 o'clock in the morning or 8 o'clock at night, that's up to you. That will work out good, too, because some guys don't like to work out at 8 or 9 o'clock in the morning."

Flanigan said there had been pressure from the National Football League Players Association to refrain from organized practices.

"We here in town just thought it would be better if we didn't and it's been more or less condoned by the association. The association doesn't care what you do. They want you to work out to stay in shape but it's up to the individual.

"We decided not to do it so we didn't get any unnecessary publicity about working out together. Somebody in Kansas City might see it in the paper and think we were carrying on secret, organized workouts.

"What we probably will do is work out in small groups. I'll call Bill Lueck, Phil Vandersea and Dick Himes and we'll probably run four or five miles. I imagined Bart will call Carroll Dale and John Spilis and they'll throw a few and run a few patterns.

"But there definitely will be no organized, group workouts."

Former 'Baiters' Commend Fired Arbiters

Williams, Stanky Testify in AL Dispute

By HARRY EISENBERG

BOSTON (AP) — Two former major league managers, both known during their careers for having short tempers with umpires, have contradicted American League President Joe Cronin's evaluation of two umpires he fired in 1968 for being incompetent.

"Very capable," said Dick Williams, former manager of the Boston Red Sox and now coach of the Montreal Expos.

"Very competent," said Eddie Stanky, former manager of the St. Louis Cardinals and the Chicago White Sox.

Both men testified Wednesday in the third day of a National Labor Relations Board hearing the cases of Al Salerno and Bill Valentine.

Salerno, a major league umpire for seven years, and Valentine, a six-year veteran, contend in their unfair labor practice suit against the league that they were fired because they were trying to organize a collective bargaining unit for American League umpires.

Never Competent

The league contends, however, that they were fired for being "never at any one time competent."

Both Williams and Stanky were summoned by the NLRB to testify before examiner David Davidson.

A major part of the questioning centered on umpires swearing, which the league says is part of its case against Salerno.

Williams testified that swearing is "used to some extent" by umpires. He said, under questioning by NLRB Counsel Henry Kelleher, that he and Salerno exchanged profanities in a game in 1968 against the Minnesota Twins on a key play. He said, however, that there was nothing unusual about the words exchanged.

Under cross-examination by James Garner, league counsel, Williams said he could not recall any other instances when an umpire swore at him. "This was brought up," he said, "and I remember the incident."

Under further questioning by Garner, Williams said he recalled saying to umpire Jim Honochick in a 1968 game in which he was ejected: "You had a no good, lousy crew all summer and they rubbed off on you."

Worked on Crew

Salerno said he worked in Honochick's crew about 85 games that year. Valentine said he could not recall exactly, but he worked on Honochick's crew longer than usual, and it may have been all season.

Under further questioning by Kelleher, however, Williams said he did not know who was on Honochick's crew at the time.

"Probably at that time I was very upset," he said. "There are some crews you have trouble with, it just works out that way . . . Sometimes all the close plays go against you . . . it does not mean they're not good umpires."

Stanky, now a baseball coach at the University of South Alabama, said he had observed the work of both men. "I sincerely believe," he said, "that when these men come to the major leagues, they are competent."

He also testified that he has heard umpires use "slang, not obscenities" on the ball field.

"I don't approve of obscene language," Stanky said. "I never did. Don't like it."

Lone Hit by Reid

Cards Nip Foxes In 13 Innings, 1-0

CEDAR RAPIDS, IOWA — The Appleton Foxes, limited to one base hit, held on for 13 innings before dropping a 1-0 Midwest League decision to Cedar Rapids Wednesday night.

The loss was the fourth in 16 games for the Foxes in the second half of league play and dropped their lead to two games over Decatur.

Bill Durham stopped the Foxes for 10 innings and Mike Maselbas checked them in the final three to pick up the win. Roger Reid's single to left field in the fourth inning was the lone safety.

An infield out advanced Reid to second in the fourth, and he was the only Appleton runner to reach that base until the ninth when Ross Sapp was safe on an error and then stole second. A 10th inning error and a walk put Appleton runners on first and second with two out as the Foxes touched second base only three times during the contest.

Walks in Run

The Cardinals scored their lone run in the 13th off relief pitcher George Weimer. Tom Lambert started the inning with a hit to left, which got past Sapp for a two-base error and left Lambert on third. Weimer walked the next two batters to load the bases.

Gary Breshears and Jim Williams both grounded to Reid at second who threw to the plate to stop the possible scores. But Weimer went to a 3-and-2 count on Mike Price before issuing the fourth ball to force in Kent Calderan with the run.

Cedar Rapids loaded the bases with no outs in the 10th on three straight singles, but a double play and a strikeout ended the threat.

Dennis Deck started for Appleton and pitched nine innings, giving up four hits, walking two and fanning none. Eugene Koon worked the next three innings and was rapped for four hits.

Durham walked three and struck out seven in his 10 inning stint. Maselbas walked two and fanned two.

The Foxes play the Cardinals again tonight before moving to Davenport, Iowa for three games with the Quad Cities Angels.

Assault Case Against Santo Is Dismissed

CHICAGO (AP) — Charges of assault and battery against third baseman Ron Santo of the Chicago Cubs were dismissed Wednesday in Domestic Relations Court.

Santo was accused of throwing James Dillon of Chicago, a beer vendor at Wrigley Field, against a wall and trying to hit him.

Santo was signing autographs May 7, 1969, when Dillon allegedly said he would rather have Don Young's autograph than Santo's.

The incident occurred a few days after rookie Young made an error in the outfield and was upbraided by Santo, team captain. Santo later apologized.

Magistrate Jack S. Wellfield, in dismissing the charges, said Santo had acted "intentionally and knowingly" but that "there was some justification."

$7.8 Million Difference Stands in Way of NFL, Players Settlement

By MIKE RECHT

NEW YORK (AP) — A difference of $7.8 million in pension benefits emerged today as the major stumbling block to a settlement between National Football League players and owners after player's sources revealed their side of the issues.

The owners have offered $18 million in pension and insurance benefits for four years, an average of $4.5 million per year, while the players are asking for $25.8 million, or $6.45 million per year, a source close to the players told the Associated Press. The players were getting $2.8 million each year during the two-year pact which expired, making the $18 million figure an increase of about 53 per cent.

The player's source was answering an earlier Associated Press story quoting club sources as saying the owners were making an $18 million offer, but that the players had countered with a $29 million "must-take-all" demand.

Incorrect Arithmetic

"The $29 million figure never came into the discussions," the player's source said. "It is a piece of incorrect arithmetic. They (the owners) must be adding together everything. Both the $18 million and the $25.8 million figures relate only to pension and insurance benefits."

However, the players are asking for increased shares in postseason games, including the Super Bowl, and these increases possibly could be the difference between $25.8 million and $29 million.

The player's source said the owners also made two qualifications to their figure—that payments to players on losing teams in divisional playoff games be eliminated, and that players give up their financial rights for the use of their names, faces or uniforms in commercial enterprises. This right was granted them during 1968 negotiations.

The player's source said the $18-million figure would cost each club about $40,000 a year, while the $25.8 figure would be about $140,000 a year.

Point to TV

He pointed out that the owners have negotiated a television contract of about $40 million, an increase of about $13 million from the previous one.

Answering owners' fears that television revenue and attendance might not remain at its present level, he said the players were willing to reduce their demands accordingly should that happen.

While the pension issue was clear enough, the issue involving Commissioner Pete Rozelle's powers remained muddled. The players say it has been resolved by their agreeing to make Rozelle the final arbitrator on any non-injury grievance. Club sources, however, said the players still want an outside arbitrator to rule on general grievances filed by players.

While the issues were being made known, the threat to the College All-Star Game in Chicago July 31 lessened when the All-Stars decided to resume organized practice today in Evanston, Ill.

The decision was announced in Chicago by Steve Tannen of the All-Stars and in New York by John Mackey, president of the Players Association.

Sympathy Strike

The All-Star rookies had gone on a sympathy strike Wednesday in support of the NFLPA after the owners had decided to lock the veterans out of training camp until the contract dispute is settled.

"We felt the best course of action would be to resume practice . . . while still endorsing the Players Association demands," Tannen said.

"We recognize that the All-Stars need more time than Kansas City to train before the game." Mackey said. " . . . to hold these players out of camp while other rookies are being allowed by the NFLPA to practice would be unfair."

The world champion Kansas City Chiefs opened their rookie camp Wednesday, along with several other NFL teams.

In other training camp developments, John Carlos, the former Olympic sprinter who signed to play with the Philadelphia Eagles, will be sidelined six weeks. Carlos tore a ligament in his right knee during a workout Tuesday and was to undergo an operation today.

Coach Blanton Collier of the Cleveland Browns was going to decide today whether to keep the club's rookie camp open or close it. No veterans are on hand and there are not enough players available to conduct many of the practice drills.

The Oakland Raiders reported 28 players in camp at Santa Rosa, Calif., while coaches conducting the Dallas Cowboys' rookie workout at Thousand Oaks, Calif., found themselves with plenty of receivers but only one quarterback.

Fox Cities Open Tennis

Vetter, Jan Smith Top Seeds

The Fox Cities Open tennis tournament will be held Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the Fox Cities Racquet Club, Casaloma Drive, Appleton.

Seeding for the various divisions are as follows: Mens Singles: No. 1, Rick Vetter of Elm Grove; No. 2, Jim Jankowski of South Milwaukee, No. 3, John Schwartz of Madison and No. 4, Mike Plate of Kenosha.

Mens 35: No. 1, Don Vought of Neenah; No. 2, Wayne Cody of Wauwautosa, No. 3, Bob Curtis of Janesville and No. 4, David Marker of Kalamazoo, Mich.

In Mens 45: No. 1, Walter Stumpf of Wauwautosa, No. 2, John Bruecker of Milwaukee, No. 3, George Rushton and No. 4, Dr. Jack G. Anderson, both of Appleton.

In Mens 55: Harry Jens of Sherwood is ranked No. 1, and Elmer Sanger of Milwaukee, No. 2.

Valley Entrants

Other Fox Valley residents participating are: Bill Simon, Elwood Zeichold and Nick Caramehas of Green Bay; Kris Ostrowski and Judy Wiegman of Neenah; and Barbara and Jim Olson, Mark Medow, D. W. Russler and Allen West of Appleton.

Edmond Sutherland, Jr., whose father is a local resident, will come from Wilmette, Ill. to participate.

Play will begin at 4 p.m. Friday, some games being played on the Lawrence University courts. Semi-final and final rounds will be played on the new outdoor courts at the Racquet Club. Finals will be played Sunday afternoon.

Bob Luedtke, tournament director, urges spectators to attend. There is no charge.

50 Million Fans Viewed 41st All-Star Tilt on TV

NEW YORK (AP) — NBC-TV estimated Wednesday that a record 50 million persons watched the network's coverage of the 41st All-Star baseball game in Cincinnati Tuesday night.

The figure was based on a Nielsen report which stated the game drew a 31.9 rating in the New York metropolitan area, topping the previous high rating of 21.6 set during the 1968 All-Star game.

Tigers Send Earl Wilson To San Diego

Veteran Pitcher Says He May Not Report to Padres

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Tigers sold pitcher Earl Wilson to the San Diego Padres Wednesday for the $20,000 waiver price.

Wilson, 4-6 with Detroit this season with a 4.41 earned-run-average, had been relegated to the bullpen lately after two straight bad starts.

Earl Wilson

The Tigers said he would report immediately to the National League Padres but Wilson might not be so anxious to join them.

In a television interview with sportscaster Al Ackerman after the announcement, Wilson said he had talked with San Diego president Buzzy Bavasi and told him "I will let him know" if he will report.

"It depends on whether business interests make me stay in Detroit," he told Ackerman, of station WWJ-TV. Otherwise he said he would retire from baseball, but needed a day to think it over rme, came to the Tigers June 26, 1966, from the Boston Red Sox in a trade for outfielder Don Demeter.

With Detroit the big right-hander won 64 and lost 45, including a 22-11 record in 1967. Plagued by injuries, he faded to 13-12 the next year as the Tigers captured the American League pennant and won the World Series.

Last year he was 12-10 and during the year's spring training there were a few doubts he would make the starting rotation, until Denny McLain got suspended officially April 1.

McLain returned to the lineup July 1 and that apparently made Wilson expendable. Detriot has other capable starters in Joe Neikro, Mickey Lolich, Les Cain and Mike Kilnenny.

Wilson's 11-year major league record is 120 victories and 103 losses. During that span the 6-foot-3, 215-pound native of Ponchatoula, La., also slugged 34 homers, three shy of the major league record for a pitcher.

In 1962 with the Red Sox he hurled a no-hitter against the then Los Angeles Angels.

39 Batters Over .300

Hitters Smiling, Pitchers Groaning — Baseballs Flying

BY MIKE RECHT

NEW YORK (AP) — Only two years ago hitters were moaning loudly and pitchers smiling quietly as the men on the mound dominated the game. Now who's grinning and who's groaning?

Whether it was because of the lowering of the pitching mound, a shortening of the strike zone, expansion, the new artificial fields or a livening of the baseball, 1970 has become the year of the hitters — at least as the second half of the season began today.

In 1968, there were only six .300 hitters in the major leagues —only one in the American League—and just 1,995 home runs, bringing a cry that low run games were turning off the fans.

Things picked up last year when there were 18 .300 hitters and more than 3,000 homers, and by the first half of this season, bats were booming more than ever. And the way hitters like Pete Rose and Carl Yastrzemski talked at the All-Star game Tuesday after playing on Cincinnati's new Astroturf, the second half of the season will bring more of the same.

As play resumed today with 12 games, there were 39 hitters batting .300 or better and already almost 2,000 home runs in the majors.

The Cincinnati Reds, keeping in tune with the times, are the top hitting team in the majors with 123 home runs and a team batting average of about .277 Those figures, along with improved pitching over last year, have made the Reds the only runaway leader going into the last half of July

The Reds have surprised everyone by taking a 10-game lead at the All-Star break in the National League West, a division that had a tight four-team race last season when the Reds finished fourth.

The biggest surprise in the American League has been the California Angels, who were in last place, 22 games back, at this time last season in the West. The Angels presently are second to Minnesota, five games behind.

Cincinnati's pitching staff has been perhaps the biggest surprise of all. The Reds added rookie Wayne Simpson and Jim McGlothlin and Gary Nolan returned from arm trouble to join holdover Jim Merritt, and all four have a chance at 20 victories—no team has ever had four 20-game winners in one season

Merritt has 14, Simpson 13 and McGlothlin and Nolan 11 each, joining nine other National League pitchers who have 10 or more victories. The American League has nine.

In 1969, there were 15 20-game winners with a number of them certain not to repeat. Denny McLain of Detroit, after sitting out until July, is without a victory after consecutive seasons of 31 and 24 triumphs; Dave Boswell of Minnesota and Juan Marichal of San Francisco have only three each, and Bill Singer of Los Angeles, sidelined earlier by hepatitis, has five.

Phil Niekro of Atlanta has only seven and Mel Stottlemyre of the New York Yankees and Larry Dierker of Houston have eight each.

Baltimore has a crack at three 20-gamers in Jim Palmer and Dave McNally, 12 each and Mike Cuellar 11.

Defensive Back Provost Signs Los Angeles Pact

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Rams announced Wednesday the signing of Ted Provost, a defensive back from Ohio State and the last rookie to agree to terms with the National Football League club.

Terms of the contract were not announced.

Provost was the third choice of the Rams in the 1969 collegiate draft although chosen on the seventh round. Los Angeles previously had traded away several choices.

Crowd Turned Off

Toothless Tiger Is Beaten by Griffith

NEW YORK (AP) — Emile Griffith still dreams of another shot at Nino Benvenuti's world middleweight title and Madison Square Garden officials are ready to pay top dollar to close the match.

"Nino is still my dream," said the 32-year-old Griffith Wednesday night after winning a unanimous 10-round decision over slow, ring-rusty 40-year-old Dick Tiger of Nigeria.

"I keep on beating all the contenders and I still can't get Nino," said Griffith. "I fight them all in their home towns and I win They tried to get me bumped off in Copenhagen but I beat Tom Bogs. I'm still here "

Although Benvenuti is supposed to make his next defense against Carlos Monzon of Argentina in November, Garden officials still hope to make the Griffith match.

"Whatever they offer you to go to Italy," Garden Matchmaker Teddy Brenner told Gil Clancy, Griffith's manager, "we'll match it here "

Harry Markson, the Garden's boxing director, said he had in mind a January or February date for a middleweight title bout.

Lost to Tiger

Getting Benvenuti may be a problem. He won the title here, lost it back to Griffith and then won it again. In his last New York appearance, the handsome Italian was beaten by Tiger in an over-the-weight match in May, 1969.

Tiger showed his age and the affects of an eight-month layoff while Griffith did a little showboating and taunted him during the fight.

"Come on, Tiger," said Griffith, "Let's fight. You know I'm beating you "

It was after Tiger finally replied in the 10th round and said, "I didn't know you were that kind of a man," referee Pete Della warned them both for talking.

Referee Della and judge Al Berl scored it 7-2-1 and judge Harold Lederman had it 8-2, all in favor of Griffith.

It was unanimous when they fought four years ago, too, but much closer as Griffith won the middleweight title for the first time.

Wednesday night Tiger had a 10-pound edge, 167 to 157 pounds

Abdulakr Gadu, the consul general from Nigeria, visited Tiger's dressing room after the fight. Tiger told him he was sorry he let him down.

Tiger bristled when it was suggested that he might be through

"I fought in Nigeria in 1949," he said. "I turned pro in 1952. I came to England and then to America. I won the middleweight and the light heavyweight title. I have no other business.

The crowd of 8,071 that paid $46,972 came to cheer Tiger but booed the slow bout. They still cheered Tiger when he left, having been turned off by Emile's showboat tactics

Van Bommel's Bat, Pitching Pace Menasha

19 Strikeouts, 2-Run Single Edge Mayville Legion '9'

MENASHA — Bill Van Bommel hurled a 3-hitter, struck out 19 and delivered a 2-run single for the Menasha Twins in a 4-3 Fox River Valley American Legion Baseball League triumph over Mayville here Wednesday night.

The victory boosted the Twins, 8-4, into a half game lead over Fond du Lac in the circuit's Lower Southern division. They can wrap up no worse than a share of first place by topping Sheboygan in their final game Friday night

Fond du Lac, which has a 7-4 mark, is scheduled to play at Kimberly tonight Still to be rescheduled is its makeup game at Neenah.

Van Bommel, who has yet to lose in Legion play this summer, surrendered two of Mayville's hits and all of its runs in the fourth inning.

Menasha collected all of its runs in the seventh on the pitcher's hit, three errors, a walk and a missed third strike.

Loser Tom Herman also tossed a 3-hitter, struck out 12 and, like Van Bommel, walked five.

Bucs to Open Against Reds In New Park

Expect Sell-Out After 10 Years, $55 Million Cost

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Tonight—after 10 years, $55 million and innumerable labor problems—Pittsburgh's Three Rivers Stadium opens.

A sell-out crowd of 50,235 persons will watch the Pittsburgh Pirates host the Cincinnati Reds. The teams lead their respective National League divisions

It will be the largest crowd ever to attend a major league baseball game in Pittsburgh

Three Rivers has a Tartan Turf surface that covers the field at exactly the same places the grass did at Forbes Field.

After a lengthy opening ceremony, following a parade during the day, the Pirates will don new uniforms when they take the field for the National Anthem. For practice they will wear their old ones.

Forbes Field was opened June 30, 1909, and the Pirates went on to win the World Series that year.

Now the Pirates lead the East Division by 1½ games and their fans are hoping for a repeat performance

Three Rivers Stadium should be an asset to the Pirates if they remain in the pennant race—but it could also help the opposition.

Last season the Pirates hit 119 homers but only 43 at Forbes Field. Pirate opponents hit 33 home runs at Forbes Field in 1969. but tagged Pirate pitching for 63 in their own parks

End of Season Deal

Howard for Walton Trade in Making?

MILWAUKEE (AP)—A trade that would send Frank Howard to the Milwaukee Brewers for Danny Walton and two pitchers was reported by Lou Chapman, staff writer for the Milwaukee Sentinel, in this morning's edition of the newspaper.

The trade, Chapman said, would occur at the end of the season.

In a dispatch from Cincinnati, Chapman quoted Robert Short, owner of the Washington Senators as saying "flatly" that his club and Milwaukee will make a major deal at the end of the season "that will put the Brewers in a contending position "

Short insisted, Chapman said that "anybody on our club is available for a trade. I've talked to Howard about this and he knows my feelings "

"The Senators' top boss said he and Marvin Milkes, general manager of the Brewers, had been conducting talks with a view to completing the major trade at the end of the year," the story said

"To make any type of a deal right now, waivers on players have to be obtained in both leagues. It would be impossible to get waivers on a player of Howard's high caliber "

Milkes admitted he had talked with Short, Chapman said, but was noncommittal on the trade

Howard makes his off-season home in Green Bay Wis 125 miles north of Milwaukee

Averages to Zoom Up?

Reds' Synthetic Field Has Players Buzzing

BY HAL BOCK

CINCINNATI (AP) — Underfoot the artificial field at Riverfront Stadium feels spongy, almost like standing on foam rubber. To the touch it is stiff, much firmer than the grass it replaces. It has a deep green color—almost too green to be real—which, of course, it is not.

And, if you take Carl Yastrzemski's word for it, the AstroTurf field should do wonders for batting averages.

"It's great for the hitters," said Boston's Yastrzemski, who tied an All-Star Game record with four hits on the synthetic carpet in the National League's 5-4 12-inning victory over the American League Tuesday night.

"It's got to help some guys jump 30 points in their batting averages," Yastrzemski continued. "You can't believe the speed the ball picks up when it hits that surface."

The manufacturers of AstroTurf claim that it produces baseball's truest bounce, and they've certainly convinced Cincinnati's Pete Rose, who scored the Nationals' winning run Tuesday night.

Bounce Into Seats

Rose, taking batting practice before the game, poled a long drive that seemed headed for the seats. But Pete is familiar with this ballpark. As the ball soared towards the wall, Rose called after it—"Bounce, baby." Like an obedient child, the ball dipped in front of the wall, bounced high over the 15-foot barrier and into the seats.

AstroTurf, man's answer to grass, completely covers the Riverfront Stadium with a sea of green spreading from home plate all the way to the outfield warning tracks. There are no conventional baspaths, only 20-foot long by 10-foot wide sliding pits surrounding each base.

"You can run faster on this stuff," said Rose, a fact he seemed to prove when he raced home from second on Jim Hickman's winning hit Tuesday night. He lost no speed going down the carpeted third base line.

Little Dirt

There is more dirt in the stands than on the field in this ballpark. When it rains, the only portion of the field covered by the protective tarpulins are the sliding pits and pitcher's mound.

"They are soft pads," said Rose, whose head-first dives send chills through Reds' officials who worry that he might miss the pits. "I've made about a dozen slides so far," Rose continued, "and I haven't missed 'em yet.

There are two white chalk lines traced around the infield, one marking what would be the inner edge of the dirt basepath and one marking the outer edge. They also are supposed to help infielders station themselves.

"Were you able to find shortstop? asked Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver, needling California's Jim Fregosi after infield practice. "After awhile," laughed Fregosi.

The turf seems to hold the heat and is somewhat uncomfortable to stand on in the hot sun. "No problem like that in the Astrodome," said Houston infielder Joe Morgan. The Astros' home field is domed and air-conditioned.

Easy to aMintain

The Reds selected the synthetic surface for Riverfront Stadium because of its easy maintenance. It requires practically no care and can absorb huge amounts of water, allowing games to be played even after heavy rain storms.

The only storm Tuesday night was a three-run NL rally which tied the score in the ninth inning and then a two-out rally in the 12th with singles by Rose, Bill Grabarkewitz and Hickman producing the winning run. Rose was particularly happy to be a part of the victory in front of his hometown fans and in the spanking new ballpark. "You know," said Rose, "there's only one thing wrong with this ballpark. There's no clock."

Then the Cincinnati right fielder laughed.

"But when you're 10 games in front, you don't worry about time," he said.

End One-Day Strike

All-Stars Return to Supervised Practice

CHICAGO (AP) — The College All-Stars have made their sympathies known for locked out National Football League veterans and they're ready again to prepare for their scheduled battle with the world champion Kansas City Chiefs.

The collegians decided Wednesday night to return to supervised drills after a one-day strike.

There's still the possibility that the July 31 All-Stars' football classic won't come off, since the Chiefs, along with the other National Football League clubs, have locked out veterans from training during management's dispute with the NFL Players Association.

Nonetheless, All-Star spokesman Steve Tanner said the collegians would train with the squad's coaches today "while still endorsing the Players Association demands."

Worked on Own

Most of the 53 All-Stars worked out on their own at Northwestern University's Dyche Stadium Wednesday, while Coach Otto Graham and his staff remained in seclusion.

John Mackey, president of the Players Association, said in New York that that decision to return to supervised practice was made jointly by the All-Stars and the association.

"We recognize that the All-Stars need more time than Kansas City to train before the game," Mackey said. "Therefore a decision was made . . . to hold these players out of camp while other rookies are being allowed by the NFLPA to practice would be unfair."

A spokesman for the players added that the fact that the All-Star game is played for charity had some bearing on the decision.

"No one wants to hinder a source for a charity," the spokesman said.

$93 Million New Orleans Park Begun

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Test pilings have been hammered down for the 78,000-seat superdome here, a $93 million project that Gov. John McKeithen says will be "the largest building the world has ever seen."

The governor, Mayor Moon Landrieu and various other public officials and sports personalities were on hand for the ceremonial pile driving Wednesday.

Six concrete shafts were to be hammered down to a depth of 165 feet under the main support column of the dome, with eight others 85 feet deep beneath the support columns of the parking complex.

Dixon said demolition of buildings on the site will begin by September with actual construction on the stadium to start next spring. It is supposed to be completed by June or July, 1973.

The stadium will be the home of the New Orleans Saints of the National Football League and is designed to house baseball, hockey, and practically any trade show or convention, Dixon said.

Set Memorial Service Saturday For UW's Martin

MADISON (AP) — Memorial services are planned Saturday in the First Congregational Church for George A. Martin.

George Martin

University of Wisconsin wrestling coach.

Martin was presumed to have lost his life Saturday while on a canoe trip on the Little Jackfish River in Ontario, Canada.

Martin was a professor of physical education and held the head wrestling coach job since 1955. He was 59.

Shoulder Stiff

Ray Fosse in Pain, Not Seriously Hurt

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — All-Star catcher Ray Fosse was to travel with the Cleveland Indians today to Kansas City, but he was not expected to play in tonight's opening game of a three-game series with the Royals.

Fosse suffered a painful bruise in his left shoulder in a home plate collision with Pete Rose at the end of Tuesday's All - Star game. Rose scored the winning run on the play.

"It (the shoulder) stiffened up right when it happened," Fosse said Wednesday. "I won't be able to play tomorrow with this pain. It's okay unless I raise my arm."

The shoulder should loosen up in another 24 hours, Indians trainer Wally Bock said. Ray will be sore for three or four days. There's no separation and that's what I was fearful of. It's just badly bruised. The joint at the shoulder was jarred and this created the stiffness.

I thought for Rose would go around me. Fosse said of the 12th inning play in which he was injured. He (Rose) said he started to dive but had no place to go.

If he had it would have saved me a lot of pain, he added, trying to laugh.

"(Outfielder) Amos Otis threw the ball real well and I knew if I got it, he (Rose) was out," Fosse continued. Otis had fielded Jim Hickman's single and thrown to the plate.

I was considered a rookie and should report. At the time, I was mixed up and I didn't know which way to go. . .but I didn't want to be considered a rookie and not report."

Bengtson, needless to say, was happy to have every possible hand available for the inauguration this morning of two-a-day workouts which obviously will be stringently limited by lack of manpower.

When the lockout was first announced earlier in the week, he ruefully noted, "We've found, for practice purposes, the rookie squad doesn't break down too well."

Nebraska's elongated Frank Patrick, a tenth round draft choice who is officially listed as a tight end, is the only quarterback in camp and there are only three defensive backs on the roster—Jim Heacock (Muskingum), Ervin Hunt (Fresno State) and Harden.

"By way of ironic contrast, there are five placekicking specialists, including returnee Joe Runk, and four wide receivers. The latter include Terry Fredenberg, the slender UW-M alumnus who is back for a second try after making an impressive showing in 1969's training camp.

PACKER PATTER — Runk, like Harden and Agajanian, was a taxi squad member last season — at Buffalo. . .He joined the Bills after being released by the Packers and kicked off for Buffalo in its final pre-season game against the Rams before being assigned to the Cab team. . .Joe, who is hoping to unseat Booth Lusteg as the Pack's kicking specialist, wryly reported, "I didn't get a chance to kick any field goals for the Bills — just like here." Runk, a data processor in Phoenix, Ariz., during the off-season, described himself as "real happy to be back."

Defensive tackle Russ Melby, a tenth round pick from Weber State, guard Don Bliss of Wisconsin, back for a second attempt, and Agajanian proved to be the most substantial citizens at weigh-in. . .Melby scaled 256 and the brawny Blisse, like Aggie, 256. . .Defensive end Cecil Pryor, a fifth round choice from Michigan, checked in at an imposing 246 and Minnesota's Jim Carter, tabbed in the third round as a linebacker, at 242. . .Heacock, a rangy 6-foot-2, was the lightweight of the crew at 173.

The physical examinations were conducted under the supervision of Drs. James Nellen and Gene Brusky. Packer team physicians. . .Also assisting were trainers Dominic Gentile and Carl (Bud) Jorgensen, the latter back for his 47th Packer season.

Graebner Is Defeated in Net Tourney

Loyo-Mayo Tips 6th Seeded U.S. Ace; Ashe Wins

WASHINGTON (AP) — Little Joaquin Loyo-Mayo says he wasn't angry because he wasn't given a higher seeding in the $35,000 Washington Star International Tennis tournament even though he is Mexico's top player.

"It doesn't bother me to be left out," the 5-foot-6 star said Wednesday after defeating sixth seeded Clark Graebner of New York, a U.S. Davis Cup team member who is ranked fourth in the country.

The former NCAA champion from Southern California explained that this is the first time he's played on the entire tennis tour. Previously, Loyo-Mayo said, he had only played in the summer.

No Revenge

The 24-year-old Loyo-Mayo said he didn't even think of his victory as revenge over Graebner who beat him in Davis Cup competition in 1966 and 1968.

Loyo-Mayo scored the first major upset of the tournament when he downed Graebner, not known for his clay court game, 6-4, 6-3 in the second round.

He upset Graebner with his steady baseline game and passing shots. Graebner complained of the noise from the crowd and several baseline calls.

The Mexico Davis Cupper was to play Australian Dick Crealy in today's third round but said he never played him before.

All of the seeded players advanced to the third round, but Stan Smith, America's top-ranked player and second seed here, had to struggle to defeat another Latin, Miguel Olvera of Ecuador, 5-7, 8-6, 6-3 in 2½-hour battle in the heat and high humidity.

Smith Faces Pasarell

Smith was matched against fellow U.S. Davis Cup member, Charles Pasarell of Puerto Rico, today.

Pasarell, in an odd match, defeated Dick Stockton of Garden City, N.Y., 6-3, 0-6, 6-0.

The Nastase of Rumania, top seeded, defeated Jim McManus of Berkeley, Calif., 6-2, 6-0, and was to face Pancho Guzman of Ecuador, who downed Lito Alvarez of Argentina 3-6, 6-1, 6-2.

Arthur Ashe of Richmond Va., third seed, defeated Onny Parun of New Zealand, 6-3, 6-3 and was matched with Jaime Fillol of Chile, 14th seed, who beat G. Vilas of Argentina 6-3, 6-1.

Cliff Richey of San Angelo Tex., 4th seed, defeated Barry MacKay of San Francisco, 6-2, 6-2, and was to play Mike Estep of Dallas who won two matches Wednesday. He first completed a match started the day before with Ray Ruffels, 6-4, 6-3, 8-6 and then downed Frank Froehling of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. 6-2, 6-2.

U.S. Track Team Leads

Americans Win 5 Events in First Day's Competition

STUTTGART, Germany (AP) — "I have confidence we'll win if we hold our momentum," said Leroy Walker, coach of the touring U.S. men's track team as the Americans prepared for tonight's windup of their two-day meet with West Germany.

The American men hold a slim 58-48 lead after Wednesday's opening events before 20,000 at Neckar Stadium and Walker commented "I'm very satisfied with the first-night point total after our good performances in tossup events such as the javelin and pole vault."

Bill Skinner, a Navy veteran from the University of Tennessee, won the javelin with a throw of 291 feet, 9.64 inches. Sam Caruthers of Santa Clara, Calif., took the pole vault at 17 feet, 0.72 inches.

Other American winners were Ralph Mann of Brigham Young in the 400-meter hurdles, John Smith of UCLA in the 400-meter race and Ben Vaughan of the U.S. Army with 10-second flat performance in the 100-meter dash, only one tenth of a second off the world record.

The American girls did not do so well. They trailed the German girls 37-25 after Wednesday's competition.

Ohio Democrat Alters New Politics Formula

John J. Gilligan, Candidate for Governor, Wooing Labor, Avoids Student Connections

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio — Nothing could have been more removed from New Politics polemics than the quiet little pep talk given labor-Democratic faithful by John J. Gilligan, Democratic nominee for governor, over breakfast at Steubenville's Holiday Inn last week

Denouncing the Republican statehouse scandal as "that sordid mess in Columbus," Gilligan launched a soak-the-rich spiel in the old Democratic tradition. When he denounced Ohio's regressive tax system as treating the $50,000-a-year man more gently than the Social Security pensioner, grizzled union leaders who were cursing Gilligan two years ago nodded their heads in approval

Indeed, the Gilligan of 1970 only faintly resembles the Gilligan of 1968, whose new politics campaign for the senate was an artistic success but an electoral failure A brief quotation from G K Chesterton was the only example at Steubenville of the intellectual exhibitionism that offended Ohioans two years ago. His abrasive themes of 1968 — anti-Vietnam and pro-student — are gone.

party to power in this longtime Republican state, Democrats around the country will have an object lesson in practical politics

Seldom has any Ohio Democrat begun a campaign with Gilligan's advantages. Attractive and articulate, he outshines the habitually gray Ohio candidate — typified by state auditor Roger Cloud, his Republican foe for governor. Besides, Cloud is now additionally burdened by disintegration of the Ohio Republican machine and the statehouse scandal Put together, this gives Gilligan a comfortable lead over Cloud in private polls.

What worries Democratic strategists is whether red-haired, flamboyant Jack Gilligan will stay in harness. Although friends say he has genuinely matured and is not likely to resume voter-baiting from the campaign stump, Democratic leaders fear his natural affinity for the constituency of the New Politics — particularly the students — could be his undoing

Republicans share that view They feel Gilligan's impressive lead can be whittled down only by depicting him as a man of the left so that voters will forget the statehouse scandal

Courting Business

To that end, Republicans will concentrate on Gilligan's financial support from labor unions and his proposed enactment of a state corporate income tax. But such an attack won't have much impact outside the state's corporate board rooms, which are overwhelmingly Republican anyway

Moreover, Gilligan is doing something he scarcely attempted in 1968: courting the business community. A cordial meeting was held recently in Dayton with top business executives, Gilligan giving a plausible though not universally accepted explanation for his corporate tax scheme

Where Gilligan is most vulnerable and where the Republicans hope to bring him down, however, is the student issue Ohio politicians generally agree that the killing of four students at Kent State University by National Guardsmen dispatched by Gov. James A. Rhodes actually won Rhodes votes in his losing May primary battle for the senate against Rep Robert Taft, Jr.

Dredge Up Old Speech

Accordingly, Republicans are dredging up an off-the-record 1966 speech by Gilligan to Xavier University in Cincinnati putting him in favor of student revolt. In advance rebuttal, Gilligan's office is mailing a detailed explanation of the Xavier affair to Ohio newspapers

More important than rebuttals will be Gilligan's ability to hold his tongue. Advisers have strongly urged him not to voice his misgivings about the Ohio legislature's tough new legislation requiring expulsion of disorderly students from state colleges According to polling data, close identification with the students means political defeat in Ohio

Therein lies the difference between the Gilligan campaigns of 1968 and 1970 With labor and the regular party disaffected by Gilligan's anti-Vietnam stand at the Chicago convention, he relied in 1968 on students to carry his message to the people. With the labor and the party now returned to a marriage of convenience with him, intimate association with the students must be avoided In Ohio, as most other states, the New Politics is a formula for defeat

De Pere Police Seek Secret Service's Help To Find Counterfeiters

DE PERE (AP)—The DePere Police Department has asked the U S Secret Service for help in tracking down persons who have passed more than 35 counterfeit $20 bills in the past two months in the Brown County area.

DePere Police Chief Timothy Baumgart noted the call for assistance Tuesday, when he announced that two more of the bogus bills had turned up in DePere.

Baumgart said he expected special Secret Service agents from Milwaukee to handle the case.

Opening Round

Three Teams Advance In KRA Tournament

KIMBERLY — Bleier's Bar of Appleton, Appleton Seal Coating and Lee and Sandy's of Kaukauna each won their respective games Wednesday night in the opening round of the third annual Kimberly Recreation Department 12 - inch Softball Tournament at Sunset Park here.

Three games are scheduled for tonight and the tournament continues through Sunday this week and then resumes Thursday, July 23. The finals will be played on Sunday, July 26.

In tonight's games, Jerry's Lanes of Kimberly faces Merle & Noreen's of Little Chute in the opener at 6:30 p.m. Kaukauna Athletic Club meets Dickinson Moto-Ski of Suamico in the 7:45 contest, and Schouten Oilers of Kaukauna wind up the night with a 9:00 p.m. game against Tosh's Bar of Oshkosh.

Lee & Sandy's jumped on Rog's Barber Shop of Kimberly for all nine runs in the first two innings of their 9-5 victory. The winners scored four in the first and five in the second. Rog's tallied their runs in the second, fourth and sixth frames.

Dan Voet was the winner for the Kaukauna team and Gary Busch was charged with the loss. Voet also went 3-for-3 at the plate to aid his winning performance.

Roger Mathison scattered five hits as he hurled Appleton Seal Coating to a 4-0 win over Little Speeds of Green Bay. The Appleton team scored a run in the first, two in the third on Arlyn Pues' two-run homer, and added another tally in the fifth.

Frank Foytik was the loser for Little Speeds.

Bob Ashenbrenner gave up two runs on three hits and struck out nine in Bleier's 4-2 victory over Circle Tap of Denmark. Circle Tap scored both runs in the fourth after Bleier's had taken a 4-0 lead with a run in the first and three in the third.

Ashenbrenner, Brian Zordel and Don Brown each had two hits, accounting for six of the eight hits for the winners.

Valders Jaycees Host Youth Baseball Meet

Your Money's Worth

Items to Watch in Home Improvements

BY SYLVIA PORTER
(Second of Two Articles)

Let's say you are planning a major home - improvement project — building a garage, installing a swimming pool, finishing an unfinished basement, remodeling your kitchen.

You have located, with the help of friends, a well-recommended local contractor, the nearest Federal Housing Administration office, and your local bank.

Porter

You are now faced with the problem of drawing up a contract for the job, and on this contract may hang hundreds or even thousands of dollars — the amounts of your potential financial losses if the contractor fails to do the job as you want and expect it to be done.

On this contract, in sum, hangs your entire legal protection against shoddy workmanship, inferior materials, and non-completion of the job, among other hazards.

In a recent New York City law, the homeowner is given a 48-hour "cooling off" period after he has signed a home-improvement contract, during which period he may cancel the contract by a written "notice of recision" to the contractor.

Right of Recision

Similarly, under the 1969 Federal Truth in Lending law, consumers also have a right of recision lasting three business days after signing a contract involving a home-improvement loan — if they change their minds about going ahead with the work.

In some areas, finally, the vicious "holder in due course" doctrine is now being challenged. Under this doctrine, a home - improvement contractor may sell the installment loan paper he has lured a homeowner into signing to a lending institution — which, in turn, refuses to take any responsibility whatever if the contractor welches on his verbal promises to the homeowner.

But, if the home-improvement contract does not involve a loan, you, the vast majority of homeowners in this country, are strictly on your own when it comes to drawing up a home-improvement contract.

What should and should not be included in a home-improvement contract?

— First, and indisputably foremost, your home-improvement contract should spell out, CLEARLY, the full costs of the job.

— If the contractor has also arranged the financing of your contract — the document should state the full interest costs of the loan and the payment schedule you'll be expected to meet. And it should include the specifications of all key materials, including brand names, and a work-completion schedule.

About Guarantees

— If the work is guaranteed by the contractor — as many types of home improvements should be — the details of the guarantee should be carefully written out.

Most important: What happens if the materials or workmanship don't hold up as the contractor said they would? And note: Don't confuse a manufacturer's guarantee of his materials with the guarantee you also must get from the contractor covering proper application of installation of the materials.

— Under no circumstances sign a contract with any blank spaces left on it. Have the items which don't apply marked "VOID" or have them crossed out.

— Finally, be sure your contract requires the builder to do a thorough clean-up job after work is completed. Getting rid of the junk left over from any building project can be a splitting headache and a major expense.

These may seem tedious details to you now. But believe the hundreds of thousands of tragically disappointed homebuilders out of whose experiences these rules have been created: They will be the crucial material of your home improvement.

Local Better Business Bureaus, FHA offices and other consumer-oriented agencies are loaded with literature and guidelines on home-improvement contracts, contractors and many other aspects of this subject. Use them!

Hundley Set To Catch Again

Cubs Start 7-Game Road Trip at Astros; Chisox Meet Tigers

CHICAGO (AP) — Catcher Randy Hundley becomes available to the Chicago Cubs tonight as they begin a seven-game road campaign.

Hundley, out for more than two months with a knee injury, said he is not completely in shape, but that recovery is coming along fine.

"I should be available for two or three innings per game," he said. "I'll work in gradually."

The Cubs, five games out of first place in the National League East, open a four-game series in Houston tonight and play three in Atlanta beginning Monday.

Ferguson Jenkins (10-10) will go for the Cubs against the Astros' Larry Dierker (8-8) in the opener.

Worst Mark

The Chicago White Sox, meanwhile, begin a battle tonight to rid themselves of the poorest record in the majors.

The timing, however, isn't considered favorable. Detroit, holding down second place in the American League East, provides the competition for the first three games of the current Sox home stand, followed by division-leading Baltimore Orioles for another three contests.

The Sox will start Jerry Janeski (7-8) tonight against either Mickey Lolich (8-1) or Les Cain (9-2) for the Tigers.

Outlasts Paul for Victory

J. J. Smith Wins Feature at Fair

Post-Crescent News Service

SEYMOUR — Appleton's J.J. Smith gained the lead on the 11th lap after a five lap battle with New London's Roger Paul and wheeled his 1969 Ford Torino to victory in the 20-lap stock car feature event at the Outagamie County Fairgrounds here Wednesday night.

A crowd of 2,735 fair goers and race fans witnessed the night's events which had 32 cars competing. Paul had been the night's fastest qualifier.

Paul gained the lead in the fifth lap from De Pere's Bobby Marquis and one lap later Smith pulled up on him and the battle ensued. Smith managed to get by on the inside in the third turn on the 11th lap and then pulled to a healthy lead. Paul was second with Shawano's M.J. McBride a distant third.

Larson Cops Semi

Green Bay's Doug Larson, in a 1968 Ford Torino, won the 15-lap semi-feature event. Larson battled his way through the pack to gain the lead on the 14th lap, slipping past early leader, Corny Schmidt of Shawano.

On the final lap Schmidt's racer suffered engine problems and stalled in the backstretch. He failed to place. Oconto Falls' Mike McDermott moved past him into second with Seymour's Carl Prelipp third.

De Pere's Earl Schmude opened up the night's program by winning the first heat while Green Bay's Dan Johnson held off Larson to win the second heat.

Pulaski's Ben Banaszynski won the third heat while Shawano's Willard Raddant copped the fourth heat with J.J. Smith settling for second.

Results:

20-lap Feature: 1. J.J. Smith, Appleton; 2. Roger Paul, New London; 3. M. J. McBride, Shawano; 4. Wilard Raddant, Shawano; 5. Leroy Meverden, Green Bay; 6. Bob Marquis, De Pere.

15-lap Semi - feature: 1. Doug Larson, Green Bay; 2. Mike McDermott, Oconto Falls; 3. Carl Prelipp, Seymour; 4. Bob Heinritz, Green Bay; 5. Dennis Teschke, Bonduel; 6. Pete Sandoval, Green Bay.

First Heat: 1. Earl Schmude, De Pere; 2. Mike McDermott; 3. Jim Gilbertson, Shawano.

Second Heat: 1. Dan Johnson, Green Bay; 2. Larson; 3. Teschke.

Fourth Heat: 1. W. Raddant; 2. J.J. Smith; 3. Bob Maas, Tilleda.

Top Qualifier: 1. Roger Paul, 27.54.

Clintonville Tests Sheboygan In State Tournament Saturday

MADISON — Pairings for the annual Wisconsin State Baseball Tournament at Breese Stevens Field were announced today by Leo Mashak, state baseball commissioner.

Clintonville, winner of its district tournament, begins play Saturday against Sheboygan.

The opening game is slated for 6:30 p.m. Friday and pairs Madison Leske's against Milwaukee Polish Alliance. Sun Prairie meets Marytown in the other opening day contest.

Saturday's games have Wausau vs. Madison King Realty, 9:30 a.m.; Clintonville vs. Sheboygan, 11:30 a.m.; Berlin vs. Black Earth, 1:30 p.m.; Dousman vs. LaCrosse, 3:30 p.m.; Milwaukee Borgwardt vs. Oxford, 6:30 p.m., and Lannon vs. Dodgeville, 8:30 p.m.

Sunday's contest pair Pepin vs. Menomonee Falls, 12:30 p.m.; Hustisford vs. Shullsburg, 2:30 p.m.; West Allis Highway Beers vs. Green Bay Blue Ribbons, 6:30 p.m. and Abbotsford vs. Sauk Prairie Twins, 8:30 p.m.

Jack Bennett, Jerry Aanonsen, Frank Leischow and Jim VandeWettering pace the Clintonville entry in the tourney. Clintonville, managed by Don Jirschele includes Dick Koeppen, Dave Bohman, Bruce Bremmer, Jim Petcka, Bill Gipp, Harley Pues, John Malloy, Leif Larsen, Paul Hoffman, Ed Poock, Bruce Parkovich, Sam Hogan, Lon Galli and Greg Slezenski on its roster.

Bengtson Cracks Down on Moustaches, Long Sideburns

GREEN BAY — Coach Phil Bengtson, a man with definite ideas on hair styles and facial adornments, wasted no time setting such matters straight with Packer rookies Wednesday night.

Walking over to kicker Tony Fronczak (Milwaukee Tech), who was sporting a luxuriant "Fu Manchu" moustache during physical examinations at the Packers' Lambeau Field dressing room, Bengtson quietly but firmly informed, "Shave off that moustache or don't bother to report for practice tomorrow morning."

Later, upon discovering Leon Harden's chin-length sideburns, he drew a "line" with an index finger across the left side of the defensive back's face at about midpoint of the foliage and said, "There's the line, Leon."

When Harden emerged from an adjacent washroom after presumably complying, Bengtson called him over and said, "Let me see, Leon. You didn't cut off any, did you?"

Dispatched once again in quest of a razor, Harden shortly returned well shorn and this time passed inspection.

All of this byplay prompted Ass't. Coach Zeke Bratkowski to quip, "We should have one more table set up—to measure sideburns and hair."

Proxmire Suggests Possibilities

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon's budget, already described as pared to the bone, is faced with demands of up to $10 billion in further cuts as the defense spending debate shifts to the Senate.

The first attempted cutback is likely to come early next week when the Senate considers the military procurement bill for hardware such as the antiballistic missile, big bombers, giant jet transports, offensive missiles and bigger tanks.

The Senate Armed Services Committee, releasing the procurement bill Wednesday, cut the Nixon administration's $20.3 billion hardware request, approved by the House, to $19.2 billion.

Dollar Level

The bill is one of a series of measure that comprise the Defense Department's budget for this fiscal year. The total amount requested by the administration is 71.2 billion.

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, called the House-approved hardware bill austere and "the lowest possible dollar level consistent with the necessity for providing for our national survival."

However, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., leader of the Pentagon spending critics, declared, "More needs to be done."

He presented a 100-page detailed report of his group outlining some $10 billion in cuts and a redefinition of national security aims.

The Proxmire group's proposals would cut $5 billion for hardware and an equal amount for manpower.

ABM Research

The proposed cuts would reduce the ABM to research levels, halt work on the B1 bomber, antisubmarine aircraft, F14 and F15 fighter programs, and restrict Navy shipbuilding, including destroyers.

The additional $5 billion could be saved, the critics said, by reducing the U.S. military manpower level by 1 million men to 2.5 million. They called for a reduction in U.S. troop strength in Europe from 300,000 to 100,000 men and in Korea from 50,000 to 30,000.

Essentially, the Stennis committee endorsed the basic components of the Pentagon's hardware requests, trimming only the edges of the programs and scuttling none.

In rounding out their proposed cutbacks, meanwhile, Senate critics planned to look into such grander questions as the "blue water" concept—the future reliance on improved polaris-type submarines to achieve a nuclear stalemate. The critics consider the subs invulnerable.

This year, they plan to offer an amendment to cut the entire $686 million for installing multiple independently targeted reentry vehicles (MIRVs) on ground-based Minutemen.

The first debate next week probably will be over the Safeguard antiballistic missile system.

Draft Everyone At Age of 18, Educator Says

Hayakawa Speaks At Hearings on Campus Unrest

WASHINGTON San Francisco State College President S.I. Hayakawa, characterizing the younger generation as bored and immature, has suggested both men and women be compelled to serve two or three years federal duty beginning at age 8 to curb campus unrest.

Hayakawa advanced the proposal Wednesday at the opening hearing of the President's Commission on Campus Unrest.

The no-nonsense administrator's comments contrasted with those of five other witnesses who declared the roots of dissent—and not the dissenters—required remedial action.

They warned the campus uproar will continue as long as the war does.

Total Commitment

University of Michigan President Robben Fleming declared the commission should recommend first and foremost "an unwavering, completely credible, and rapidly implemented commitment to end the presence of our troops in Vietnam."

Fleming and others also touched upon other external problems which they said contribute to campus disorders such as the unnecessary use of police and National Guardsmen.

But Hayakawa, who noted he hasn't hesitated to call police onto his campus, disagreed with the others' views of student activists as sincere, well-informed and worthy of a greater role in society.

The get-tough administrator suggested two or three years in the "real world," would make young persons more likely to return to the campus with "a clear-cut purpose in mind.

Older Students

"Students over 22, over 32, over 52 are almost always our best students," he said. "The young are bored. The bored student is social dynamite. Bright students. . .have been the principal troublemakers."

Commissioner Erwin D. Canham, editor-in-chief of Christian Science Monitor, drew a burst of applause from the gallery when he asked Hayakawa: "Whose fault is that—the students or their administrators?"

Hayakawa said it was the fault of the middle class for viewing college attendance as necessary.

Hayakawa also called for an immediate end to student draft deferments.

Disgruntled Worker Held for Questioning In Detroit Deaths

DETROIT (AP) — An auto worker said by a union official to have resented his replacement on a job assignment by a colleague with less seniority was held for questioning today in the fatal shooting of three men in the Chrysler Corp. axle plant.

James Johnson, 35, who had been suspended earlier in the day for insubordination, was arrested after two foremen and a production worker were shot down Wednesday with an M-1 carbine.

The victims were Hugh Jones, 43, and Gary Heinz, 32, foremen involved in the suspension, and Joseph Kowalski, 53, who was hit by a bullet while trying to subdue the gunman.

Johnny Moffett, chief steward of United Auto Workers union Local 931, said he saw the man shoot one person and ran to him saying "I was a union representative—I wanted to help him, not to hurt him."

Moffett said the man "pointed the gun at me and pulled the trigger" but that there was only a click because the weapon apparently was empty. Moffett said the man told him he was angry because a man with less time on the payroll had taken over his work assignment.

The union official said he escorted the gunman to a gate and turned him over to a company guard.

Auto worker Edward Lacey said he witnessed the shooting of Jones, the first to die as the gunman ran through the plant firing the rifle.

"He was standing right over him, pumping bullets into him." Lacey said. "He was going to make sure he was dead."

Middling Funding Policy on Cambodia Advised by Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Armed Services Committee has endorsed U.S. financing of South Vietnamese raids into Cambodia, while forbidding the use of Pentagon funds to bolster the Phnom Penh government.

The in-between policy was recommended Wednesday by the Senate as part of a $19.2 billion military authorization bill, but it may be a month before the Indochina aspects of the legislation reach a vote.

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., the committee chairman, said the situation may change drastically by then. He left open the possibility his panel might reconsider the issue to take into account any changed conditions later in the summer.

Reasonable Chance

At the State Department, meanwhile, Secretary of State William P. Rogers said immediate prospects for a peace settlement in South Vietnam "are not too bright. . ."

But he also said, "I have always felt, and I still feel, that there is a reasonable prospect that you can end this war by a negotiated settlement."

That reversed the emphasis of a statement he made in London Sunday.

Rogers said for the next two months or so, the aftermath of U.S. and South Vietnamese operations in Cambodia had lessened the prospects for successful negotiations. But he said over the long run, action against the Communist sanctuaries in Cambodia had increased settlement changes.

Allied Forces

The Armed Services Committee proposal provides a basis in law for U.S. financial support of future Cambodian sanctuary operations by South Vietnam and its allies.

The bill authorizes up to $2.5 billion for support of South Vietnamese and allied forces, and for aid to local forces in Laos and Thailand.

"There is no intent to broaden the authorization beyond the support of participation in border sanctuary and related operations in order to protect U.S. forces in Vietnam or to accomplish protective reaction strikes," the committee said in its report on the bill.

"The purpose of the clarification is to make clear that the use of defense funds is authorized for support in those areas of Cambodia where for the purposes of Vietnamization or the protection of U.S. troops military action becomes necessary," the committee said.

"There is no intent to permit Department of Defense appropriations under this authority to support Vietnamese and other free world forces in actions designed to provide military support and assistance to the Cambodian government."

The Senate earlier adopted an amendment including a ban against U.S. financial support of foreign forces which might move into Cambodia to support the government there.

Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., one of the sponsors of that amendment, said the committee's terms seemed to be in line with it. "They move toward our amendment," he said.

A House-Senate conference committee began Wednesday its efforts to work out a compromise on the foreign military sales legislation which includes the Cambodian amendment.

It got nowhere, and agreed to try again next Tuesday.

Six Companies Given Go-Ahead Antipollution Suits

By MARK BROWN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department has given the go-ahead, under guidelines criticized as too restrictive by members of Congress, to antipollution suits against six firms and a municipality.

U.S. attorneys will be authorized to invoke the Refuse Act of 1899 against five polluters in Bridgeport, Conn., the city of Bridgeport and a chemical firm in Cleveland, Ohio, a Justice Department source said Wednesday.

He would not name the firms.

Injunctions, rather than criminal penalties of up to $2,500 in fines and one year in prison, will be sought because the department believes "the injunctions are the things that will help the environment, not the fines," the source said.

Legal Action

The approval for the suits came as Rep. Richard Ottinger, D-N.Y., threatened to take legal action against the Justice Department unless it began enforcing the 71-year-old Refuse Act.

The law prohibits dumping "any refuse matter of any kind or description" into navigable waters or their tributaries. The only exemption is sewage.

The source of Ottinger's ire, and that of a number of conservation groups backing him in the threatened action, is a set of guidelines for use of the statute sent out June 15 by the Justice Department to all U.S. attorneys.

The guidelines prohibit the attorneys from taking action against polluters without department approval if the polluter is involved in proceedings with the Federal Water Quality Administration or state or local water pollution control agencies, and if the polluter is a

LOS ALTOS, Calif. (AP) — Concerned about the "trashy mess the country is in," Lyn Carvell, 13, has started a teenage "clean sweep" litter cleanup campaign.

Her club, which has a membership of 15 teenagers, has swarmed twice across this San Francisco Peninsula city's parking lots and curb areas not reached by street sweepers, filling some 20 to 30 gunny sacks each time.

Now she is organizing four other similar sized clubs for a permanent patrol of "Vigilant Youths Combating Crumby Conditions."

"I'm very encouraged by all the help, cooperation and interest," she said Wednesday. "But it just goes to show you how many kids are concerned about the mess we're in."

The city is cooperating by unloading the gunny sacks and disposing of the debris.

Lyn, an eighth grader, said her father, Fred Carvell, an educational consultant and writer, has "given me a lot of encouragement. But this is something I have to do myself."

Senate Investigators Urge Local Rock Fest Control

County Boards Told to Adopt Tough Laws

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

IOLA — A special State Senate committee to investigate the Iola Rock Festival made an on-site visit to the scen Wednesday, took five hours of testimony, and then voted to urge local adoption of the attorney general's model ordinance to prevent this kind of situation.

Sen. Gerald Lorge, R-Bear Creek, served as chairman of the committee which consisted of members of the Senate Committee on Labor, Taxation, Insurance and Banking.

In a terse explanation of the purpose of the investigation, Lorge said (at the end of the session):

"We are here to learn about this and determine if any legislation is needed to shut out future rock festivals.

"It now appears that we have adequate laws and people on the County Boards who don't use or enforce these laws."

Local Enforcement

He suggested that County Board members go back to their counties, read the existing laws, adopt an ordinance and spend money for law enforcement.

"Don't pass the buck to us," he said. "We are here to learn. We all need to cooperate in this problem and it appears obvious that local authorities can stop rock festivals by not issuing permits, or by turning it over to the state," Lorge concluded.

The fact that the solution to the problem must come from the counties and cities themselves by adopting the proper ordinances was substantiated by Atty. Gen Robert Warren.

He proposed, as most constructive, a new licensing ordinance, which has been sent to the corporation counsels, district attorneys and county boards this week.

The other alternative, he explained, is the adoption of a tough zoning ordinance by counties, villages and towns which would give them the muscle to move in fast with injunctions and deal with the promoters.

He pointed out again that the responsibility to control rock fests in advance has to be within the local units of government.

Two Questions

There were two questions that the 150 persons attending the investigation at the Iola High School, including legislators, county board members, law enforcement people and citizens, wanted answered.

Why weren't arrests made on the site June 26, 27, and 28 when the "People's Fair" was in progress?

What can be done to prevent another rock festival here and in the State of Wisconsin?

The committee members all admitted to "being appalled" at the remains of the fest still at the site.

They wanted to know if the State Health Department had seen the condition of the 200 acres, if the state narcotics agents were around, why the National Guard was not called out, and who was going to clean

Warren's Intent

Proposed Measure Would Ban Fests

IOLA — Atty. Gen. Robert Warren's presentation of a model licensing ordinance to prevent rock festivals like the Iola People's Fair was considered by the State Senate's special investigating committee here Wednesday.

Among provisions of the measure prepared by his department is filing of a bond with the application for license at the rate of $1 per person for the maximum number of persons permitted for the assembly.

The intent of the ordinance, which could be adopted by counties, municipalities and towns, is to regulate the assemblage of 5,000 or more persons without a license.

Application for the license must be 30 days in advance, with a separate license required for each day and conditions for granting the permit carefully spelled out.

Furnish Proof

The party applying for such a permit must provide proof that he will furnish at his own expense before the assembly begins:

A fence enclosure.

Potable water at the ratio of one gallon per person and 10 gallons per person for bathing per day.

Adequate toilet facilities and sanitary solid waste disposal.

A physician for every 1,000 people and one nurse for every 1,500.

Proper illumination.

Free parking inside the assembly grounds.

Telephone service.

Camping facilities in compliance with state and local requirements.

Security guards and fire protection.

Assurance that sound will not carry unreasonably beyond the enclosed boundaries of the assembly.

Injunction Enforcement

Enforcement of the licensing ordinance would be by injunction in any court. Holding an assembly in violation of any provision would be deemed a public nuisance and the violator could be fined not less than $1,000 nor more than $10,000.

Sen. James Swan (R-Elkhorn) told the attorney general he thought "the licensing ordinance a fine piece of work — but the fines were too low. We are dealing with big money, and I mean big money from coast to coast, when we talk about orgies like this rock fest."

Sen. Henry Dorman (D-Racine) told the attorney general and committee, "I find the proposed model ordinance prohibitve, rather than regulatory. It is designed to prohibit all future rock festivals. Is that the intent?"

Warren assured him that it was.

County Wants State to Help Pay for Fest

IOLA — "Who is going to clean up the mess?" and "Who is going to pay for it?"

These were two questions which members of a Waupaca County Board committee wanted answered Wednesday at the special State Senate committee investigation called by Sen. Gerald Lorge (R-Bear Creek).

Sheriff Loran Frazier answered the questions. "I don't know."

The hope remained alive that the legislature would explore every possible means of giving financial assistance to the Town of Iola.

Supv. Woodrow Smith, Clintonville, chairman of Waupaca County's Finance Committee, asked the special group, "Has the state ever provided funds through the legislature to assist the counties in matters of this kind?" He was inquiring about costs of special law enforcement as well as cleanup.

In reply, Lorge called attention to the special committee and said, "It has happened here in this town and it could happen again."

Attending the hearing Wednesday were 16 members from the county's Executive Committee, the Law Enforcement Committee and the Finance Committee.

Mediator Sets July 22 for Negotiations

Session Called in Electrical Workers, Power Firm Dispute

A federal mediator has called a July 22 negotiation session between the striking electrical workers and Wisconsin Michigan Power Co., Appleton-based gas and electric utility serving much of northeastern Wisconsin and part of upper Michigan.

The firm was struck at midnight Thursday by 350 members of the International Brotherhood of Eletrical Workers Local 494 in a new contract dispute. Since then, the company has filed an unfair labor charge and a damage suit against the union as a result of picketing activities.

The mediation session, which will be the first time the two sides will be at the bargaining table since just prior to the strike, is slated for 10 a.m. in the Conway Motor Inn, Appleton.

Meanwhile, picketing continues at several company sites, including the Point Beach Nuclear Plant at Two Creeks, where construction workers' recognition of the pickets has reportedly brought work to a standstill. The suit, calling for $60,000 in damages per day, was filed because of this picketing.

It was reported that 12 to 15 wives of strikers Wednesday picketed the nuclear plant while their husbands stayed in a parking lot area nearby.

Union members received a letter earlier this week from J. K. Babbitt, power company vice president and general manager, saying the most recent contract offer was the largest in the firm's history. The union membership rejected the pact offer last Thursday after the company said it was its final proposal.

The offer, included a 35-cent per hour across-the-board increase the first year and 30 cents the second year, plus a 10-cent inequity wage adjustment and 12 cents per hour in fringes.

Albert R. Tadych, Milwaukee, assistant to the business manager of Local 494, said the "basic difference is this — the employes of Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. feel their wages should be equated to the wages paid to employes of the parent company, Wisconsin Electric Power Co., Milwaukee."

Roy, Dale at Ease

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

It's easy to understand why people everywhere respond with favor (and sometimes fervor) to western stars Roy Rogers and his wife Dale Evans. This pair can turn a stuffy press conference into an informal party with all the flavor of a family reunion.

This they did early Wednesday evening in a reception room at Kahler Inn Towne with the help of host Michael (Mike) Burns, mentor of the Outagamie County Fair now going on at Seymour. The Rogers-Evans troupe opens the first of eight performances tonight at the fair.

Almost all of the troupe were there as a sort of family unit and before long, every member of the news media was an integral part of the get-together, chatting with the headliners as if they were all long-lost friends.

Ben and Margaret Smathers of the famous Stoney Mountain Cloggers had just arrived after a long drive from Nashville (their two youngsters already were heading for the motel pool). Tall and pleasant Lloyd Perryman, leader of the Sons of the Pioneers, was on hand. (He's the only remaining Pioneer who was with the group which formed in the summer of 1934 when Rogers, with the name Leonard Slye, was a member.

Genial W Arthur Rush, known as Art, also was there. He is Rogers' manager of 32 years and, like the cowboy, an Ohio native, the fact which brought them together. (Rogers was born in Cincinnati and grew up on a farm near that southern Ohio city. Rush comes from Columbus.)

Except for handsome cowboy hats, it was hard to tell guest from performer. Talking in one corner was world champion fiddler Billy Armstrong, now with the Sons of the Pioneers. Across the room were the other Pioneers, busy with friendly talk. They were Dale Warren, Roy Lanham and Luther Nallie — all fine singers and excellent guitarists. (One member of the press learned how to get along faster with her mastery of a new mandola and mandolin.)

The meeting got down to a busy session of questions and answers with cowboy Roy and his charming Dale seated at a table next to a radio-tape recorder. What they really did was carry on a conversation prompted by the questions. They interrupted each other, laughed over memories together and helped each other out when the moment demanded it. (It was a fun session and seemed impossible for this youthful looking pair — Roy admitted to 59 years come November — to be grandparents 15 times over.)

Roy made it clear he did not like the way today's movies are going. He has great faith in America's young people, " the 99 44 per cent who are the good kids and who will be the ones to lead this country". He believes in giving a child love and attention, plus a definite discipline and example during the first seven or eight years of that child's life.

Strong Family Life

He and Dale believe firmly in a strong family life with religion an important part of it. They both think that western movies and country western songs have a place in Americana and should be preserved as history. As for the mini-style in clothes, Dale plumps for the woman to "do her thing" and wear her dresses where they are most comfortable and best looking. Roy says, "If you have pretty legs, show 'em. If you need a cover-up, then that's the thing to do."

Roy talked about his museum

Possible Twister

Cleanup Follows Winds at Marion

MARION — Cleanup work at Welch Fire Equipment Corp. here has been completed after a "regular whirlwind" Tuesday ripped off doors and damaged the roof and signs at the firm.

Bill Welch, president, estimated damage to the exterior of the building at several thousand dollars but said insurance adjusters had not yet arrived to provide him with an accurate damage estimate.

He believed his business to be the only building in this community to be damaged by the high winds. No persons were injured, Welch said, in the windy blast that he and a few of the firm's employes watched as it approached at 1:30 p.m. from the southwest.

He reported that the "twister" ripped branches off trees, then hit the signs in front of the building and headed toward the structure. "You could see debris whirling around in a circle," he said.

The damage was confined to the exterior of the building and was cleaned up in a day, he added.

There has been no verification by authorities that the high winds constituted a tornado. Other residents, however, have reported hearing "what sounded like a jet" go over their homes at about the same hour, but no funnel cloud was cited.

Hephner Will Be Opposed In Election

CHILTON — Incumbent Rep. Gervase Hephner, D-Chilton will be opposed in the November election by a newcomer to politics, Republican James Streubing of Brillion.

The deadline for filing nomination papers was 5 p.m. Tuesday. Only one county official will have opposition — Republican County Treasurer Mrs. Lorna Schoen, who is filling the unexpired term of Merlin Zahn. Zahn retired earlier this year, and Mrs. Schoen is seeking her first full term in office.

Opposing Mrs. Schoen will be Mrs. Floyd Ammermann, a housewife running on the Democratic ticket.

County candidates filing their papers Tuesday and having no opposition are Clerk Donald A. Schwobe, clerk of Circuit Courts Terrence Owens, County Coroner Leroy Huges and Dis. Atty. Franklin J. Schneider, all Republicans.

Theodore Pagel a former New Holstein policeman, will run on the Republican ticket for sheriff, and will be unopposed. C. J. Kosmosky, the present sheriff, will not run for re-election.

The Democratic incumbent filing for office is Germaine Hume, register of deeds.

New Safety Building

County OKs Courthouse Site

As it stands today, if there is a city-county safety building, it will be constructed at the present Courthouse site.

By a 37-10 vote Tuesday night, the Outagamie County Board endorsed the Courthouse site which has been favored by the Appleton City Council.

In a series of three related resolutions, supervisors:

— Approved construction of the facility joining to and extending east of the Courthouse, but only if Appleton remains part of the joint venture.

— Authorized the Joint County-City Safety Building Committee to proceed with taking options on five parcels of property east of the Courthouse. Most of that property would be used for parking.

— Voted to approach the City Council in an attempt to determine if it would reconsider its earlier refusal to proceed with planning under a more powerful commission setup rather than under the present joint committee.

The latter phase of the resolution would be moot if the city decides that instead of sharing with the county the cost of constructing the safety building, it would lease a county constructed facility. The leasing proposal, rejected earlier by city officials, met with enthusiam by Appleton members of the joint committee at a Monday meeting.

The votes on authorizing taking options on Courthouse area property and approaching the City Council on the commission question were 42-5.

Two hours of discussion preceded the voting with two of the major issues being money that will have to be spent for parking facilities and a renewed attempt to have the Outagamie County farm site, just west of Appleton, considered for location of the safety building.

Voting against the Courthouse site were Appleton supervisors John R Schreiter, Mrs. Barbara Steger and Lora Woodard, and Supvs. Henry Breiting of rural New London; Joseph DeBruin, rural Kaukauna; Joseph Kasparek, rural Black Creek; Theodore Kemps and Robert H. Weyenberg, Kimberly; Gene Retzlaff, Hortonville, and Rudolph Spreeman, rural Appleton.

Supervisors Tuesday night were shown slides and drawings of the proposed safety building that would tie in with the Courthouse and its present annex, and of proposed parking around the complex.

Parking options include purchasing parcels of land east of the Courthouse and the vacating of a portion of Elm Street.

Russell DeLaHunt, County Board chairman and chairman of the joint building committee, said that although the property owners in question east of the Courthouse have not been contacted, indications are that at least two might be willing sellers.

County Farm Site

Saying that the joint safety building venture "seems to be suspended on a thin thread," Appleton Supv. Charles Wussow led Tuesday's campaign to have the county farm site again considered for the complex. He feared the city would back out of the joint venture, leaving the county "holding the bag."

Wussow held that with 100 acres "to play with" at the county farm, there would be plenty of room for expansion and for parking.

He also argued that a building program at the present Courthouse site would disrupt the entire area and "will ruin the entire half of the 8th Ward."

Wussow labeled the latest plan, to coordinate the new structure with both the Courthouse and the annex, "a big can of worms."

Weyenberg, of Kimberly, maintained that consolidation of several Fox Valley counties, a topic of discussion in recent years, might not be far off. With a safety building complex located at the county farm, he held, the multi-county center might stand a good chance of being located there.

Proponents of the county farm site won at least a partial victory Tuesday in that the board approved a Wussow-sponsored amendment stating that the county favors the present Courthouse site only on the condition that the city agrees to remain a part of the safety building venture.

Several supervisors thought an abundance of parking area was available at little cost in Jones Park, but DeLaHunt explained that the land was unsuitable for parking because it is too low.

Mrs. Steger opposed the Courthouse site because she feared there might be unwilling sellers of the property being considered who might be evicted from their homes.

Both DeLaHunt and Supv. Jerome Hiller of Appleton, a joint building committee member, urged action Tuesday.

"We feel we have the endorsement of the city members of the (joint) committee on this projection," DeLaHunt explained. If we go back with alternates now, it will mean further delay."

DeLaHunt said that if the property can be acquired without delay and with 90 days allowed for vacancy of occupied property, blacktopping of a parking area could begin this fall and building could start in the spring.

Walking Keeps Wood Carver Young at 90

BY BETTY COWLES
Post-Crescent Correspondent

WITTENBERG — Oscar Rue is a photographer, an avid traveler, a wood carver and cabinetmaker

He also is an energetic 90 years old and in his plywood album bound with leather thongs are pictures which date back to the days of homesteading in South and North Dakota

Rue lives here in his own mobile home in the yard of his daughter, Mrs. Arthur Larson He celebrated his birthday with his family last week, attributing his longevity to sensible living, interest in his hobbies, lots of walking and a sense of humor

Walks Every Day

He can be seen in this community every day on his walks, which he claims the average person doesn't go on often enough. He says he grew used to the walking behind the plow in his farming days and can't get out of the habit

With a furniture repairing and carpentry shop in the basement of the Larson home, Rue has appropriately been given the title of "Mr Fix-It" In his neat trailer are a bookstand and horses carved by him. In the background is a car radio for which he has build a cabinet.

Winters in Arizona

Rue spends his winters in Arizona, where he finds an abundance of subjects for his photography He enjoys visiting his family scattered in various parts of the United States Sons and daughters live in Washington, Montana, California and Minnesota

Born in Filmore County, Minn., in 1880, he was married to the late Amelia Noel in 1905. They homesteaded then in the Dakotas until 1924, when they moved to Minneapolis They had seven children

He worked as a custodian in Minneapolis hospitals and was engaged for a number of years in shop work and furniture refinishing. The grandfather of 22 and great-grandfather of three retired at 80

Red Sox Beat Pirates, 4-3, in New London Little League

NEW LONDON — A home run by pitcher Randy Thiel was not enough to spur the Pirates to beat the major league leading Red Sox, as they lost, 4-3 Jim Snyder pitched for the undefeated Sox

In other little league action, Monday, the Dodgers defeated the Cards, 5-1, with the pitching of Rick Kaepernick Jim Ott pitched for the Cards

In the National league, pitcher Kevin Kloen hit a homer and pitched the Athletics to a 7-2 win over the Twins Jeff Courchaine was credited with the loss

The Yankees downed the Senators 6-4 through the efforts of pitcher Jim Matyas Matyas also hit a two bagger to aid his team Jeff Collar was the losing pitcher

In the American league, the Cubs remained undefeated by topping the Panthers 6-0. Joe VanAlstine was credited with the win and Richard Burns the loss.

The Tigers downed the Cobras, in the 14-13 battle, through the efforts of Dave Poppy Tim Thern was the losing pitcher.

The Lions topped the Wolves 2-1, with Mark Buelow getting the win and Ed Wangelin the loss

League leaders at the beginning of the week are the Cubs 8-0 and Eagles 5-1 in the American league The Angels and Mets are tied 6-1 in the National league The Red Sox lead 11-0, followed the Dodgers and Pirates 6-5 in the Major league.

HUD Project Ready Two Months Early

Senior Citizens at New London Move Into Apartments

NEW LONDON — Residents have begun moving into the Franklin Park Apartments, a Housing and Urban Development project for the elderly here, about two months ahead of the scheduled opening date.

Work on the building progressed well ahead of the schedule planned by the developer, Wendt, Cedarholm and Tippens, and the contractor, Boldt Construction Co.

All of the equipment for the building has not yet arrived, however. Because of the delay in arrival, the open house and inspection date for the building has not been announced

The New London Housing Authority has announced that there still are some apartments available and that senior citizens wishingt to make applications could do so.

The five-story building provides 63 one-bedroom apartments. They are rented on the low-cost housing basis, at $40 per month for an "A" apartment, and $45 for a "B" apartment The "B" apartment charge increases to $50 with two people Rents are partially paid, if necessary.

All apartments are complete with stove and refrigerator. The building has an elevator and incinerator.

There were two explanations as to why the state did not step in to prevent the rock festival and handle the drug abuse problem.

"There seems to be the popular misconception that the State of iWsconsin has hundreds of men it can send into a siltuation of this kind," atty. Gen. Robert Warren answered. "This is not true, since Wisconsin is traditionally a state which believes in local autonomy and looks to local law enforcement.

"The only force the state has is the beverage tax investigators with the Department of Justice (numbering 37) and two undercover agents empowered to make arrests," Warren disclosed. "While 21 agents have been authorized for narcotics investigations, they will not be hired until October."

The attorney general pointed out that narcotics control requires the toughest laws in the world.

"I have been asked repeatedly why I didn't call out the National Guard," Warren continued. "Only the Governor can call out the guard and only the governor controls the sheriffs and district attorneys in this state. According to present law, the governor calls the Guard when the emergency exists.

"There could be some changes made and we will have to find the answers within the framework of the constitution," Warren added.

Sheriffs Tell Situation

Sheriff Nick Check, Portage County, explained to the committee that he and Sheriff Loran Frazier of Waupaca County used their men to contain the rock festival participants and protect the lives and property of the citizens in both counties.

He also explained why more arrests were not made.

"We had agreed to control an orderly crowd of 15,000 but instead by Friday night found that we had 50,000 on this site," Sheriff Check said. "How do you police something from the standpoint of numbers with 75 to 100 officers on the scene?

"We knew that there was wide open bartering in drugs, like peanuts and popcorn at the county fair," he continued "We knew because we were right there and at the tents we picked up some drugs for nothing.

"We also knew the mood of the crowd from our inside people," Check related. "We knew we weren't going to get any place . . . that if we tried to pick someone out from the crowd, we would never get out ourselves.

"Didn't Make Sense"

"Now coverage is fine but foolishness enters the picture at one point and I wasn't going to be responsible for sending 50 officers in here to try to break up the drug ring and have half of these men lying on their backs in hospitals and possibly have some young widows around," he added. "It just doesn't make sense.

"So, we felt a containment action at the time was the only way we could operate. Sure, you try to enforce the law equally wherever you are, but if you can't enforce the law to the letter, then you contain," Check said. "I don't believe that this is the first time in history that this kind of law enforcement has been dictated.

"We have to find some answers," he proposed. "If we can't infiltrate in sufficient numbers so that we can control drugs, then the only other avenue open to stop drug traffic is by court injunction, prior to the crowd forming."

Community Feeling

Check also said that the feeling of the community (and that term embraced residents in both Waupaca and Portage counties) was that a rock festival "isn't really such a bad thing."

If we had gone ahead and spent $25,000 to $30,000 to prevent the things which happened here, we would have been subject to criticism because we had stopped something that was 'not so bad' in the first place.

"The violence which occurred at the Rock Festival may have had some benefit: It brought to light what drugs can do," he said.

Sheriff Frazier expressed his gratitude for the assistance given by the Portage County sheriff's department, other sheriff's departments from Shawano, Menominee, Waushara, Outagamie, Wood and Marathon, as well as the municipalities within the counties.

"I feel that none of our people got hurt, no property was damaged and, in spite of the confusion, we did the job to the best of our ability," Frazier said.

Assured No Drugs

Before the festival, the two sheriffs said, they were assured by the promoters that there would be no drugs, the group would have its own security people and that the site would be cleaned up by Monday noon.

"So we concentrated on traffic control for the crowd of 50,000 by using the short roadblock systems," Check advised. "The State Patrol was magnificent and took over the patrol in both counties. The Division of Natural Resources assisted us with air surveillance for gauging the movement of the crowd."

Both sheriffs will present movies and films and evidence gathered at the rock festival to their county boards within the next month. Check appears before his board on Tuesday and Frazier will present his story to the Waupaca County Board on Aug. 19.

Lorge complimented the sheriffs of Portage, Waupaca and Columbia counties for the work they had done in controlling previous rock festivals, and urged all departments of government to cooperate in bringing legislation this next term which will prevent "repetition of future disgraceful displays."

Adopt Ordinance

Sen. Walter J. Chilsen, R-Wausau, entered the motion that the committee encourage "the adoption of the attorney general's model ordinance in all counties of Wisconsin, as well as in the cities, villages and towns to provide an additional guarantee of enforcement."

The only dissenting vote came from Sen. Martin J. Schreiber, D-Milwaukee, who said, "I do not see how we can visit a site for an hour, and in a few hours discuss a model ordinance and believe that it is the total answer to the problem."

Board Okays School Budget

Brillion District Proposal Carries Tax Rate Decrease

BRILLION — The proposed $799,956 school budget, which carries a 75-cent per $1,000 valuation tax rate decrease, has been recommended by the Board of Education.

It now must be approved by the voters at the district's annual school meeting at 8 p.m. July 27.

A tax rate of $17.25, compared to $18 last year, per $1,000 assessed valuation will finance the total budget, although proposed spending is up $43,281. This increase will be discussed by district residents at a 7 p.m. hearing the evening of the annual meeting.

The proposed budget will require a tax levy of $660,957, up $22,755 from last year's levy.

Figures certified by the state for computation of the tax levy were in error due to the annexation of a parcel of land from the Town of Brillion to the City of Brillion. The annexation occurred after the cut-off date for the state report.

These figures are being rechecked for accuracy with the city and town officials, but tax levies on the municipalities within the school district will probably be as follows, according to Gaylord Unbehaun, superintendent of schools:

City of Brillion, $400,065, up $17,160. Town of Brillion, $161,449, up $3,193; Town of Rantoul, $27,363, up $921; Town of Woodville, $11,567, down $398; Town of Maple Grove, $33,240, up $1,134, Town of Rockland, $17,225, up $712; Town of Holland, $7,189, up $72; and Town of Morrison levy, $2,854, down $41.

Equalized tax base for the school district is $38,316,400, up from the current $35,455,700.

Feel 'Like Family' With Roy and Dale

in Apple Valley, California, where the couple makes their home "off the road." (The museum houses several collections and Roy's first horse, Trigger, is mounted and on exhibit.) "I'm a lucky cowboy," he said, "I made my first and last motion picture with Trigger and there never was a horse like him, although I have two of his offspring and the handsome yearling colt shows promise." (Roy has made 87 feature movies and 101 half-hour television shows.)

These are some of the many things he said at the meeting, together with comments from his wife, Dale.

"It takes a lot of guts to put out some of the motion pictures made today. They should be stopped by law. Some of them are an insult to the business, actually to the human race."

"We have 10 times more good than bad kids in colleges and high schools trying to do something worthwhile, but the news media pinpoints those who do the wrong things, those who create the trouble."

'Kids are Kids'

"Kids are kids all over. They are made, in my opinion, into what they become during their years from 1½ to 7 or 8 years of age. It all depends on what you put into them. That's what indicates how they will turn out as adults."

"The Old West is the only history we have of the early United States and it should be preserved. The old western songs reflect the lives of the people moving into new country. They are mostly about the trials and tribulations of the pioneer."

"There are forces in this America of ours trying to break the back of the American family. And I mean communism. Without the family, there will be no America."

The pair are firm about their belief in the family and what it can do for both parents and children. Dale told how hard it was to juggle a career that was demanding and a life at home. Nine children. Six are still living, all happily married.

"It isn't easy when one gets up at 4 a.m. and then returns home at 7 or 8 p.m., but we spent all our time off with our children, she talked. Our social life was non-existent. "We tend to make everything except to make a home for our youngsters. (The Rogers raised landmarks. We must have some

These were Dale's thoughts as Lloyd Perryman, leader of the Sons of the Pioneers.

When asked about his favorite song, Roy Rogers said he guessed it would have to be the one that will always live, the theme song of the Pioneers, "Tumbling Tumbleweeds."

Well, it just better be," yelled

'Outdoor Camping' Rules

Outagamie Acts to Control Rock Fests

Outagamie County has been added to the growing list of Wisconsin counties taking steps to regulate rock festivals and related events. The action comes in the aftermath of last month's rock fest at Iola.

In two moves that received unanimous support Tuesday night, the County Board instructed its zoning committee to update ordinances relating to "outdoor camping," and authorized Corp. Counsel Frank Templeton to represent the county if such representation is deemed advisable at a proposed multi-county meeting with Gov. Warren P. Knowles on the matter of law enforcement at rock festivals.

The latter action was taken on the recommendation of Board Chairman Russell DeLaHunt in response to a letter from Marvin Knecht, Green Lake County board chairman, who is organizing the audience with Knowles.

Knecht said he hoped to get representatives of several area counties together with Knowles "to discuss the possibility of state personnel assistance in relation to law enforcement" at rock festivals. No meeting date was mentioned in the letter.

DeBruin 'Petition'

It was after action was taken on the letter that Supv. Joseph DeBruin, rural Kaukauna, submitted a "petition" signed by four members of the zoning committee asking for committee authorization to make a study into outdoor camping regulations in the county.

The committee was given authority to review existing ordinances and hold public hearings on amendments to the ordinances as they pertain to camping. The committee is to report back to the board.

Supv. Delmar Schmeichel, rural Appleton, secretary of the zoning committee, said Wednesday that although the petition was signed this week, the committee has "done some preliminary work." Schmeichel declined elaborate.

He said that present regulations on outdoor camping relate primarily to sanitary facilities.

Proposal in 2 Months

Schmeichel said he anticipated bringing a proposal before the board in about two months. A month of study could be involved, he explained.

In other action Tuesday, supervisors:

—Recognized the Outagamie County Professional Police Association as the exclusive bargaining agent for nonsupervisory personnel in the sheriff's department.

—On the third ballot, elected 12-year board veteran Merritt Kavanaugh of Kaukauna to the board's highway committee, replacing the late Patrick J. Heenan, who was vice chairman of the unit. Kavanaugh defeated Supv. George Schroeder, rural Appleton. Bernard Tillman, Grand Chute, and Gene Retzlaff, Hortonville.

$100 Legal Fees

Pledged $100 as its requested share of legal fees to join in a state suit to conduct a court test case involving the new industrial revenue bonding act. It is hoped to raise about $8,000. The county has had an industrial development commission in existence for several years, but it has never functioned because of the questionable legal status of industrial revenue bonds.

Authorized purchase of a lawn mower for Plamann Park from the low bidder, Griesbach Equipment, Inc., for $1,745, including trade in of an old mower.

—Pleged this year's $695,000 in state highway aids as the county's share for major improvements on U. S. 10 and State 125, between U. S. 41 and Appleton.

No More Termination of Indians

In his special message to Congress on Indian problems, President Nixon has described the federal policy of termination of reservation status as "morally and legally unacceptable." The immediate question for Wisconsin then is what of Menominee County created from the reservation lands of the Menominees in one of the two major terminations when the federal government embarked on this policy in the late 1950s.

More importantly, what are the wishes of the Menominee people in this regard? If the federal government now is to declare that termination is wrong, the explanation that government cannot undo what it has done cannot be accepted. On the other hand, 10 years have elapsed and the detailed and often uphill political and economic steps taken toward full federal and Wisconsin citizenship should not necessarily go down the drain because of a shifting of gears in Washington.

While the Menominee people no longer are under the direct jurisdiction of the federal Bureau of Indian Affairs, some arm of the government, a congressional committee, or a state agency should make it its business to take a formal measurement of opinion of the Menominees in view of the policy which Mr. Nixon has enunciated.

The President has asked that Congress pass a joint resolution to "expressly renounce, repudiate and repeal the termination policy." As for the executive branch, Mr. Nixon said he was declaring that the historic relationship between the federal government and the Indian community cannot be changed without the consent of the Indians.

Mr. Nixon said there are three reasons for this strong and unequivical stand against termination.

First, the premise of termination is that the federal government has taken on a trustee relationship as an act of generosity which can be ended on a unilateral basis. But this is a faulty premise, said Mr. Nixon, because the government really has obligations with moral and legal force — a point made repeatedly by Menominee critics of termination who refer to treaties between the tribe and the federal government.

Second, in Mr. Nixon's view, in the few instances in which termination has been tried, it has failed. The President said social and economic conditions often have worsened after termination and Indian communities have found themselves adrift in federal, state, and local efforts.

Third, Mr. Nixon said the very possibility of termination has caused apprehension and an over-dependence on the federal government in the form of communities being run by the federal bureaucracy rather than the Indian people themselves.

In renouncing the policy of termination, the President also spelled out programs to reach "the most deprived and the most isolated minority group in our nation." He proposes that Indians take over the direction and operation of more of their programs including the schools, that more money be pumped into health programs, that there be a revolving fund and loan guarantees for economic development projects, and that a special legal office be created to end the conflict of interest which often is present when one agency of the federal government represents Indians against another agency.

Some of these political objectives have been achieved through termination and creation of Menominee County. But other portions of the President's recommendations cannot apply to Menominee County because termination is now a fact. These circumstances would be unfair, and economic development programs in particular should be made retroactive for Indian communities which have been terminated in a policy the government now is saying has failed and was not proper in the first place.

Our own view is one of admiration for the Menominees in the uphill economic and political mission which suddenly was assigned them. If there is to be a reappraisal, our hope would be that Menominee County continue on its present course. But this road should include the provisions of the President's new program, not legalistic explanations that nothing can be done to aid those who are part of a policy which now is to be renounced, repudiated and repealed.

The Lesson of the Papyrus Boat

Now there is a further challenge to Christopher Columbus, Leif Erickson and that unidentified Celt who was supposed to have found the Western isles after sailing from Ireland.

Thor Heyerdahl and his papyrus ship, RA II, made it across the Atlantic Ocean in two months and certainly have proved that Egyptians in similar boats could have done the same four thousand years ago. The question remains as to whether they would have or did.

And yet this is the sort of thing that has challenged man from the very beginning. The mystery of the unknown, the thrill of danger for a purpose, the drive for achievement and fame may very likely have motivated primitive Egyptians forty centuries ago as it has Mr. Heyerdahl.

Heyerdahl did not settle the Vietnamese war or the conflict in the Middle East. He didn't find a solution to the problems of the cities, campus violence or tornadoes. But he did what he set out to do twice, once with the KON TIKI and now with RA II. And on this trip he had a crew of eight of all different races, religions and backgrounds sailing under the flag of the United Nations. Maybe he proved that something else like learning to live in the world together also can be done.

Big-Power Solution in the Middle East

There are reports that both the Soviet Union and Egypt are beginning to consider a meeting with United Nations or United States representatives in a real effort to find a big-power solution to the increasing danger of another hot war in the Middle East

About a month ago Secretary of State William Rogers made suggestions for such a meeting with two major points: the acceptance of the state of Israel by Arab nations and an Israeli withdrawal from occupied territories. This is really the only way a settlement can be found.

But such a conference is in deep trouble for a number of reasons. The Israelis quite rightly feel that giving up some of the occupied areas, expecially the Golan Heights in Syria, would make their defense against attack from Arab nations extremely difficult The apparent military strengthening of several areas with Russian missiles has not done much to encourage them. And then there are the commandos who want an Arab-Israel state to replace Israel and insist they will settle for nothing less They have already shown their power in Jordan and are backed by the leftist governments of Syria and Libya The big question, in case of a settlement arranged through the United States and the Soviet Union, is whether the commandos could be restrained.

Another major problem is that both sides understandably want to come to the conference table from a position of strength. The announcement by U. S. Assistant Secretary of State Joseph Sisco that the Russians have added amphibious troop landing craft to the arsenal of military equipment — and perhaps Soviet pilots — sent to Egypt is alarming because it has once more stepped up the arms race. Now it may be right for the United States to make jet fighters available to the Israelis. Balance is the important factor in the Middle East but with one side or the other playing brinkmanship, it isn't easy to maintain.

Another major danger is that either the United States or the Soviet Union may become so deeply attached to one side or the other that keeping out of a renewed conflict would be impossible. Right now it appears that this is a major Russian mistake. President Nixon and Secretary Rogers have tried to keep in touch with Arab representatives. But the Soviet Union, by supplying ever more sophisticated weapons to Egypt, could be led into war. What if one of those Russian pilots is shot down? What if Israel decides to move and destroy the missile bases" Since the Soviet press is government controled, this could be kept from the Russian people so there wouldn't be the pressure for retaliation that there would be in the United States, for instance. But the rest of the world would know and this in itself could become a unbearable burden for the face-seeking Russians.

It is an extremely dangerous situation. If we were not so involved in Southeast Asia, the risks might not be so great.

A Word Edgewise

Spending for All Campaigns In 1968 Totalled $300 Million

BY JOHN P. ROCHE

Twenty odd years ago my curiosity was aroused by a contested Senatorial election in a Western state. The more I looked into it, the more puzzling it became: the losers had contested every election for almost a generation. Invariably the Senate appointed a committee of inquiry which went out to investigate; invariably the Senate threw out the challenge. It was like a ritual dance.

What was behind all this? I found a talkative Congressman from the state involved and put the question to him. Were the elections in his state memorably crooked? He laughed and suggested that another factor had to be taken into account: "If you examine the amount the Senate has spent investigating those elections, you will discover that — combined with the costs of elections — it constituted the third largest source of income in the state."

"The Senate elections," he concluded, "are a big business."

Pump Not Needed

Today there is no need to rely on investigations to pump purchasing power into the economy. Election costs alone are sufficient. Herbert Alexander, director of the Citizens' Research Foundation, which has done some remarkable studies of the problem, estimates that "spending in campaigns for all offices at stake in 1968, from county commissioner to the Presidency, totaled at least $300 million." (Fortune, March 1970) About $100 million was spent in various Presidential efforts.

The late Senator Robert Kennedy, for example, put out almost $4 million in six weeks. To be more accurate, he incurred obligations for that amount. There is quite a difference between the two statements: $550,000 in bills for the California primary were in fact settled for $180,000 cash! This (and other information that Alexander has obtained) opens up the fascinating question of invisible political financing.

Corporations cannot by federal law make political contributions, yet there are a number of ways around this limitation. Let us examine two of these short cuts using either Alexander's documentation of hypothetical cases based on my personal knowledge.

Every serious candidate for President must have a campaign biography for mass distribution. No publisher in his right mind would put one out as a normal commercial venture, so an agreement is made that the party committee will buy 100,000 copies at, say, 50 cents each. The publisher now has an I. O. U. for $50,000 and the books flow out into the land. Despite their impact, the candidate loses.

Subsequently the publisher sends in his bill and the party committee apologizes and says it is broke. Lawyers appear and work out a settlement at 10 cents on a dollar. the party committee forks over $5,000, and the publisher deducts a $45,000 bad debt from his firm's before-tax income. A corporation has thus made a $45,000 political contribution and I suspect that (unless one can prove the publisher never expected to get paid) it is perfectly legal.

Phone Company Taken

Then there is the telephone company. Elections do put A. T. & T. in a terrible bind. Like radio and TV corporations, the phone companies could demand advance payment in cash from politicians. (The absence of phones might well increase the level of political efficiency. In my experience, most "campagin workers" spend most of their time talking to other "workers" over the phone about "the situation.") But what kind of headline would A. T. & T. get if, in October of an election year, it pulled the phones out of the Democratic National Committee?

So the phone company sits tight and hopes for the best. In the case of the McCarthy primary campaigns a $305,000 bill was finally settled for $75,000 and I hope the spokesmen for "new politics" at least thanked the "military-industrial complex" for this $230,000 donation. The Democratic National Committee is alleged to owe phone companies over $1 million.

A. T. & T. stockholders and management doubtless take a dim view of subsidizing political conversations, but it is hard to find a solution. In the long run, of course, it all comes out of the federal pocket: losses incurred in this fashion are a tax deduction. Perhaps even more expensive for the taxpayer is the use of the federal government for political purposes — the subject of another column.

New Federal Funds Will Spur Airport Development in State

BY FRITZ E. WOLF

MADISON — The President's recent signing of the Airport and Airways Development Act of 1970 will provide the impetus to generate a much needed program of airport development in the state.

A substantial majority of our airport owners are currently faced with major improvement projects of the utmost priority which could not be financed without adequate federal funding. Many airports, both air carrier and general aviation, have been unable to keep pace with the rapidly burgeoning air transportation system and its ever-increasing demands for more and better airport facilities.

The act establishes a trust fund which will be financed entirely by user fees and taxes. The fund is expected to provide approximately $280 million for airports in the first year, and it will have substantial future growth.

It includes several new features which state aviation agencies have long advocated. Perhaps the most significant of those items is the dedication of $15 million annually for planning purposes to be made available on a two-thirds federal, one-third local matching fund basis.

Eligible projects would include regional and state airport system planning as well as individual airport master planning.

Updating in Wisconsin

In Wisconsin, the State Airport System Plan must be updated to insure that the expenditure of federal, state and sponsor funds will result in the greatest benefit to the public at the most economical cost. The availability of federal assistance will allow the state to proceed more rapidly with its system planning and permit the regional planning commissions to undertake comprehensive air transportation studies.

The majority of our state airports are lacking in current master plans. Consequently, many municipal comprehensive plans provide for land uses not compatible with future expansion or improvement of the airports.

With federal assitance now available for individual airport master planning, the Division of Aeronautics is urging owners of state airports to initiate action to undertake master plan studies.

Many current problems, such as aircraft noise complaints, could have been avoided if reasonable compatible land use zoning had been properly utilized. Such zoning cannot be based on present airport configurations if adequate protection is to be provided for the airport and its neighbors. A current comprehensive master plan must be the guide for reasonable and effective zoning.

Instrument Aids Needed

In Wisconsin, an aircraft owner, corporate, certificated airline, or commuter air carrier, cannot realize the full utility of equipment because of the lack of adequate navigational and instrument approach aids in the state.

Our neighboring states, with larger aeronautics budgets, have done an outstanding job of developing supplemental state-owned navigational aid systems. With federal funding assitance, the Division of Aeronautics will proceed to install aids on a priority basis.

Instrument approach aids are badly needed in the northern half of the state for the greater portion of the north is closed to air travel when ceilings and visibility are low.

With the rapid growth of tourist air travel, adequate access to the northern recreational areas is vital to the economy of Wisconsin.

Fritz Wolf, guest columnist for John Wyngaard, has played a key part in the development of the Wisconsin public airport system and was named administrator of the Aeronautics Division when the state's transportation services were merged in the new Department of Transportation under the Kellett state government reorganization act two years ago.

Thoughts at Large Offered by Harris

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

The call for "objectivity" in reporting is ignorantly absurd, for the surest way of conveying misinformation is to give nothing but the facts; facts pulled out of the matrix of meaning result in worse misinterpretations than opinions frankly offered as such.

It is true that the believer finds it hard to explain the mystery of pain and evil; but the unbeliever must find it equally hard to explain the mystery of pleasure and goodness, which he takes for granted, while complaining about the former.

It is a dangerous half-truth to suggest that children become "spoiled" by "giving them too much;" they become spoiled only by giving them too much of the wrong things as a substitute for interest, attention and intelligent supervision; it is bribery that ruins a child, not the mere bestowing of material things.

Frustration is the difference between what you are and what you know you ought to be; at this level, everyone is frustrated.

Sex Discouraged by Nixon Administration

WASHINGTON — Mr. John Corry has written a piece in the July Harper's magazine titled "Washington, Sex and Power." Corry's conclusions are that there is not as much sex in Washington as one might think, and while power acts as an aphrodisiac, more men in high positions get their kicks from politics than they do from bedfellows.

Corry says that Democrats are better Don Juans than Republicans, though some of the biggest lechers in Washington are middle-aged Republican conservatives, who were described by one hostess as "knee grabbers."

Corry says Southerners are better at horsing around than Northerners, and people who live in Georgetown are more interested in "what the kids are thinking" than having an affair with someone who lives in Bethesda, Md.

It is interesting to note that at the very time Corry was doing research on his piece for Harper's, a more in-depth study was being done by Prof. Heinrich Applebaum for the National Institute of Domestic Affairs, otherwise known as NIDA (pronounced either needa or neghda depending on how you feel at the time).

Startling Revelations

Prof. Applebaum's study, titled "Sex and the Washington Monument," has come up with some startling revelations.

For one thing, there hasn't been one illicit affair in Washington since the Nixon Administration took over. This compares favorably with the Johnson Administration when there were three and the Kennedy Administration when there were four. (There were no statistics kept during the Eisenhower years.)

Applebaum indicates that there are several reasons for the lack of hanky-panky during the present regime.

One is that Atty. Gen. John Mitchell's penchant for wire-tapping has frightened off thousands of officials who had been thinking about it.

Another reason is the night sessions that the Senate has been forced to hold because of the debate on the Church-Cooper amendment. Ironically, this would have been a perfect excuse for senators to engage in some extracurricular activity, except for the fact that they never knew when they would be called for a roll-call vote. It would be very hard to explain to their wives where they had been when the Washington Post reported the next morning that they were marked "absent."

Since this is an election year, House members have been so busy running for office they haven't had time to think about sex, Applebaum says. He also makes the point that most congressmen are so strapped for cash they would rather put money in their campaign fund than spend it on some young secretary or passionate constituent.

Nixon Appointees

As for the executive branch, Applebaum's study revealed that Nixon appointees prefer watching spectators sports on TV rather than getting involved themselves.

Also, Applebaum points out, Nixon Administration officials have been so drained trying to get through to someone in the White House each day that they're not good for much except to head home and go right to sleep.

The press and TV corps in Washington might have gotten into trouble, Applebaum notes, except for Spiro Agnew. The only thing the Vice President hasn't accused the press of, so far, is adultery. To keep Agnew from making such a charge, the entire membership of the National Press Club has taken a vow of chastity, which will remain in effect as long as the Vice President is in office.

If there has been any talk of sex in Washington, it's come from the Pentagon. Every time someone in Congress tries to cut the military budget, everyone in the Defense establishment starts screaming "rape."

Increased Safety Measures Sought

Increased traffic safety aids have been added at the intersection of U. S. 10 and Outagamie-Waupaca County Trunk D, scene of two fatal accidents in two weeks.

Still further precautionary measures may be taken, according to police and highway officials who met at the county borderline intersection Wednesday afternoon.

The intersection was examined by officials from Waupaca and Outagamie Counties and from the Wisconsin Rapids and Green Bay district offices of the Division of Highways, State Department of Transportation.

Both fatal accidents, which claimed a total of three lives, were charged to Waupaca County because the collisions occurred west of the County Trunk D centerline. The centerline separates Waupaca and Outagamie Counties.

Added Signs

Clarence Brownson, Outagamie County highway commissioner, said today that two more "stop ahead" signs were installed for both northbound and southbound traffic on D. There had been only one sign facing each way, Brownson said.

In addition, the stop ahead signs were increased in size from 30 inches in diameter to 36 inches, and black and white "tiger strip" boards were placed below the warning signs as an added measure to alert motorists.

Brownson said state highway officials also increased the size of the stop signs at U.S. 10 and put in an additional stop sign for traffic moving each way on D.

Fred Grunwald, Waupaca County highway commissioner, said that further precautionary measures taken since the fatal accidents include the marking of the intersection as a crossroad and the installation of "advisory speed signs of 50 miles per hour."

Flashing Lights

Recommendations discussed at Wednesday's meeting included the installation of flashing lights on the stop signs and the adding of "rumble strips" near the intersection.

No action was taken on the recommendations, although Brownson said they may come up for discussion at his county highway committee meeting Monday.

Something may have to be done about a beer sign light at the intersection. Brownson said. While examining the area for 1½ hours Monday night, he noted, the light appeared to affect the driver's visibility of a stop sign. Brownson felt the sign may have to be moved.

Grunwald said his agency is limited in the measures it can take at the intersection.

Split Control

"The first five miles of County Trunk D south of New London are built, maintained and controlled by Waupaca County," he explained. The next five miles, including the roadway at the scene of the accidents, is under full supervision of Outagamie County, according to Grunwald. "Outagamie County builds it, maintains it and receives full state aids for it," he said.

For that reason, Grunwald held, Outagamie and not Waupaca county should have been charged with the three traffic deaths.

Brownson held that accidents are few in relation to the volume of traffic at 10-D.

Outagamie County traffic records show that there has been one accident (non-fatal) there this year, none in 1969 and one in 1968. There has not been a fatal traffic accident on the Outagamie County side in at least 10 years, an official said.

Brownson said he was more inclined to make a full investigation into the circumstances surrounding all phases of the accident, including backgrounds on the drivers, rather than "jumping to conclusions" about the condition of the roadway and the intersection.

One of the recent fatal accidents occurred in early afternoon and the second was late at night.

Kimberly Woman Dies Of Carbon Monoxide Poisoning in Garage

KIMBERLY — Mrs Richard Buechler, 60, 223 S. John St., was discovered dead by her husband about 6 a m today in a garage at home. Mr Buechler had just returned from work.

Authorities said the woman, who had been despondent because of ill health, was discovered sitting in a chair behind the car with its engine running. The garage door was closed.

Outagamie County Corner Bernard H Kemps said death was due to carbon monoxide poisoning. Kimberly police took part in the investigation. Kemps said the woman had been dead about an hour.

The body was released to the Jansen Funeral Home.

Driver in Fatal Crash Sentenced Gets Six Months

A 25-year-old Milwaukee man, who last May 8 was driving an auto involved in an accident in which Howard A Waupoose, 21, Milwaukee, was killed, was sentenced Wednesday to six months in the Outagamie County jail on a charge of driving after revocation of his driver's license.

Robert J. Daniels pleaded guilty to the count in County Court Branch 2. Acting County Judge Gustave J. Keller ordered revocation of Daniels' right to apply for a driver license for another year.

Waupoose was killed when Daniels lost control of the car on a curve, and it rolled over three times on State 47, about five miles north of Black Creek.

Keller ordered the maximum sentence for Daniels, "because a fatality was involved."

Young Bicycle Rider Suffers Bruises in Mishap With Auto

A 7-year-old Appleton bicycle rider suffered rib bruises Wednesday evening when he was bumped by an auto in the 400 block of E. Wisconsin Avenue.

Police said David E. Thorson, 513 E. Randall St., was taken home by his mother after the mishap. They said the boy was crossing Wisconsin, and circling in the road when the rear of the bike was struck lightly by an auto driven by Thomas O. Techlin, 21, 819 E. Winnebago St.

Techlin, who was not held, attempted to avoid the cyclist before the mishap, authorities said.

County Wants State to Help Pay for Fest

IOLA — "Who is going to clean up the mess?" and "Who is going to pay for it?"

These were two questions which members of a Waupaca County Board committee wanted answered Wednesday at the special State Senate committee investigation called by Sen Gerald Lorge (R-Bear Creek).

Sheriff Loran Frazier answered the questions "I don't know."

The hope remained alive that the legislature would explore every possible means of giving financial assistance to the Town of Iola.

Supv Woodrow Smith, Clintonville, chairman of Waupaca County's Finance Committee, asked the special group, "Has the state ever provided funds through the legislature to assist the counties in matters of this kind?" He was inquiring about costs of special law enforcement as well as cleanup.

In reply, Lorge called attention to the special committee and said, "It has happened here in this town and it could happen again."

Attending the hearing Wednesday were 16 members from the county's Executive Committee, the Law Enforcement Committee and the Finance Committee.

Youths Get Hung Up On Bridge Bagging Pigeons for Pig Fair

Two of three juveniles who were stranded Tuesday afternoon under the College Avenue Bridge while catching pigeons were brought to safety by an aerial truck of the Appleton Fire Department.

Juvenile detectives said the youths told them they were bagging the birds to sell at the Pig Fair. One of the three slid down an eaves trough and the bag fell to the flats below, killing the birds.

The two remaining boys got stuck on a rain-slicked steel beam.

All three were released to their parents.

Council Okays Study Of City Sewage Plant

In a brief but busy semi-monthly session Wednesday night, the Appleton City Council took action including the launching of a 10-month study expected to reveal to what lengths the city must go to upgrade its sewage treatment plant to state standards.

Aldermen unanimously approved a recommendation to hire Consoer-Townsend & Associates, Inc., of Chicago, to perform the sewage plant study.

The engineers will analyze all materials received by the treatment plant as well as waste produced by two local paper firms expected to seek attachment in the near future. The cost of the studies are estimated at a maximum of $25,000 for the basic project, plus up to $22,500 for laboratory and pilot plant studies.

Public Works Director Robert Miller said the resulting data will make up the bulk of the information needed for construction of the plant improvements.

In other business, the council:

City-School Committee

— Approved Mayor George Buckley's appointment of Aldermen Edward Maloney (9th), Mrs. Judith Winzenz (12th) and Richard Schouten (19th) to a city-school committee to study local bus problems and solutions. Buckley also reported that School Board President Kenneth Sager has appointed board members Mrs. Mabel McClanahan and Grand Chute Town Chairman Ira Livingston.

— Received a resolution from Ald. William Errington (15th) to turn over the Langedyke Park and school site to the Board of Education and Parks and Recreation Commission, along with making any necessary fund transfers. Development of the park is about to enter its beginning stages.

— On motion of Ald. Norman Beyer (20th), Streets and Sanitation chairman, referred back to his committee a request by Public Works Director Robert Miller for himself and two superintendents to attend a public works conference and equipment show in Dallas, Texas. Beyer is said to want Miller to go alone.

— Approved a plan by Phillip B. Sinkonich, who is promoting a make-work project for college students who plan to paint street address numbers on curbs throughout the city and seek voluntary donations from residents. Numbers will be painted, Sinkonich recently assured officials, whether residents wish to contribute or not.

Request Denied

— Denied a request from the Winnegamie Dog Club to use the municipal garage for its 1971 dog show, due to inconveniences created for the Department of Public Works, but granted a request from the Appleton Gallery of Arts to use City Park for its annual art show with the group paying the costs of installing snow fence for the event.

—Approved renting a Caterpillar tractor at $2,200 per month from Brebner Equipment, Inc., of De Pere, for operating the Mackville Landfill, until next year when funds will be sought to purchase a tractor.

—Acclaimed the Americanos Drum & Bugle Corps for its activities and wished the youthful group success in the state American Legion corps competition next weekend. Ald. Judith Winzenz (12th) sponsored the resolution.

—Endorsed resolutions from Mayor George Buckley urging state legislation to provide added financial aid for local police departments and to reform current methods of distributing state aids and taxes shared with localities.

—Authorized the city attorney to hire appraisers and start condemnation proceedings to provide easements for a sewer trunk main into the North East Industrial Park.

—Instituted a policy permitting automatic payments from the Finance Department, providing the mayor and public works director approve, to contractors working for the city. The policy does not include final payments or payments to contractors whose billings exceed bid estimates, which still require full Works Board and Council passage.

—Overruled objections from property owners and authorized new blacktop pavement for Bouten and Bennett streets.

Request Goes to Committee

Aldermen Object to Loitering, But Refuse to Remove Planters

A request by downtown merchants to remove decorative planters in front of the H. C. Prange Co. department store set Appleton aldermen to tearing their hair over the antics of some members of the younger generation.

But, the City Council refused Wednesday night to take immediate action on the removal request, and it was sent to a committee for consideration.

Ronald Reynolds, manager of Schlafer Supply, Inc., and a member of the Downtown Retail Association of the Chamber of Commerce, presented the association's request to have the planters removed immediately.

Backed by Ald. Robert Roemer (8th) Reynolds complained of "harassment" of shoppers by youths who congregate on, in and around the planters outside the Prange's entrance.

He said the retail group is unanimous in seeking removal of the masonry planters and attached benches, and said he believed Prange's is prepared to pay the cost.

Try Something Else

But, Ald. Alvin E. Tews (5th), was supported by other aldermen when he said the city should "try anything short of removing the planters" first, in an effort to discourage the congregations of unruly young people.

"There must be some way of handling these clowns without destroying what we built a few years ago," said Tews.

The Streets and Sanitation Committee has authorized Public Works Director Robert Mills to install "loafer rails" designed to make sitting uncomfortable atop one of the planters, as a trial.

But, Miller reported it could take several months for delivery of the speciality items, and Reynolds said that was too long. "Our urgency is immediate," he said. He said installing the rails might amount to "taunting these people."

Rule Suspension Loses

After extended, graphic discussion of the activities of some of the youths, and exploratory proposals to stiffen the city's antiloitering law, the council took a voice vote on whether to suspend the rules to permit immediate action. Mayor George Buckley weighed the divided vote and ruled the motion had lost.

The planters have recently gained increasing attention, with widespread reports that the site has been used as an exchange point in the local drug traffic.

Roemer reported, "People that know tell me that these young hoodlums make advances to women, pat them on the rear as they go by." He said he was sure removing the planters would halt the problem, but other aldermen said it might simply shift the action somewhere else.

Reynolds added that young people climb planters, jump from them onto nearby parked cars and play ball in the street. Out-of-town shoppers, he said, "have been harassed and simply are not shopping here anymore."

'20-Kid Rating'

He suggested replacing the planters with smaller units. "It's the size of the planters. They are so big they hold 20 kids."

Buckley equipped, "I didn't know they had a 20-kid rating."

Some of the aldermen also treated the matter with jocularity, suggesting electrifying the rail, or filling the planters with ink.

Police Chief Earl O. Wolff was asked about police control of the problem. He replied that though a few arrests have been made, generally the young people's activities don't violate the ordinances against blocking sidewalks and doorways.

Stiffer Ordinance

Asked whether a stiffer ordinance would help, he said it might, but pointed out the difficulty of prohibiting loitering by young people without also ruling out use of the planter benches by persons with legitimate purposes such as waiting for rides or just relaxing.

Nevertheless, Ald. Walter Kalata (2nd) submitted a resolution after the meeting proposing that it be made unlawful "to sit, lean or otherwise occupy, in any manner, any planter or object intended for decorative purposes in the City of Appleton, which is not designed as a seating area or appliance. Provided, however, if such object has a seating area, then that specific section will be exempted."

The retail group's request will be taken up by the Streets and Sanitation Committee, and Kalata's resolution goes to the Welfare and Ordinance Committee.

Cornell, Obey Receive COPE Endorsements

Labor Group's Backing Carries Financial Aid

MILWAUKEE — The Rev. Robert Cornell of De Pere and Rep. David Obey, D-Wausau, are among candidates who have received the endorsement of the Wisconsin AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education (COPE).

Cornell is one of two Democrats hoping to oppose Republican Rep. John Byrnes of Green Bay for his 8th District congressional seat in November.

Obey is seeking re-election to his first full term as 7th District congressman after having won a special election last year to succeed Defense Secretary Melvin Laird.

Cornell and Michael Jolin of Appleton face a primary election runoff in September for the Democratic nomination.

The COPE endorsement carries financial as well as moral support by the labor organization's political action arm.

Others Expected

The state committee, meanwhile, is awaiting a recommendation from the 6th Congressional District COPE organization, as well as the 4th and 5th District groups, before making endorsements.

Franklin Utech of Oshkosh, the Democratic candidate opposing Republican Rep. William A. Steiger, also of Oshkosh, is expected to get the 6th District nod.

The state endorsements were announced Tuesday by John W. Schmitt, state AFL-CIO president, who said the 30-member committee made the choices last weekend during a meeting at Eagle River.

One Republican

Only one Republican, 10th District Rep. Alvin E. O'Konski of Rhinelander, was among the endorsed candidates.

Heading the list of Democrats was gubernatorial candidate Patrick J. Lucey of Madison.

For lieutenant governor, however, the organization said either State Sen. Martin J. Schrieber of Milwaukee or State Rep. Frank Nikolay of Abbottsford would be acceptable.

Thomas Jacobson of Milwaukee won the endorsement for attorney general. No endorsements were made for state treasurer or secretary of state, which COPE said are not policy-making posts.

Other congressional candidates picked include:

Rep. Robert Kastenmeier, 2nd District; Robert Short, Platteville, 3rd, and Fred N. Tabak, Milwaukee, 9th.

Appleton Council Committee Urges State Aid Reform

An Appleton City Council committee has recommended urging the League of Wisconsin Municipalities to propose revisions in state aids and taxes shared with communities.

The resolution offered by Mayor George Buckley will be presented to the League's October convention if it wins Council approval Wednesday. Local legislators will receive copies in addition to the League if the measure passes.

The council's Finance Committee endorsed the resolution after one member, Ald. Robert Roemer (8th), voiced skepticism that Appleton would gain from revisions that have been proposed in present formulas.

He quoted an official of an organization of Madison suburbs who told Roemer recently Appleton would be "a distinct loser" under changes proposed by the Tarr Task Force on local government and taxation

Finance Director David Champion said it depends on whose figures are used whether individual cities show gains or losses. He added that Buckley's resolution does not specifically mention the Tarr formulas, but merely says changes are needed

"We've got an inequitable system now," said Champion, and Roemer agreed

Ald Alvin Tews (5th), chairman, asked Buckley whether it would hurt the cause if the League rejects the resolution overwhelmingly. Buckley said no. "At least we've made the effort," the mayor added

To Your Good Health

'Weakness Disease' A Difficult Disorder

BY GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M. D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What causes myasthenia gravis and at what age? Is there any known cure? Do drugs wear off and become ineffectual?

Is it better to exercise to the limit of endurance or to rest? If the respiratory tract is affected, will a person probably choke to death or is the heart more likely to fail first? — N.W.

Dr. Thosteson

Myasthenia gravis is a difficult disorder of the functioning of muscles. Basically it is a defect in the transmission of nerve impulses. These impulses do not reach the mucle fibers adequately. As a result, muscle weakness is the chief symptom — a "sleepy expression," due to drooping of the eyelids, often is the first visible symptom. Anyway, extreme fatigue occurs from muscular activity

The cause of the disease is not known. In older men, it has been theorized that a disorder of the thymus gland is involved However, results from removal of the thymus had not been consistent (Some reports indicate that the disease is easier to control in women under 40 if the thymus is removed.)

For whatever reasons, the disorder tends to appear in women in their 20s, but in men not usually until after 60.

Although there is no cure, the disorder is controlled by what are called anticholinergic drugs. Common ones are prostigmine, tensilon, mestinon, and mytelase. Drugs do not lose their effectiveness, but it must be remembered that, if the disease becomes more pronounced, the drugs may not be able to cope as adequately with it

Dosage is adjusted to give the most desirable results, but it may have to be increased in the event of infection.

The degree of muscle weakness, in conjunction with the degree of effectiveness of the drugs, will determine one's endurance. Fatigue lessens with rest; hence pushing oneself to maximum activity is not in order

The respiratory tract and the heart are not affected by the disease Choking spells can occur in severe and advanced cases, but this is due to weakness of muscles related to swallowing, not to muscles used for breathing.

Dear Dr. Trosteson: Some friends were recently compelled to wear safety glasses while on the job Can these weaken the eyes of people who have never worn glasses of any kind? The glasses are a nuisance to people who have never worn glasses. — B.O.

Wearing such glasses won't harm the eyes any more than eyes would be harmed by looking through a window. But safety glasses can prevent flying particles from getting in the eyes and even causing blindness. Maybe it's a nuisance to get used to wearing them, but the safety is worth it.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Do stomach ulcers ever rupture? I have been told by friends that if I don't have my ulcer removed it might rupture. I have your booklet on ulcers but it doesn't mention that possibility — Mrs. L A.

Suppose you start ignoring the advice of your friends and let your doctor do the advising The reason the booklet doesn't mention "rupturing" is because that's the wrong word for what may happen. Sometimes a peptic (meaning either in the stomach or duodenum) ulcer becomes deep enough to perforate — that is, create a puncture. And that, admittedly, is a serious situation

Better you read the booklet over again, learn how to baby the ulcer along and heal it, because stomach surgery, while sometimes necessary, is no fun

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible

Mercury Pollution Discovery Cutting Into Tourist Trade

MADISON (AP) — A veteran state senator says the recent scare caused by the discovery of mercury pollution in the Wisconsin River has cut into the northern Wisconsin tourist trade

"There's no question we've been hurt," said Sen. Clifford Krueger, R-Merrill, chairman of the Senate Conservation Committee.

"Some people have canceled their reservations at resorts as a direct result of the mercury disclosure," Krueger said in an interview Tuesday. "Some canceled without giving a reason."

"This hits the heart of my district," he added. "Those (persons) along the river are very much disturbed, particularly at Rhinelander and Tomahawk."

The State Department of Natural Resources (DNR) announced July 1 it was recommending that persons eat Wisconsin River fish no more than once a week because of unacceptable amounts of mercury in fish.

The 350-mile stretch of river is being posted with signs cautioning against over-consumption of the fish.

"The people along the river are very much disturbed over the posting of these signs," Krueger said. "They realize the warnings must be posted, though, because the mercury has been discovered."

Business War Forecast With Import Quotas

WASHINGTON (AP) — House tax writers have wrapped up a precedent-breaking bill to limit imports by continuing the present system of quotas on foreign oil.

The House Ways and Means Committee completed its basic decisions late Wednesday on the strongly protectionist bill, which breaks with the country's freer-trade policies dating to the New Deal of the 1930s.

Oil imports are subject now to quotas under national security legislation broad enough to allow the president to use other control methods.

As the committee was finishing its report, the State Department's top economic expert was forecasting the possibility of a business war between the United States and its main trading partners.

Trade War

"There is a danger of trade war if everybody gets into an eye-for-eye policy," Nathaniel Samuels, deputy undersecretary of state for economic affairs, said in an interview.

The basic trouble, Samuels said, is an increase in protectionist sentiment all over the world. "The question is: Can we contain it?" he added.

He referred to a fear that the European Common Market might retaliate, perhaps by imposing heavy duties on American soybeans, should Congress approve textile import quotas proposed by the Ways and Means Committee.

Ways and Means proposed Tuesday quotas be established on textile articles and shoes. The committee plan would allow the president to order quotas on other imports deemed to threaten U.S. industries.

Determine Levels

The committee's language on oil imports requires that only quotas be used in control of imports under the national security legislation, leaving the president free to determine the level of quotas.

A Cabinet committee, in a split decision, had recommended President Nixon shift to a tariff system for oil. Nixon has kept the matter under advisement, ordering studies by another group.

In another decision Wednesday, the committee gave the president authority to increase imports of articles, despite quotas, when he finds the supply insufficient to meet U.S. demand at reasonable prices.

The provision was termed toothless by Rep. Charles A. Vanik, D-Ohio, who tried unsuccessfully to write in broader language for a suspension of quotas in cases where prices rise precipitately.

Shoe Costs

Meanwhile, the American Footwear Manufacturers Association challenged estimates that costs of some consumer articles might rise as much as 30 per cent if the quotas are put in effect.

"The unrestricted flood of shoe imports over the past five years has not been accompanied by any price reduction," association Chairman Hadley Griffin said in a statement.

He added: "Import quotas do not mean a restriction in supply and higher prices if the domestic industry has plenty of capacity and is highly competitive."

The committee turned its decisions over to its technical staff to be put into legislative language, which it will review beginning July 28. Any provision could be changed in the review before the measure is sent to the House, but the prospect is remote.

Multi-lateral Problem

Samuels, the State Department trade expert, said trading partners of the United States made a grave mistake more than a year ago when they refused to deal with the textile problem in this country on a multilateral basis.

"Our plan was to take care of textiles, the sector where the strongest protectionist sentiment exists, hoping that then we could hold the line in other areas," Samuels said. "We failed to get voluntary agreements and during the period which passed, all protectionist elements got mobilized and now there is more irritation and acrimony than ever before."

Samuels said U.S. trading partners never believed that the quotas proposal would be approved by the Ways and Means Committee. "And now they are concerned," he added.

Samuels said the quotas may serve as a temporary respite for industries which claim to be in trouble. But these industries, he declared, "must adjust themselves to the rapidly changing situation if they want to remain competitive."

He Was Treated Humanely in China, Bishop Walsh Says

By DAVID J. PAINE
Associated Press Writer

HONG KONG (AP) — Roman Catholic Bishop James E. Walsh said today his treatment during 12 years imprisonment in Red China was "always humane—the meals were good and ample, medical attention was good."

The 79-year-old prelate, who was freed July 8, told a news conference that although his Communist captors interrogated him "morning, noon and night" for 18 months, until he finally signed a confession to spying, he never was beaten or physically mistreated.

It was "just mental pressure," said the bishop, who is slowly getting his strength back in the Hong Kong hospital operated by his Maryknoll Order.

The bishop said his jailers supplied him Chinese and English books and publications, including "David Copperfield" and "A Tale of Two Cities." And despite his long imprisonment, he said he had "no bitterness toward those who tried and condemned me."

No Anger

"I just could never feel angry with any Chinese," he said. "I felt that way almost from the first day I set foot in China in 1918, and it has just grown stronger with the years, even during my imprisonment."

Speaking from a wheelchair, Bishop Walsh said he will rest a few more weeks in the hospital, "then return to my homeland." His home is in Cumberland, Md., and he said he also hopes to go to Rome to visit Pope Paul VI when he can travel.

The bishop said he was arrested in Shanghai in 1958 for allegedly possessing "state secret information about a submarine built in Shanghai and about Chinese weapons used in the Korean War."

"The evidence they produced," he continued, "was that a friend of mine in the shipping business in Shanghai had told me a submarine was built in Shanghai and that that was a state secret. My listening to that from the lips of my friend constituted me as a spy."

He said the Communists also alleged that a Chinese who fought in the Korean War visited his Catholic Center in Shanghai and told him about weapons used in the war.

"I did not know a single word this young man said," the bishop said, explaining that a Chinese priest translated the soldier's remarks to him in Latin—a "dead language" containing no words to describe modern weapons, he said.

All Missionaries

"Finally, one day I got worn out and tired with the whole thing," the bishop said. "I finally said: 'I may have become a spy in your legal sense. I know you consider all missionaries to be spies. You say these two things under your laws make me a spy and that may be true within the meaning of your legal sense but not in the commonly accepted sense'."

Bishop Walsh said he signed a confession the following day, after it was "whittled down to admit that 'I may have become a spy in a legal sense'." He added that he does not repudiate the statement now, as long as it is understood "in the proper sense."

His trial, he said, was held in the Municipal Court building in Shanghai, in a very large room, before "half a dozen" judges. The prosecuting attorney was on one side of the room and the defense attorney on the other, with all proceedings translated into English. There was an audience of some hundreds of people in the room, he said.

Defense Attorney

The bishop said his defense attorney "admitted everything and really condemned me, just as roundly as the prosecuting attorney did, saying everything charged against me was of course true. On the other hand, he said that because I was an old man and some of these things had happened years before, I should be given a little bit of leniency."

The bishop was sentenced to 20 years in prison. The announcement last weekend of his release, eight years before completion of his sentence, was coupled with the announcement that Hugh F. Redmond of Yonkers, N.Y., had committed suicide three months before in a Shanghai prison. Redmond was sentenced to life imprisonment on spy charges in 1954. The bishop said he knew nothing of Redmond's death.

Bishop Walsh was accompanied at the news conference by Father John McCormack, superior general of the Maryknoll Order.

"If Bishop Walsh was guilty of any crime, it was the crime of loving the Chinese people so much he was willing to give himself entirely for them," Father McCormack said.

Land, Money Measure For Alaskan Natives Gets Senate Approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has passed a bill giving Alaskan natives 10 million acres of land and $1 billion—the biggest land claims payment in history.

The bill, facing an uncertain fate in the House, calls for the payment to be distributed among descendants of the wandering hunters and fishermen who originally settled the harsh land.

The Senate adopted the measure 76 to 8 Wednesday after inserting an amendment to provide for competitive bidding for mineral rights on all federal lands in Alaska.

Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel, former governor of the state, said, "For Alaskans and for millions of Americans throughout the 50 states who have been frustrated over the years in trying to do something positive, progressive and fair for America's first citizens, this should be considered a great victory."

Appropriations

Congressional appropriations totaling $500 million over 12 years.

—Royalties totaling $500 million from oil and other mineral production on all public lands in the state.

—Land grants totaling over 10 million acres, including 5.9 million acres to 200 native villages, 3 million to a service corporation for timber production and other use; 635,000 acres for individual homesites and hunting, fishing and trapping campsites, and 500,000 to North Slope natives.

Corporations Established

The bill set up corporations to handle the $1 billion for housing, education, welfare investment and other uses for the state's 55,000 Eskimos, Aleuts and Indians.

An amendment to increase the land grants to 40 million acres as urged by native groups was rejected 71 to 13.

Also defeated was an effort to strike a section calling for a study aimed at transferring to the state welfare and other other services provided by the Bureau of Indian Affairs for Alaska Indians.

The amendment requiring competitive leasing for mineral rights was offered by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., who said it was needed to prevent large giveaways of Alaska oil to large oil companies and speculators.

Republican opponents argued against the amendment—approved by a 47-35 vote—on grounds it would restrict exploration and possibly break small independent operators.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy said he voted against the measure because, "We are not giving the natives anything."

"They have lived on the land from time immemorial, they have never sold it, never negotiated a treaty, never been conquered. And Congress has never dealt with these natives other than in terms of recognition of their rights.

"We are determining, here and now, how much of their own land they are to be allowed to keep, and we must respect the natives' own estimate of their minimum needs," Kennedy said.

State Fire Marshal Investigates Attempted School Fire Bombing

PRAIRIE DU CHIEN (AP) — A state fire marshal arrived Tuesday in Prairie du Chien to investigate the attempted fire bombing of a school for retarded children.

Authorities disclosed for the first time Tuesday that they had found two fire bombs and a gallon of fuel oil Saturday night on the steps of the Wyalusing Academy.

The wick in one of the fire bombs was burning when it was discovered, local authorities said. They are aiding in the investigation.

Eric Berne, who wrote "Games People Play" as a psychiatry textbook and saw it become a best-seller, died Wednesday at the age of 60. Another book, "Sex is Okay, Even in America," is scheduled for publication this fall. Berne was a lecturer at the University of California Medical Center and lived in Carmel. (AP Wirephoto)
